A MARVELLOUS PURCHASE OF BLOUSE AND DRESS NETS.

CLEARING AT FROM 33 1-3 TO 50 PER CENT.

BELOW REGULAR PRICES.

We speak of a thing as marvellous when it is so much out of the ordinary course as to seem nearly or quite incredible. And marvellous fittingly describes this remarkable offer we list to-day.

Just picture beautiful Tosca Nets, and Spotted Nets, in a host of glorious spot designs, Cobweb Nets, Silk Chantilly and Spanish Lace Nets, in Black, White, Ivory, Paris, and various colours.

Then picture the prices at ordinary times, and contrast them with these rigorous reductions. You will at once decide the time to buy Nets is to-day—at Farmer's.

Coming as it does just on the threshold of the winter social whirl, when the creation of Evening Gowns is contemplated, it is an opportune time to make a selection from this charming exposition of net loveliness.

TO COUNTRY PATRONS—

These Lines will sell out rapidly, and as it is impossible for us to repeat them, we cannot send patterns of any of the following:—

TOURIST TRAFFIC.

To those wishing to TRAVEL IN THE EAST the season is now favourable, with SMOOTH SEAS and IMMUNITY FROM CYCLONIC AND OTHER DISTURBANCES.
Although Visitors generally choose Spring or Autumn for visiting JAPAN the SUMMER is also FAVOURABLE, the MAGNIFICENT HOTELS in HIGH ALTITUDES affording an INVIGORATING AND PLEASANT TIME, while there is usually MORE ACCOMMODATION on the steamers.
For JAVA, SINGAPORE, AND STRAITS SETTLEMENTS the next three or four months should be the MOST SUITABLE time to LEAVE AUSTRALIA, and passengers should BOOK EARLY to SECURE GOOD ACCOMMODATION.
INDIA should be visited towards the end of the year, and the great DURBAR at DELHI in December is supposed to be carried out under the BEST WEATHER CONDITIONS.
As far as the SOUTH SEA ISLANDS are concerned, during the whole of the cool weather in Australia FROM APRIL TO OCTOBER, is the BEST TIME to visit NEW GUINEA, SOLOMONS, AND ELSEWHERE THROUGHOUT THE SOUTH PACIFIC.
CIRCULAR TOURS by all ROUTES so as to obtain BEST CLIMATIC CONDITIONS and COMFORTABLE TRAVELLING.

WARM WINTER VESTS,

OF BRITISH WOOL.

Our Winter is so mild that for many men a warm knitted Vest gives all the protection needed from the cold.

These we offer are knitted of pure wool, both front and back with a woolly surface—protecting the parts of the body most subject to chills, and yet so elastic in knit as to give perfect freedom to every movement of the limbs.

We have them in Light and Dark Grey, Green and Black, and in Green and Brown-striped patterns all of them, with self edges—with four pockets.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Notice is hereby given that on and after a date to be announced in a later advertisement, the Dredge HUNTER will be at work day and night in the fairway at the entrance of Newcastle Harbour, deepening the bar.

Masters of vessels entering or leaving that Port must pass the Dredge slowly, and on the northern side, unless otherwise indicated by the usual Dredge Signals. Should the Master or Pilot in charge of a vessel about to pass the Dredge consider it necessary for her to heave out of the fairway a prolonged blast of the steam whistle of either the steamship or tug should be sounded as soon as the vessel is fairly in sight of the Dredge. Great care should be taken to avoid fouling either the dredge or its moorings.

By order of the Acting Superintendent.

MAGNIFICENT COTTAGE RESIDENCE.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL HOME IN THE WESTERN SUBURBS.

Being sold solely on account of the owner going abroad, together with the beautiful Furnishings and Appointments if required.

This charming Cottage was built specially for the present owner, absolutely regardless of cost, and it was never intended that it should be sold.

It stands in the midst of beautifully laid-out grounds, in area about one acre, and is within easy distance of train or tram. Contains magnificent entrance hall and side hall, lovely drawing room (25 x 16), beautifully decorated, splendid dining-room (26 x 16), richly appointed, best bedroom (26 x 16), with dressing room and private bathroom opening off, fitted with porcelain bath, hot and cold water, marble basin, walls and floor tiled with very best quality of tiles, 5 other large bedrooms, maid's room, smoking room, opening on to a charming conservatory, breakfast room, second bathroom, with choice appointments, also with hot and cold water service. Large storeroom, butler's pantry, linen closets, glass and china closets, etc.

Wide verandahs front and side, with inlaid granite floor and marble nosings, also wide verandahs specially designed for sleeping out.

Brick motor garage, detached laundry, man's room, stables, aviaries.

It is impossible, within the limits of an advertisement, to adequately describe this fine property. I can, however, recommend it to anyone on the outlook for such a residence.

Inspection by card only, or buyers will be driven to inspect.

SPECIAL ARTICLES, ETC.

The Pastoral Columns contain a most interesting article on the investigation of stock parasites now being carried on in Australia. An article on the production of horses in relation to the motor, is given, as well as an informative reference to the leeches in the north, and their [illegible] relation to cancer in stock. "Meira," in the [illegible] columns, treats a most important point which cropped up at the recent Royal Show through the [illegible] of a heavy horse, and he incidentally urges the need for more herd books. The same writer in the dairy section, debates the subject of co-operation in the industry, and the necessity for extending the principle. "Rupertia," in the fruit columns, gives some impressions of a trip through the orchard country about Glenorie. The series of bee articles is continued with one of a very interesting character. Many other matters of importance are dealt with by expert writers.

In a reply to some strictures from New Zealand "Milroy" supplies much matter that is of interest to the average reader concerning two champions of old. Late racing is exhaustively dealt with, and some cogent reasons are given for alteration in the w.f.a. scale, and allowances to untried horses. The coming Derby, English classic races, and the cross-country blue ribbon of the world, and all topical events make an interesting page.

All Grade and other Cricket Matches, besides other Branches of Sport, are discussed.

"Rothschild" contributes a Budget to the Trotting and Pacing Columns.

"Housewife" gives hints on the management of the Home, and refers to social events of the week.

NOTICES.

The "Herald's" Page for Women is published on Wednesdays.

AT THE EXHIBITION.

The young man had been watching the girls marching at the University settlement, and listening while the graduate in charge explained its work to his companion. As they walked away, he said, in the voice of one who has just made a great discovery, "Well, I think women are fine; I had no idea there were such things in Sydney." He was only voicing the feeling of hundreds of others who have no idea that "such things" exist in their midst, but the Girls' Exhibition has been a mighty power in dispelling that ignorance. There is nothing shown at the exhibition which attracts more genuine interest than the social movements; the St. John Ambulance is familiar to all, for its good work extends far and wide, the Crown-street Women's Hospital is known to many, for the annual ball in its aid keeps it before the public; but the Sydney Medical Mission and the University Women's Settlement are quite new to thousands, and many a man is filled with wonder at the things that women are doing, unknown to him. And when he learns that both these movements emanated from the brains of University women, and both are carried on chiefly by their efforts, his opinion of the higher education of woman is modified, and he begins to suspect that there may be some good in a training which enables a woman to see beyond the needs of her own home circle. And the exhibition teaches no finer lesson than the truth that, although our Australian girls have proved their ability to work with success at trades and professions, sharing the honours with their brothers, they have lost no whit of their tenderness and thought for others; but their higher education, with its broadened outlook, has taught them to realise more fully that "the greatest of these is charity."

Waste not, want not seems to be the motto of the Misses Farran, orchardists, who are constantly surrounded by interested spectators. For these girl farmers have grasped the fact that to use up the "waste" is one of the first steps to success, and they have used their by-products in several attractive and lucrative ways. In the first place there is no waste fruit with them; all that is not sent to market goes into the preserving pan, and the jars of clear jelly and damson cheese that line the shelves are the result. "Jam-making is often a nuisance, but we look on it as part of the work, just the same as planting or packing," says Miss Farran. The farm has its flower garden, too, and this also contributes to the exchequer. Little china jars hold pot pourri, made from the rose leaves, a skin preparation, from an old family recipe, is made from rosewater and pure wax, supplied by the bees, lavender sticks and bags of lavender and of scented verbena, bunches of rosemary, and packets of lemon thyme, all find their market; while the mushrooms which grow in the paddocks are not allowed to fade away, but are bottled and preserved as out-of-season luxuries. It is by this attention to details that women farmers should be able to work a small holding more profitably than the man who despises everything except the main issue.

Miss Nellie Burrow's collection of beetles and butterflies is proving a source of inspiration to many of the arts and crafts women, the enamel-workers in particular being anxious to procure her specimens as models. With the whole range of gorgeous colours to be found in these insects it is surprising that craftswomen have not seen their possibilities before, but up to the present they have been practically unexploited. However, now the artists' eyes have recognised the beauty of colour and form in the insects, and we may look for a more truly Australian note in the enamel work than we have found in the past. With all the natural models at hand, and with our clever craftswomen, there is no reason why, in time, we should not have an Australian Lalique, designing jewellery, each piece of which should have its own distinctive beauty. Miss Cleone Cracknell has certainly struck out on a line for herself, and some of the hand-made jewellery is as original in design as it is exquisite in workmanship. Her chief exhibit is a beautiful necklet, a replica of the one purchased from her by the trustees of the Art Gallery; it is a design of maidenhair in green enamel, set at intervals with pearls, the whole skilfully worked on hand-wrought silver.

Another craftswoman who has chosen a line of her own is Mrs. Munday, whose collection of hand-made pottery is very attractive. At each exhibition during the past two or three years this worker has shown a marked step forward in her work, until now she is displaying a number of jars and vases of good design and fine colour.

To the woodcarvers, leather-workers, china painters, stencillers, metalworkers, and designers, there is no end. Here and there a piece of work stands out distinctly as being very good—or very poor—but on the whole there is rather a dead level of monotony, and, it must be regretfully admitted, an apparent lack of inspiration. It is only here and there that the impression is made that the worker is expressing something of her work, or that her particular craft is her natural means of expression; as a rule, the individuality of the creator is quite lacking, and the result naturally possesses little interest, though the workmanship may be most careful and skilled. When applied art was in its infancy, we made allowance for the want of inspiration in the work, and recognised that the mere mastering of mechanical detail was all that could be expected at first. But the detail has been mastered, and great skill acquired by many of the workers, so we feel justified now in looking for more than mechanical excellence. Unfortunately as a rule we are met by disappointment, and, after gazing at the innumerable articles skilfully worked, but quite unarresting, the thought will come to our minds that perhaps there is truth in the allegation that Australians lack imagination.

RATIONAL DRESS FOR WOMEN.

The suggestion which appeared in the Woman's Page of the last issue on the subject of a more rational dress for women is one that is worthy of attention at this period, when woman's dress has become not only extravagant in cost, but also extravagant in fashion, and certainly not artistic.

As a more rational dress, why should we not adopt a long coat covering a bloomer, the coat reaching to the ankle. In this way the extreme of a harem skirt would be avoided and at the same time women would be unhampered by petticoats and have a healthier mode of dress by the abolition of garments hanging from the waist. Certainly our movements would be freer, and we should not be bothered by having skirts to hold up out of the dust or mud.

A coat is always neat, can be made of any material, colour, or texture to suit the climate, and can be made in such fashion that a lace front, or one of some other suitable material can be worn.

It is desirable that dress should become simpler, and perhaps some such mode of attire would meet our needs without being too extreme.

KINDERGARTEN INFLUENCE.

The daily displays by the Kindergarten children at the Girls' Exhibition is arousing a great deal of interest, even amongst those who are not generally at all concerned with educational matters. And it is an excellent thing that the public should know what splendid work the State teachers are doing in the kindergarten. The days when Froebel's teaching was looked on as a "fad" have passed forever, and it is universally admitted that the kindergarten method is the natural and most pleasant way of developing the child mind. And now, when a child reaches the age of four or five, there is no question of how to occupy his time, or whether he is not still too young to go to school, for the kindergarten, with its fascinating play-work, is waiting, and to it the child goes joyfully.

But there is another aspect of the work which is not so universally recognised, and that is its effect on the teachers themselves. Anyone who has known a girl who has passed through the training must have noticed the wonderful development in the girl's character. Her constant intercourse with the children, playing their games, and entering into their occupations, keeps her young and fresh; but at the same time the constant watchfulness and thought for the little ones developes all her motherly feeling of tenderness and responsibility.

In a recent article on "What the Kindergarten has Done," Miss Elizabeth Harrison, principal of the Chicago Kindergarten College, lays great stress upon this side of the work. After showing that the teaching developes the child in innumerable directions, she says: "As the years went by, and conditions demanded that I should have less work with the children, and more with the young women, who were preparing themselves to become kindergarteners, I was at times overwhelmed by the realisation that the kindergarten was a new call to consecration of womankind to the highest element in her nature—nurture. I saw girl after girl change from thoughtless, vain seekers after pleasure, into thoughtful, earnest, mother-hearted young women. Then I knew why Froebel had called his greatest book, "Mother Play-Songs," and why he said the destiny of nations lay in the hands of women. "I believe that when this great work is understood, and the elements of nurture righly developed in the hearts of our young women, we will have a higher type of womanhood, which will find so large a field of its own that it will not need to intrude upon man's work otherwise than as a comrade and sympathiser. When this day comes much of the frivolity, vanity, and weakness of woman will have dropped off, and her new view of her work, its responsibilities, and its importance will give to her a sincerity, a depth, and a dignity that will need no argument to prove her to be man's equal."

MELBOURNE NOTES.

At the last monthly meeting of the National Council of Women, Dr. J. W. Barrett gave an address on the subject of "Deficiencies in the Training of Women." The lecturer, by a series of limelight pictures, imparted some very useful information. From a hygienic point of view Australian houses are most unsuitable, lack of ventilation and overcrowding being the worst enemies to health. Dr. Barrett referred to the opening of a hostel (on American lines) at Parkville, where at the present time 30 girls were being educated as trainees in domestic arts. The Director of Education (Mr. Tate) intends to bring forward a new class of teachers altogether. In the establishment at Parkville there is no domestic help whatever, the 30 girls carry out all the work from management to scullery-cleaning. A three years' course will leave a girl fully competent to undertake household duties, and impart the knowledge to others. They also have the benefit of science lectures. Each student is allowed £50 per annum, the department acknowledging no responsibility of the upkeep. Mrs. Strong suggested a model nursery as a valuable addition to the scheme; and Dr. Barrett advised the ladies of the national council to inquire into the working of the milk supply of Melbourne, and report thereon.

As president of the Child-saving Council, Lady Gibson-Carmichael received the report of the special committee appointed to investigate and send in a report on the societies represented on that council. The societies consist of four reformatories, three maternity, homes, four boys' organisations (including the City Newsboys' Society and Girls' Training Home). These societies come under the Neglected Children's Act. The committee of investigation includes Dr. Edith Barrett, of Collins-street, Miss Henderson, of Clyde Girls' Grammar School, St. Kilda, and Mr. T. E. Meek, chief clerk of the State Treasury. Lady Gibson-Carmichael was glad to be able to say that the work was being very well done on the whole, but the committee were wise in not hesitating to point out where improvements could be made in the work of any individual society.

Miss Walker, who was formerly connected with the Gordon Institute, in Melbourne, has been selected by the South Australian Government to visit England for the purpose of selecting domestic helps to be sent to South Australia. She is at present in Melbourne, and paid a call on the Acting Premier (Mr. Watt). In the course of a brief chat, Miss Walker stated that she intended proceeding cautiously, and to exercise care in the selecting of girls.

ELECTRIC COOKERS.

In the course of a recent address, Mrs. Dora Montefiore told how the village of Rottingdean, in England, had been lighted by electricity owing to the exertions of Lady Burne-Jones, who had pointed out to the municipal council that the forces of the tide might be utilised to obtain the requisite power.

The speaker went on to say that it had struck her very forcibly in Australia that where the majority of the women did their own domestic work, they remained satisfied with conditions which for years had been done away with in other countries. There seemed to be among Australian women too much of the spirit of "letting things go." Many things which in other lands had only been obtained after long years of striving had been acquired here with but little effort.

This, though no doubt a matter for self-congratulation, for some reasons, for others might be feared to have a detrimental effect on our national character. We might be all the better and stronger if a little more serious and concentrated effort were required from us.

It was somewhat of a shock to our susceptibilities to hear gas, which as a means of cooking we think the height of up-to-date bliss, contemptuously alluded to as "dirty old gas."

At the same time the derogatory remark made us think, and called to memory the fact that long months ago the Sydney Municipal Council talked largely of introducing electric cookers at a moderate price.

The Australian woman is by no means a helpless individual. She can cook, and cook well; but she does not wish to spend all her time cooking. Some modern poet would do well to advise us to buy, instead of flowers for our souls' good, an electric cooker for our bodies' good.

Indirectly this would benefit both soul and mind. There has been a complaint that in Sydney it is difficult to obtain sufficient power for the electric lights already in use. Surely if Rottingdean can use the tide, we, with our magnificent coastline, could do likewise, and cease to be entirely dependent on coal for our power.

TURA.

LABOUR-SAVERS.

Many a woman stands looking with wistful eyes at the labour-saving inventions at the What to do with our Girls' Exhibition, and many a mind is filled with the thought of how much easier life would be with such appliances installed in the suburban cottage. By aid of the square, iron box, washing-up, that bugbear of domestic life, becomes a simple task, that Johnnie could do unaided, and enjoy doing. The plates and cups are placed inside in racks; an ordinary quantity of hot water is poured into a small tank at the side; a handle is turned, driving the water through a many-sided faucet, in every direction, and hey presto, the deed is done. So well are the dishes cleaned by the force of hot water that there is no need to wipe them; they drain in their rack, and are soon ready for use.

Washing day is a "Black Monday" in most houses; the smell of suds penetrates the house, cold meat is the prescribed dinner, and Mary Ann is too busy with the washing to make pudding, or to dust the rooms, or wash up the breakfast dishes. And poor Mary Ann, rubbing or wringing and lifting in the steaming laundry, is tired and cross, and not at all her usual self. But the laundry helps shown in the labour-saving section should alter all that. First, there is the washing machine, the invention of a Sydney man—which does away with the need of rubbing and washing boards. There, again, the turn of a handle "does the trick," and the clothes that are put into the soapy water really dirty, come out in a few minutes perfectly white. Still, most of us cling to the idea of boiling clothes, and if you are not satisfied with the result of the machine, there is the self-emptying gas-lit copper. It is hard to understand why laundresses have endured the labour of baling out a copper every week for all these years, when by the simple addition of a tap, the water can be drawn off in a few moments without any trouble. In the dairy section at the exhibition, one of these coppers is actually in use, and the sight of it must fill many a woman with disgust for the old-fashioned brick-bound copper at home.

Another thing that adds to the labour of washing-day is lifting the heavy, wet clothes from the copper to the rinsing tub. But some thoughtful people, amongst them a well-known Sydney masseuse, have evolved a simple device for doing away with this labour. A kind of cradle, made of strong rope, fits right into the empty copper, and is held at the top by hooks; into it the clothes are put, and when the boiling is done, the whole thing is lifted out by means of a little overhead trolley, and run easily along to the tub, where it is lowered and emptied without any trouble.

One woman, who had been watching the demonstrations of these devices with deep interest, turned to her friend, and, in a prophetic voice said:—"There is the solution of the domestic problem. Fit every house up with these helps, and we can laugh at the servant-girl question."

Another smaller exhibit in the same section was a bread-grater, the patent of a woman. The inventor has done away with the old fear of scraping one's fingers on the grater, by the simple expedient of having two. They are flat, with handles at the back, and the bread, or cheese, or whatever is to be grated, is rubbed between the two sides, with far less labour and far better results, than the old-fashioned graters gave.

Close by the sight of bright kettles bubbling, bread toasting, and delicious tarts baking, without any accompaniment of smoke or smell, made the housewives long for an electric-fitted kitchen, and aroused the question in many a mind, "Why should we wear out our beauty over hot fires, why should we spend our strength in heavy, old-fashioned methods, when all these things that can help us are ready and waiting to make life simpler and easier for us all?"

WHEN AUTUMN IS HERE.

The poet who sang, "Oh, to be in England, now that April's there," had never experienced an Australian April, when the glory of the autumn is over the land.

At this season we are apt to wake in the small hours of the morning, with a feeling of chill, and are glad to draw up the extra blanket, which the forethought of someone has caused to be laid on the foot of the bed. Soothed by its grateful warmth, we doze, and turn reluctantly when the clock strikes the half-hour after 5, and reminds us that it is time to rise.

The sky seen through the open window would call us from bed, even if we were inclined to disregard the call of duty. At no other season of the year is Nature so lavish with the colours with which she decks the morning and evening skies. Crimson and gold, clear blue, and tender green, glow in the east, and little rosy clouds float westward till all is swallowed up in golden radiance, as the sun leaps above the horizon, to begin his journey through a sky of cloudless blue. His light, filtering through the Japanese blinds and the lattice on the verandah, makes chequered patches of light and shade across where the little table in the corner invites us to breakfast out of doors, with the swallows flying in and out loaded with material for new nests. They cling defiantly to the wall, in spite of much flapping of newspaper and napkin, but depart hastily when alarmed by a well-aimed piece of crust. They are welcome to house room under the eaves, but the verandah is not for them.

The crimson and gold of the sky has surely been transferred to the virginia creeper on the eastern wall. It looks so gorgeous in its autumn dress that we waste no time in regrets for its summer mantle of green. The salvia is making brave efforts to hide the ravages of time, and still displays many proud scarlet beads, but the brown lurks behind the leaves, refusing to be hidden, and soon we shall be gathering the seed. Honey-eaters throng in the mina lobata, and myriads of bees, intoxicated with sweetness, crawl lazily over clumps of heliotrope. Butterflies innumerable flit among the roses and asters, great mottled ones and tiny creatures, which might easily be the fairies of our childish days, in their gauzy dresses of white and palest blue and yellow.

The leaves on the orchard trees are thinning, and, loosened from the parent stem, their period of usefulness over, every breeze sends thousands to join the thousands which carpet the earth beneath each tree. Between the rows of trees glows a purple mass of "Johnny Currant" grass, which soon must fall beneath the scythe, but meanwhile makes a vivid patch of colour, backed by the green and gold of fading cedars.

Out in the paddock the great blue gums make cool shadows, where the cows stand knee-deep in grass, whisking lazy tails to drive off some too persistent mosquito. Down in the hollow the carts are busy with the ripened maize, already the plough is at work, and the shouts of the ploughman, as he encourages or reproves his beasts, come faintly to our ears.

Ground diamonds are busy in the ink-weed at the end of the paddock, where they have found some ripe berries; silver-eyes and tomtits hop among the branches of the blackberry, where some ripe fruit still hangs, and here and there a chance spray of blossom.

On such a day we will do no manner of work unless it be work to make a nest or two for the pullets, which are really going to lay at last, or to carry some bran to the calf, conversing in bovine language with its mother through the fence, or to make lime rings round our new carnations to keep away the snails.

So the time wears on to evening, the cows leave the pasture, and call out that it is milking time. The sparrows and starlings have their nightly squabble over the one desirable roosting-place in the bunya tree, and the opal lights of sunset have scarcely faded from the sky when the moon sails up to make a perfect ending for that "gift of God—a perfect day."

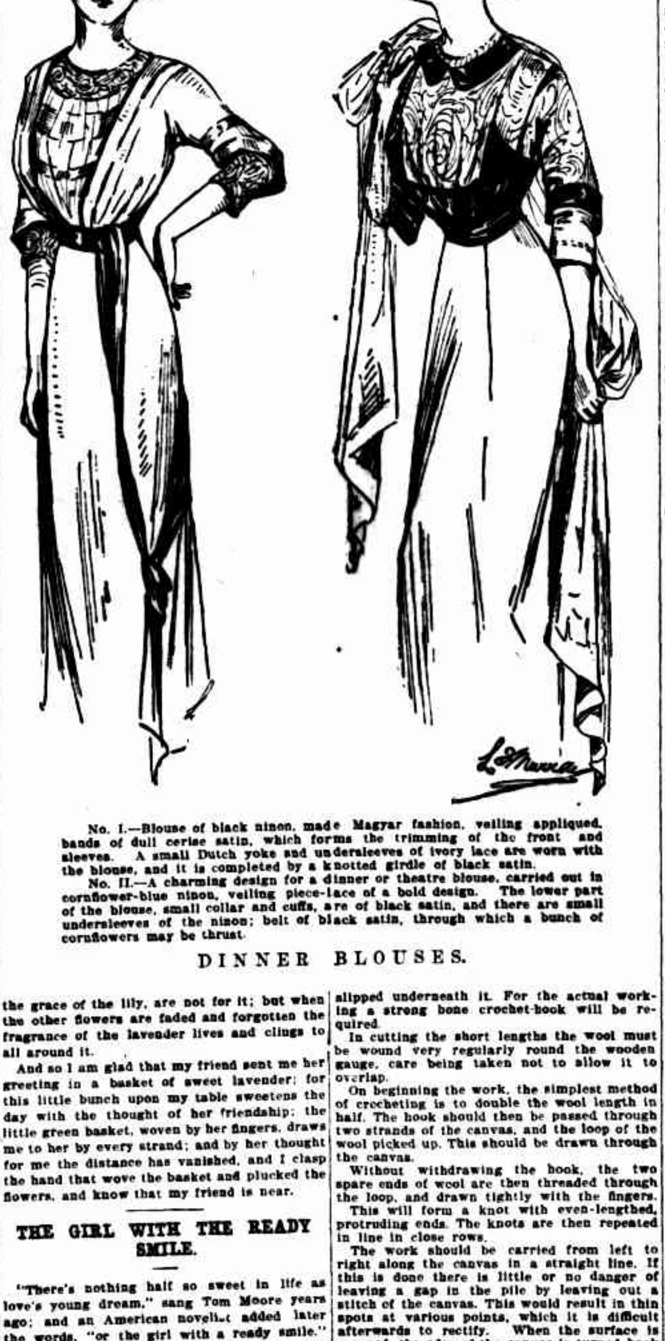
ACTINOTUS.

THE BASKET OF LAVENDER.

On my table stands a bouquet that has gladdened my heart for a week. It is a basket of lavender, simple old-fashioned lavender; but no bunches of roses or rarest blossoms have ever brought me more joy than that quiet little posy. The small green basket which holds the flowers was made by the giver's own fingers, and into every strand of the soft green string she has woven a touch of her own sweet person. The dainty satin ribbon, too, which holds the flowers in place is bright and soft, and brings a memory of her sunshiny smile. But it is the blossoms themselves that breathe her very essence.

We have been taught to think of lavender as something old-fashioned and sentimental; it is mingled in our minds with old maids and old lace, and half-forgotten dreams of a shadowy past. But surely no flower was ever more wrongly portrayed and surely no blossom is more like the modern girl at her best than sweet lavender. The flower spikes stand up straight and strong, just as the girl of to-day; there is no hanging of head, no drooping shyness about this flower, but, sure in its own strength, it looks up simply, and faces the world without a trace of self-consciousness. So does the twentieth century girl, at her best.

There is no sickly sentiment about the lavender; its sharp fragrance is sweet and clean and wholesome, never nauseating. There are some flower scents which seem to wrap you round with a stifling sweetness, that lull you into dreamful ease; not so the lavender. Its sharp, fresh odour is like a clear-cut, inspiriting voice calling you to action. It is the voice of the modern girl—at her best. The gorgeous colour of the rose, the grace of the lily, are not for it; but when the other flowers are faded and forgotten the fragrance of the lavender lives and clings to all around it.



No. I.—Blouse of black ninon, made Magyar fashion, veiling appliqued, bands of dull cerise satin, which forms the trimming of the front and sleeves. A small Dutch yoke and undersleeves of ivory lace are worn with the blouse, and it is completed by a knotted girdle of black satin.

No. II.—A charming design for a dinner or theatre blouse, carried out in cornflower-blue ninon, veiling piece-lace of a bold design. The lower part of the blouse, small collar and cuffs, are of black satin, and there are small undersleeves of the ninon; belt of black satin, through which a bunch of cornflowers may be thrust.

DINNER BLOUSES.

And so I am glad that my friend sent me her greeting in a basket of sweet lavender; for this little bunch upon my table sweetens the day with the thought of her friendship; the little green basket, woven by her fingers, draws me to her by every strand; and by her thought for me the distance has vanished, and I clasp the hand that wove the basket and plucked the flowers, and know that my friend is near.

THE GIRL WITH THE READY SMILE.

"There's nothing half so sweet in life as love's young dream," sang Tom Moore years ago; and an American novelist added later the words, "or the girl with a ready smile." As you drift farther on through life you realise how wise was that American novelist.

The girl with the ready smile!—what a power she is! You jostle against her in a crowd and turn round with a look of annoyance, which quickly disappears because a dimpling face is looking into yours, and a sweet, charming voice is saying, "Beg pardon." The girl with the smile has gone. It was just the episode of a second, but it leaves its mark, and the day is a little easier, the sun is a little brighter, because you have rubbed shoulders with a girl with a ready smile.

You meet her in your social or business world. She may be at an afternoon tea that is going dull, or she may be behind the counter of a crowded city shop; she's just a stranger, probably an "outsider," but she flashes on you a look like one of God's sunbeams, and calls up an answering ray of brightness from your very soul.

If she smiles upon you in an hour of trouble, what a soothing balm her smile is! Your heart may be all leaden, but there seems to be a sympathetic something behind her eyes that means "I'm sorry." It somehow gives you courage for another fight. Years after, in other troubles, a little lingering memory of a glorious smile of sympathy comes back, and is again a potent power.

The girl with the ready smile is a God-send to this heavy-hearted old world. She is as an elixir to youth and age alike. The schoolboy, with his eyes fairly blazing, votes her "Bully," and the title is borne of the unlimited love and honour of his bohemian soul. Her girl friends call her a "dear." To older women she is a "really helpful girl." The old, old man watches her with a power of tenderness. She is to him a ray of sunshine that steals into the dark places of his memory. "That's just exactly what my old woman was—years ago—when we were—courting." His white head moves with a knowing nod, and his knotted hand brushes over eyes that have suddenly become bright. The very young man calls her "sweet" or "jolly"—but the blasé man of the world's estimate of her is bound with reverence.

Yes, she's quite a power, your girl with the ready smile.

SMYRNA RUG-MAKING.

Smyrna rug-making is the latest hobby in the world of handicraft; indeed, in England it is said to have passed the hobby stage, and has become a craze. It is only making its appearance in Sydney, but it is a form of fancywork which ought to prove popular in the winter months, and it has the advantage of combining usefulness and beauty in a way which many handicrafts do not. At the Girls' Exhibition Miss Beatrice Pearson shows a very fine example of the Smyrna rug, worked in lovely shades of blue and red and grey, and, no doubt, many women will be led by it to taking up the work, and will be glad to know how simple it is, and how few materials are required.

There is, of course, a special wool for rug-weaving. Four skeins of Persian rug yarn usually weigh a pound. The canvas for the purpose can be procured usually in four widths, the narrowest being suitable for the first venture of the beginner, which takes the form of a small door-mat. This measures twelve inches, the second size being eighteen inches, the other sizes being twenty-seven inches and a yard wide.

The other requirements consist of a block of wood on which to cut the wool. Although some people make their own block, this is not invariably a success, as it should be of even width and perfectly smooth, otherwise it is difficult to ensure that all the wool snippets are of exactly the correct length. The best and most convenient size for a block is ten inches long by three-quarters of an inch wide and an inch and three-quarters in depth. There should be a long groove along the top of the narrowest portion, which will enable the point of the scissors, when cutting the wool, to be slipped underneath it. For the actual working a strong bone crochet-hook will be required.

In cutting the short lengths the wool must be wound very regularly round the wooden gauge, care being taken not to allow it to overlap.

On beginning the work, the simplest method of crocheting is to double the wool length in half. The hook should then be passed through two strands of the canvas, and the loop of the wool picked up. This should be drawn through the canvas.

Without withdrawing the hook, the two spare ends of wool are then threaded through the loop, and drawn tightly with the fingers.

This will form a knot with even-lengthed, protruding ends. The knots are then repeated in line in close rows.

The work should be carried from left to right along the canvas in a straight line. If this is done there is little or no danger of leaving a gap in the pile by leaving out a stitch of the canvas. This would result in thin spots at various points, which it is difficult afterwards to rectify. When the surface is covered, the edge of the canvas is turned back and herring-boned in wool.

FOOD, WORK, AND SCIENCE.

We read much nowadays of domestic science. We use vacuum cleaners, gas stoves, washing machines, and one hundred other labour-saving inventions of the day. Withal there is a big crowd of women who are nothing but slaves—domestic slaves—and these slaves are the wives of our farmers during harvesting or other farm operations when it becomes necessary to employ extra hands.

A great deal is heard on all sides for and against the attempt to regulate the hours of labour (for men) on farms. But nothing is heard of the hours of the wives and daughters who cook for those men, women whose husbands and fathers may collect £1000 for the season's wheat. Someone asks, "Surely they can afford some help?" Yes, and as much as £1 and 25s has been offered for "help during harvest." But that "help" has not been forthcoming. The girls in a farming district know too well what that "help during harvest" means. The work of the hour is cooking—cooking "from morn till dewy eve." Breakfast at 6, lunch at 9, dinner at 12.30, lunch at 4, tea at 7 or 7.30. The amount of meat, bread, scones, cakes, and buns consumed is enormous. The everlasting washing-up is heart-breaking.

Has science no key to this problem? Surely a knowledge (and a use of that knowledge) of the nutritive values of foods is the key.

Why not three meals a day only? But three meals of nourishing, tissue-building food. Why this eternal bread, bread, bread? Is not this food question worthy of a deal of consideration? Nutritive foods are as palatable, and give much less work than those of little or no real value. Women don't work out this. They hold up their hands in horror at the suggestion of giving "the men," say, dried peas instead of the everlasting bread. Yet dried peas are 2d per lb, and which would go further—a pound of peas or a loaf of bread? She doesn't even buy the peas when "the men" are not there. She prefers baking bread and complaining of being overworked. And these are the days of domestic science, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, and—unthinking women.

PUCK'S GIRDLE.

"I'll put a girdle round about the earth in forty minutes."—"Midsummer Night's Dream."

The news that the hobble skirt will not be allowed at Court will be received with joy by all who have any regard for comfort or beauty in a woman's dress. For never has there been a more unbecoming and foolish fashion than the hobble skirt. The narrow skirt has much to recommend it; it needs less material, is consequently lighter, and generally more convenient and comfortable than a full skirt, or a trained one. But there is not a word to be said in favour of the hobble; its very name sums up all its stupidity and ugliness; but even passing over its unsightliness, it is a thing to marvel at that women, presumably in full possession of their senses, could cause themselves such inconvenience, discomfort, and even danger, as belong to the wearing of a hobble skirt.

One of the most prized souvenirs of the coronation year will be the coronation napery. This, says the "Pall Mall Gazette," takes the form of double damask tablecloths and table napkins, which have specially been designed to commemorate King George's Coronation. The centre of each tablecloth shows the Crown, the Sword of State, and the Sceptre; on the border which surrounds these are depicted the emblems of Jamaica, the Union of South Africa, Gibraltar, the Commonwealth of Australia, and Malta. Surrounding this is an outer border, in the design of which are woven the emblems of India, New Zealand, Newfoundland, Canada, and Ceylon, while the Royal Arms appear in the four corners. Throughout the design are interspersed the Rose, the Thistle, the Shamrock, and the Leek, while the leaves of the tea plant, the maple, the palm, and the gum, represent India, Canada, South Africa, and Australia. The only shop at which these cloths are to be bought has received several large wedding orders, as the new coronation table linen is the latest idea for wedding presents.

The All-British Shopping Week, which was recently held in England, brought the names of many well-known ladies before the public, for not a few of the British industries owe their present flourishing condition to the encouragement and help of some patron lady. The Duchess of Abercorn has been for years the patron of the Londonderry tweeds, and under her care the peasants employed in their manufacture have been raised from penury to comfort. The Duchess of Sutherland has played the same part towards the Sutherland tweeds, and for several years has held annual exhibitions to display them. The Duchess of Buckingham and Chandos, the Marchioness of Donegall, the Countess of Fingall, the Countess of Erne, have done a great deal to encourage lace-making, weaving, and other industries, and many other women have also helped in their own districts to encourage local industries.

Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird" is not such a success in Paris as it was in London, and this, says a Paris writer, "not because it is less well played or mounted, but because the French character has never yet quite understood the charm of fairy tales for grown-up people." And yet the same writer tells us that a young Dane, M. Paul Leyssac, has captivated Paris by his way of telling Hans Anderson's fairy tales. "I heard him tell first a story of Bjornsterne Bjornson's, a tragic, grim tale, which made everyone shiver; then the whimsical story of a scandal by Hans Andersen, and then the charming "What the Moon Saw;" and after that every woman in the room was wiping her eyes.

It is sometimes stated that the tipping system in America is not so much in favour as on the Continent, but a glance at the amusing expenses account of an American senator's day trip to New York contradicts this idea. In a recent speech Mr. McCumber (the senator in question) gave the items in terms of agricultural produce, instead of money, thus:—Cab to hotel, six bushels of oats; driver's tip, fifteen cabbages; liftboy's tip, two dozen eggs; bellboy's tip, one and a half bushels of barley; breakfast, a quarter of a ton of hay; waiter's tip, two bushels of potatoes; lunch, one sheep; waiter's tip, one and a half bushels of carrots; dinner, four bushels of rye; waiter's tip, one bushel of onions; and room, half a cartload of turnips.

In the presence of Charles Frohman, Charles Dillingham, William Harris, and a number of other theatrical managers, Ethel Barrymore has just tried a novel experiment in the way of rehearsing plays (says an American paper). Miss Barrymore proceeded on the principle that a play, to be produced properly, should appeal equally to the eye and the ear, and after her novel attempt the managers who were watching declared that they would follow the new method hereafter. Miss Barrymore first rehearsed Barrie's one-act play, "The Twelve Pound Look." A thin black curtain was lowered, behind which the players went through their parts, in order to determine if it was possible to force dramatic movement of the piece over the footlights to the audience beyond. Next the curtain was raised and the company acted their roles in pantomime. The same test was applied also to an act of "Alice-Sits-by-the-Fire." "I believe," said Miss Barrymore, after the rehearsal, "that it is impossible to get good results from a play unless it is made to appeal equally to the eye and the ear. Hereafter in trying out plays I shall test them both ways. You've no notion, until you try it, what an infinite number of profitable suggestions one gets from the new method."

Madame Penso, a well-known French artist, has invented a new and curious art. It is that of making artificial flowers from bread-crumbs. Stated baldly, that does not sound attractive, but, according to the London papers, her flowers are exquisitely beautiful. They are modelled from the crumbs of French rolls, and the gluten in the French bread gives them a solid consistency and hardens them. No tools are used except the artist's own fingers, and it is wonderful how all the finest parts of the flowers are shown. Violets, apple blossom, and hawthorn are portrayed, as well as larger blossoms, and in every case, say the critics, they bear the closest examination under the magnifying glass, and even the veins of the leaves are depicted by means of the artist's finger prints. Before the flowers are coloured they look like delicate ivory carvings, but the artist colours them so exquisitely that they are quite life-like when finished. They are highly valued as works of art, and as much as £15 15s has been paid for a single spray. Mme. Penso is the wife of a wealthy banker, and all the proceeds of her work go to charity, and so interested is she in her hobby that she is going to give free lectures on her art in London, so that other women can take it up, either as a pastime or a means of making money.

AUSTRALIANS ABROAD.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, March 31.

Commander Clarkson, who has paid many visits to America in connection with the machinery for the Commonwealth small arms factory at Lithgow, which he has been supervising and inspecting from the start, returned to London this week from his final visit.

Dr. Mawson, the leader of the coming Australian expedition to the Antarctic, has been for the past month in London, where he is working temporarily in rooms adjoining the offices of the Shackleton expedition. Dr. Mawson has been the guest of Lady Hart, Sir Robert and Lady Lucas Tooth, Admiral Sir Lewis Beaumont, and others. Sir Robert Geikie and Major Darwin, the presidents of the Royal Geographical Society and the Royal Society, have been giving him their assistance.

Amongst the Australians who arrived in London last week were Mr. Robert C. Dixson and his sister. They are staying at the Hyde Park Hotel, Knightsbridge.

The marriage of Lord Linlithgow, son of the first Governor-General of Australia, takes place at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on April 19. Lord Charles Hope, brother of the bridegroom, will be his best man. Lord Linlithgow is 24 years of age. The bride, Miss Milner, is said to be one of the most beautiful girls in society. Lord Linlithgow first met her at Welbeck Abbey, the home of the Duke of Portland, and the Duchess of Portland is giving her a part of her wedding dress.

ARTS AND CRAFTS.

The fourth annual meeting of the Society of Arts and Crafts was held on April 24. The annual report was most satisfactory, showing an increase of membership and a decided advance in general progress. The usual annual exhibition was held in October, and kindly opened by Lady Chelmsford, who is patroness of the society. At the exhibition samples of work were bought from many members by the Trustees of the National Art Gallery and by the Curator of the Technological Museum. At present many of the members are working at the Girls' Realm Guild, though not as an exhibit from the society.

Another important advance in the life of the society was the beginning of a library for the use of members and for assistance in their various arts and crafts. Miss Ethel Stephens, a valued member of the society, was entrusted with the selection of a number of books when visiting England recently. Mr Walter Crane himself helped her in her choice by his valuable opinion as to the books which would be of most use and form a sound foundation for the library, which the committee hopes will become a most useful adjunct to the society.

The work has extended so much that it was decided at the annual meeting to engage a paid secretary, and the coming year holds promise of a steady increase in growth and strength of the Society of Arts and Crafts.

REFERENDUM DAY.

Mrs. Grey rolled up her sleeves and began to cook in real earnest; for to-morrow was Referendum day. "I don't know a thing about it, though, that's the best of it all, and I've promised my husband and my father to vote without fail. It means a cold dinner for the family and a little outing for me, any way," she said. "My father says, 'say No;' my husband says, 'say Yes.' What am I to do?"

She busied herself until tea-time, and her father, on his way home, paused to look in and make her promise to vote "No."

Her husband, coming home to tea, impressed upon her the importance of voting "Yes."

Bewildered, she made her way next day to the polling booth. "A to G," roared the constable. "Your name, madam?"

"Grey," she said.

"This way, please, madam," and she was shown to six stalls, over which hung the letters A to G.

She procured papers at the table, and then thought she would go and consult a fellow-woman who was voting; perhaps, she really knew which was right, Yes or No. But the voice of the constable rose admidst the confusion, "One lady to a stall; go into the next stall, please, madam."

Perplexed and troubled she obeyed. She stared at the words Yes and No. Upon which should she bestow the cross? She wanted to please her father and she was afraid to disobey her husband.

So she just shut her eyes up tight and made a tremendous cross on the paper, and still keeping them closed she folded up the paper, and then walked out to the box, and deposited it therein.

"Well, my dear," said her father, "which did you vote for, Yes or No?"

"I don't know, father," said Mrs. Grey; and she didn't.

LOOK PLEASANT, PLEASE.

How many of us consistently take to heart this admonition of the photographer? If we fully realised how much a cheerful happy expression influences those about us, and what an important factor it is in our social success, we would take great pains to "look pleasant," or look as pleasant as we could. The face we turn to the world, the world turns to us again, and a cheery smile is of untold value in this work-a-day world. Of course there is a vast difference between the genuine smile that makes sunshine in the soul and shows us the joys of life and the grin assumed to hide our feelings. Expression is undoubtedly the highest form of beauty, since it reflects our character—our soul as it were. Happiness is contagious, worry or discontent repellant; therefore the happy, pleasant woman has the world at her feet. She is happy because she gives her whole heart generously without reserve or calculation, and joins pluckily in the fight—thinking above all of the happiness of those she loves. Young and old are equally charmed with the cheeriness and sympathy of her nature. Self is the great enemy of happiness. Provided she lives outside herself woman is invariably happy. "Laughing cheerfulness," once wrote a well-known author, "throws the light of day on all the paths of life." This is just what the happy woman does.

An unpleasant situation is half conquered when one has the sense to see its humour and laugh at the discomforts it presents. Nothing is so dark that it does not possess a lighter side, and the ability to discover and appreciate it does more to make one happy than anything else. It is the woman with the laughing eyes that scores socially every time. She seems to have a fund of merriment and humour that drives away dull care and lightens the heaviest burdens.

Discontent and worry are the greatest enemies of both a woman's good looks and her popularity. You hear people say, "I am of a worrying nature and cannot help it," but that is simply an acknowledgment of weakness. You can help it; all that is required is a little courage. That is all very well for the comfortably circumstanced, remarks the woman who has made up her mind to be unhappy, but those possessing most of the world's goods are often the least satisfied. What about that humble philosopher Mrs. Wiggs, who says, "Don't go and git sorry for yerself. That's one thing I can't stand in nobody. There's always lots of other folk you kin be sorry fer 'sted of yerself. Ain't you proud you ain't got a harelip? Why, that one thought is enough to keep me from ever gettin' sorry for myself."

Suppose you try smiling instead of frowning at fate, for the person with pluck and willing to wait fate invariably turns a smiling face in the end.

KIDNEY DISEASES ARE DANGEROUS.

From the first stages of the disease Kidney Trouble is serious, because uric acid poisons are being left in the body instead of being filtered out, as is the case when the kidneys are in a healthy condition.

The presence of uric acid in the system is the cause of Dropsy, Rheumatism, Bright's Disease, etc., all of which serious ailments can be prevented by taking

DIURETIC

KIDNEY AND BLADDER REMEDY.

Trouchet's Diuretic Remedy tones up the Kidneys, and ensures the removal of urinous poisons regularly and in the natural way.

For the relief of BACKACHE, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, GOUT, and the elimination of excess URIC ACID DEPOSITS TROUCHET'S DIURETIC REMEDY is without equal.

COPIES OF GENUINE TESTIMONIALS.

49 Salisbury-street, Subiaco, W.A., 24th May, 1910.

I desire to add my quota to the praise of your Herbs. I was completely crippled by Rheumatism for nearly a week. After taking your Herbs, even in this wet weather, I have had no recurrence of the trouble.

(Signed) W. C. FERNAIGH.

Muchea, Midland Railway, W.A., 29th March, 1910.

I have very much pleasure in certifying to the splendid qualities of your Diuretic Kidney and Bladder Herbs. I have suffered for a number of years with kidney and bladder troubles, and for the past twelve months have been more or less in agony, and laid up several times with intense inflammation of the bladder caused through gravel stones, and after taking your Herbs for a few weeks, I am pleased to state that a gravel stone has been removed.

I am sending eight packets of the Herbs to England to a relative who is suffering the same as I did, and have such faith in the Herbs that I can recommend them to anyone suffering in like manner.

Should anyone wish for details, I will only be too pleased to answer their letters and supply same.

Wishing you every success, and trusting this testimonial will help to do others good,

Yours faithfully, ROBT. FEWSTER.

P.S.—I have much pleasure in leaving the stone with you so that any sufferer wishing to see it may do so.—R.F.

THE LOST IPHIGENIA.

BY AGNES AND EGERTON CASTLE.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

The situation was becoming a little strained. Lady Caroline's black eyes flashed fire.

"Ungrateful boy!" thought she, "after my coming all this way, in the very middle of the season, and sitting through that dreadful opera, all because of his idiotic infatuation for that impossible girl! I'm too good-natured."

Madame Costanza did not speak. She looked on, amused. And the young things held their tongues, as was becoming. The tension was relieved by an unexpected encounter.

A small dapper man, in a grey summer suit, swung up to them along the path with a military freedom of gait. He hesitated at sight of the group, and took off his hat.

"Mon Dieu—c'est Sir Pringle!" exclaimed Madame.

"My dear Madame—why, Lady Caroline!"—cried the newcomer. "Ah, my dear child—give me both your hands. I must congratulate you—I must indeed! It was superb, wasn't it? I confess I take a little pride. . . . As I said to Lady Warborough just now at the Grand-Duchess's: 'She was always my best pupil!' I have left my little tribute at your apartments, Sarolta—I may still call you 'Sarolta?'—with a few words, just a few words of appreciation. Lady Caroline, I caught a glimpse of you last night. No, not quite our style of music—a bit mad you know; but that's the fasion. And there are fine things, now and then—very fine things. I'm just taking a stroll back to the hotel, through the Park. Which way—ah—are you all going?"

Here John Holdfast accomplished what he many a time told himself afterwards was one of the sharpest things he had ever done in his life.

"If you are going that way, Sir Arnold," he said, "will you see Lady Caroline to a cab? —she wants to get back, and I am on for a bit of a walk."

"De-lighted, of course," said Sir Arnold with a blank look towards the two pretty girls and Madame Visconti's broadly smiling face.

"Thank you, Sir Arnold," said Lady Caroline, with much dignity. "I shall be obliged if you will accompany me. . . . In a strange town, at the mercy of the first ruffianly cabman that comes along, I confess I do not like to be left to drive alone."

Madame Costanza remained motionless till the couple, neither of whom could conceal dudgeon, had disappeared. Then she gave her expressive chuckle:—

"'My best pupil . . . .'" she mimicked; "'I confess I take some little pride . . . .'" She lifted her voice and sang a soft yodel, and then began again, with mock emphasis:—

A little birch tree shimmered in the wood. . . .
She loved the mighty oak that beside her stood. . . .

"Not quite our style of music—eh, Lady Caroline?"

Chopin Mosenthal exploded, schoolboy fashion, doubling up in ecstasy, till his black curls almost swept his knee. Sady, caught by the infection of his mirth, stood looking at him, laughing gaily, without understanding the full point of the joke. Sarolta walked impatiently away. Everybody was tiresome today, she thought. She felt irritated all over; but the real soreness lay in the knowledge that Madame Costanza had been summoned by Lothnar; that Reinhardt had sat with him all night; and that she had had not even a little message.

Johnny saw his opportunity, and hurried after her. He knew before he spoke that he was doing himself no good—yea, even damaging his cause. Yet speak he must; it seemed to him that his very loyalty demanded it. Every moment he passed in Frankheim showed him the odiousness of the career she had chosen, and her unfitness for it.

"Sarolta—you can't go on with this!" he burst out. "It will kill you. You're looking ill already. You've grown quite thin, you know. It's unbearable. Oh, I say, don't you see, don't you understand? It's dreadful for a woman, for a lady . . . Sarolta, it's not because I'm thinking of myself—'pon honour, it isn't. I'm thinking of you. If you'd let me take you out of it, you could do anything you liked. I'd not ask for myself. I'd be content."

He choked. She allowed him to speak uninterrupted; then, standing before him, gave him, between narrowed lids, one single glance of icy contempt; and, turning on her heel, ran back to Madame Visconti without a word.

Johnny stared after her a second or two: then lifted his hat vaguely, and walked away towards the park gates with great strides.

So he packed his boxes that night after all—to Lady Caroline's dry triumph. But before he left he had a long conversation with Sady, which sent him on his travels less disconsolate than he would otherwise have been.

But though Sady promised and comforted, she was herself by no means happy about Sarolta, and ventured to hint to Madame some of her reasons for anxiety. That doughty lady, however, was breezily optimistic.

"Changed? Of course, she is changed. What do you expect her to be? She's going through a phase, my dear; she'll come out of it again soon enough—soon enough. When the hard work begins once more, and she learns that the artist's career does not stop at its first stage, and that it's not all roses, and laurels, and orchids—Eh, eh! did you see Sir Pringle's orchids?—all this soap-bubble nonsense will float away, and you'll find the real Sarolta again underneath. Eh, mon Dieu! leave her to her little triumphs. The disillusion will come soon enough."

"It's not that, Madame," faltered Sady, her pretty forehead puckered into thoughtful lines. "She's—oh! I don't know how to explain—she's not happy, not triumphant, in spite of her success. She seems in a kind of dream all the time, and there's only one thing she wants to talk about——"

"Iphigenia, I suppose," said Madame Costanza cheerfully.

"No," said Sady in a very low voice; "Dr. Lothnar, Madame."

The other gave a cry of derision.

"Lothnar—is that what you are afraid of, my poor child? Of course, she's in love with Lothnar. She would not be a human girl in this town if she wasn't. Mon Dieu! Have I not been in love in the same way from sixteen upwards? Did I not cherish a peach-stone from the plate of Gayarre? Did I not think of a big panful of charcoal because Rubinstein gave his photograph to my rival? Did I not—pooh, you're a little Puritan, Sady—you came back in the Mayflower. Lass es schwarmen!—it is quite good for the art—she'll have many another."

Sady laughed, and tried to seem convinced, and to convince herself. But when she, in her turn, steamed away from Frankheim—they waited for the second performance, Madame Visconti taking a hostile professional interest in Marie Seidel's Clytemnestra—the girl carried away an unwonted weight of despondency. "Sarolta was glad to see me go!" she said to herself, and the tears she would not shed before Madame seemed to be dropping inwardly upon her anxious heart.

CHAPTER XIV.

There was little change in the Hegemannsche Haus for the next week or so. The increased liberty which had come to Sarolta from the night of her debut continued. Flowers were often sent to her from unknown admirers; and letters, some of which—the appreciation of kindly artists—she proudly kept; others which she had the good sense to tear up and fling away as hardly worth even a thought of anger. She saw Lothnar again during the necessary rehearsals with the new Clytemnestra, but these were conducted on purely business lines. She had no conversation with him, except a word or two on the second night of "Iphigenia," which left her singularly depressed. He was in an unwontedly good humour—whatever impression Maria Seidel had made upon Laura Costanza, her intensity had "satisfied" the composer. On his way out of the theatre, leaning on Reinhardt's arm, he crossed the girl, cloaked and hooded, ready to start under Fraulein Schwank's escort.

"And one brings flowers to the Iphigenia, does not one?" he said, his eyebrows twitching, as they always did when he was in jocular mood.

"Yes," answered Sarolta, crimsoning. A passionate disclaimer of any desire for the forbidden tributes was trembling on her lips, when he interrupted her.

"It is well—it is well. Flowers are sweet. Smell them, Fraulein Sarolta—smell them."

Her heart had felt like bursting as she walked home along the moonlit street. How far rather would she have been still the vestal whom he "kept close."

It was after the fifth successful performance of "Iphigenia," to a house well-nigh as crowded as the first, that Frau Hegemann disappeared suddenly from the pension, and was not seen again for two days. When she returned her face was distorted by violent weeping. And the rumour spread quickly through the house that Lothnar's wife, her niece, was dead. The news was presently confirmed in the local newspapers. The theatre was closed for a week; and when Dr. Lothnar resumed his place as conductor he wore clothes of mourning.

Frau Hegemann was wrapped in crepe, with a veil that swept the pavement in good national fashion. She looked sourer than ever and was more silent as she presided at the meals. And often those sunken eyes of hers were red and inflamed from hidden tears.

Sarolta, who had once had an evil thought of gladness to know Lothnar's wife doomed and disfigured, had now no clear understanding of her own feelings upon these death-tidings. It seemed to make so extraordinarily little outward difference to anyone except Frau Hegemann.

Lothnar, it was true, looked haggard when she first beheld him again in his mourning garments; but that might have been the effect of the black. She had no speech for him then, or for many days afterwards; and she soon found herself a prey to a devouring desire to discover how far his bereavement—if such it could be called—really affected him. Did he mourn her whom he had once loved? Had old memories and old feelings reawakened in him? Was it merely release? The problem pursued her in the life at once isolated and active that she now led.

At last she ventured to question Reinhardt.

"Did the Master mind?"

The tenor looked at her, surprised, a second; and then said gravely:—

"Fraulein Sarolta, there are wounds that the best friend must not probe. The Doctor speaks of it not at all."

Sarolta felt dreadfully snubbed. Nor did Frau Bertha, with whom she was subsequently invited to Kaffee, tend to comfort her, though she was loquacious enough. According to her, it was pitiable to behold Lothnar's grief.

"Not that he talks, bewahre—that was never his way. But I brought little Ulrichen to see him on his birthday, by invitation, Fraulein Sarolta. Ach, I put a band of crepe round the little fellow's Scotch coat, just as a tribute, you understand. And when the Master saw it, he said: 'Pfui, how ugly is that black. Let at least the poor child be free of it.' And then he sighed as if his heart was breaking. So changed he is, Fraulein Sarolta."

Though Bertha Reinhardt had a score of easy friendships, and addressed most of the members of her Kaffee Klatsch as "Schatzchen," "Innig-geliebbe," and "Theureste," Sarolta was still "Fraulein" to her. The Hof-Doktor's daughter, she could not forget the distance between herself and a professional singer.

"Iphigenia" was given twice a week till the middle of August; though fashionable Frankheimers had gone to their cures, to sea or to mountain, long before, there was still a steady influx of curious visitors from all parts of the world. Indeed, had Lothnar chosen, he could have continued to produce the opera for months to come.

But he did not choose. On the 15th of the month his theatre was closed; he ordered his fellowworkers to go and enjoy holidays, in the same autocratic manner as he set them to their task.

Sarolta, still held in a state of tutelage, found that her summer outing had been arranged for her by Madame Costanza and her aunt. Sady—accompanied for propriety's sake by the Normande—came to fetch her at Frankheim, and the three set off for a little-known, simple health-resort, high up in the Black Forest. There Sarolta was ordered to drink milk, and to bask as much as possible in the sunshine. She brought away a great fatigue of body and mind after the strain of the past year, and was glad enough of the enforced rest.

Mrs. Mosenthal had increased her allowance, informing her in a jubilant letter that she had invested a hundred pounds of her salary for her. Sarolta asked no questions; she cared not a jot for such matters.

The girls had scarce been three weeks together, when a telegram summoned Sarolta back to Frankheim. It was brief enough:

"Zuruck kommen—Lothnar."

She had spent the days of her Kur in a kind of apathy which had been of itself a repose. The milk she drank, the long dreamless sleeps which had replaced her broken nights, and the idleness of her waking hours, had done wonders for her appearance and health. But upon receipt of Lothnar's telegram she became as one who has received a new soul; all her listlessness fell from her. She danced into Sady's room with her news, and, at sight of the latter's open dismay, alternately coaxed and stormed. In fact—just for that hurried day of packing and travelling—Sady found again the impetuous lovable Sarolta she thought to have lost for ever.

The American sat watching her friend from the opposite seat of the railway carriage, yearning in almost motherly fashion over her joyful agitation.

"What will be the end of it?" wondered she. "It's more than Schwarmerei—it's obsession! She's got that telegram hidden away over her heart, I know—and oh! how pretty she is, and how little able to take care of herself!"

At the station they were met by Friedhelm Reinhardt, beaming as usual kindness and friendship. Sady, who was going on to Paris by the night express, was delighted to hand over Sarolta to such safe keeping, and still more pleased when she heard that the Viking had appeared to fetch the girl back to his own home.

"You telegraphed to Frau Hegemann to have your room ready," he said. "Now, I have a little piece of news for you. It is not to the Hegemannsche Haus that you are going, Fraulein Sarolta; it is to ours! Even now das Frauchen is nailing up muslin curtains to your bed. Na—that is the Master's wish!"

Sarolta's eyes danced. To be near the Altschloss; to be within sound of the horn when it should blow for Friedhelm; within sight of the gilded vanes—what a vision of bliss! Not to speak of pine forest and torrent to look upon, instead of a mean and dowdy street!

"That is too lovely!" she cried in enthusiasm.

"Ja, nicht wahr?" said Friedhelm. "And the little wife will make you comfortable, never fear!"

He chivalrously disguised the fact that the plan had been not altogether welcome to such a cosy and loving couple as they were. As for the girl, the news brought the finishing touch of glamour to a golden day: Lothnar had thought of her; Lothnar had planned this for her!

"I feel as if my feet could sing for joy to touch Frankheim soil again," she whispered fervently to Sady, when they parted.

"Good-bye, honey," said Sady, her eyes filling with tears. She watched the light figure go trippingly by the giant's side all the length of the station, while those tears slowly overflowed. She was past caring now that Sarolta should care so little; it was her friend's high spirits that filled her with unknown foreboding.

As she got back into the railway carriage to the side of the impassive and cow-like Therese of Normandy, a vague thought began to take shape in her mind:

"It will end by my coming here for good to look after her. Meanwhile, I am glad she is with Frau Bertha."

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST CHIEF MATE.

The case in which Alexander G. Patterson, chief mate of the barque Kidalton, who was charged with having unloaded into the harbour a large quantity of ballast, was concluded yesterday at the Central Police Court, before Mr. Payten, S.M. There were two informations against defendant. One offence was alleged to have been committed on April 4, and the other on April 9. The informations were laid at the instance of J. R. Ferrier, Assistant Harbour Master.

Mr. Mant appeared for the prosecution, and Dr. Brissenden for the defence.

Henry Gander, seaman, on the Kidalton, gave evidence that the barque arrived in Port Jackson on March 24 from East London, and carried broken stone ballast. She anchored in Athol Bight on April 4, at about 8.55 p.m. Ballast was dumped into a lighter, and this afterwards let into Athol Bight by letting go the lighter's bottom right alongside the vessel. Defendant had the ballast dumped. Close on 200 tons of stuff were then in the lighter. On April 9 more ballast was let into the lighter by defendant in the same way. On that occasion about 100 tons of ballast went into the harbour. To Dr. Brissenden witness said that he had asked for his discharge, but had been refused. He gave information to the Harbour Master about the ballast. The rumbling of the ballast going into the water caused the crew to come on deck. There was no animosity between defendant and him.

Frederick Stephens, a seaman, in his evidence, said that there were about 850 tons on board of ballast when the vessel arrived. He saw the mate lower the bottom of the lighter with a windlass.

James Robert Ferrier, Assistant Harbour Master, said that the depth of water where the Kidalton lay was about 40ft at low water. The cost of removing the ballast would be about £50. The ballast alleged to have been dumped would have made a big heap. The Harbour Trust was paid on 850 tons ballast by the Kidalton. To Dr. Brissenden, witness said that vessels drawing up to 30ft could berth in Athol Bight.

Alexander G. Patterson, the defendant, said he was chief officer of the Kidalton. The vessel took ballast in at Tecoma and East London. The ballast was taken by J. W. Alexander, Ltd., stevedore. The stuff was loaded into a hopper. When loaded the tug J. W. Alexander towed the lighter away. On her return the lighter was brought alongside the Kidalton, and again loaded and towed away. No ballast was let out of the lighter by him or anyone else. The same tug towed the lighter away on the third occasion.

Evidence was given by other members of the crew to the effect that they did not hear any noise of ballast slipping into the water.

The master (Timothy Jones) said that the ballast was shifted at 1s 3d per ton, the amount being paid. Some of the witnesses stated that the tug towed the lighter away from the Kidalton.

Joseph Smith (master of the tug J. W. Alexander) said he towed a lighter filled with ballast three times from the barque. On both occasions she had from 280 to 300 tons, the last load not being so heavy.

W. Neasby, engineer of the tug, said that the tug towed the lighter three miles out.

Mr. Payton to defendant: Do you get any bonus whatever from the owners?—No.

It would not expedite your voyage?—No.

Would it lessen your work in any way?—No.

Dr. Brissenden, in submitting that the information should be dismissed remarked that if the stuff had been dumped it would be there still. The prosecution should have proved its existence by sending down a diver.

Mr. Payten said he had already made up his mind to dismiss both informations.

Mr. Mant regretted that Mr. Payten had given his decision before hearing him. The Harbour Trust, he said, had the sworn statement of three men. They must accept that statement as correct. The Harbour Trust could do nothing else except to bring about the action in the interests of justice. How was it possible to identify the ballast. They would have to bring men from East London for that purpose.

Dr. Brissenden asked for costs. Costs were granted in £4 4s in each case.

Both informations were dismissed.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.

IN BANCO.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring, Mr. Justice Sly, and Mr. Acting Justice Ferguson.)

A LIBEL ACTION.

Newel v "Sun" Newspaper Company.

Mr. E. M. Mitchell, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., appeared for the appellant (defendant), and asked for an adjournment of the new trial motion. The action was for alleged libel, in which the plaintiff had obtained a verdict.

Mr. Justice Pring said he thought the case should be settled. It was a small matter, and in his opinion should never have been brought before the Court again.

Mr. Mitchell, having consulted with Mr. Sheridan, who appeared for the respondent in the appeal, announced that a settlement would be arrived at, but it would be necessary for Mr. Sheridan to place the matter before his client.

The case was accordingly adjourned till Monday next.

A QUESTION OF ALIMONY.

Baxter v Baxter.

Mr. McManamey, instructed by Mr. Ernest M. Tebbutt, appeared for the appellant (petitioner); and Mr. A. Thomson, instructed by Mr. W. H. Atkinson, for the respondent. This was an appeal by Annie Baxter, petitioner in the suit for divorce against John Baxter, from the decision of Mr. Justice Gordon, dated the 9th of March, refusing her application for an increased amount of alimony. It appeared that the marriage between the parties was dissolved on December 16, 1902, and it was ordered that the petitioner should have the sole and permanent custody of Isabel Baxter, aged 9 years, one of the children of the marriage. An order was also made directing respondent to pay petitioner 5s per week permanent alimony. She now asserted that the respondent was the principal, or only member, of the firm known as the "Manly Dairy Company," of the Corso, Manly, that he derived a large income from that business, and that he also possessed a cottage at Manly. She stated further that she earned 30s per week by going out washing and cleaning at Manly, but her earnings were precarious, and affected her health. His Honor dismissed the application, holding that so much of rule 119 of the divorce rules was ultra vires as laid down that a wife might at any time after alimony had been allotted to her, whether alimony pendente lite or permanent alimony, apply for an increase of alimony by reason of the increased means of a husband. Petitioner now appealed on the grounds that his Honor was in error in so holding, and in deciding that rule 119 was not intended to apply to cases of a divorced wife or husband, but only to judicial separation. Rule 119 is as follows: "A wife may at any time, after alimony has been allotted to her, whether alimony pendente lite or permanent alimony, apply for an increase in the alimony allotted by reason of the increased means of the husband, or the husband may apply for a diminution of the alimony allotted by reason of reduced means; and the course of proceedings in such cases shall be the same as required by these rules and regulations in respect of the original application for alimony, and the allotment thereof, so far as the same are applicable."

After argument Mr. McManamey consented to an order for the payment of 5s per week to his client.

Mr. Justice Pring said he thought appellant's counsel had taken a wise course in consenting to the Court now making an order for 5s per week. That, of course, would obviate any question that might arise hereafter, whether the provisional order for permanent alimony had been merged in or destroyed by the decree absolute. The Court need not say anything about any of the questions that had been discussed; but he only wanted to say for himself that if he had to decide the case he would follow the decision of the Master of the Rolls in the case of Robertson v Robertson, 8, Probate and Divorce, page 94. It seemed to him a monstrous thing that a wife in a divorce suit should be able to come at any time to the court after a decree has been pronounced, and ask for an order for alimony. By consent, an order would be made for 5s per week permanent alimony.

EQUITY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson, Chief Judge in Equity.)

A DISPUTE AS TO LAND.

Flaherty v Harley and others.

Mr. Flannery and Mr. Betts, instructed by Messrs. Sullivan and MacDermott, of Lismore (by their agents, Messrs. M'Evilly and M'Evilly), appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Innes, instructed by Messrs. M'Intosh and Best, of Lismore (by their agent, Mr. M. A. H. Fitzhardinge), for the defendant Harley. Mr. Maughan, instructed by Messrs. Allen, Allen, and Hemsley, appeared for the Bank of New South Wales to consent to any order the Court might make, and defendant Alfred Marshall Ball appeared in person.

Details of the suit have been published.

His Honor, in giving judgment, said that the evidence showed that the testator knew perfectly well what he was doing, and that he was capable of exercising his judgment when he transferred the land to the defendant. As to the charge brought against the defendant of fraud and undue influence upon and coercion of the testator, his Honor saw no proof of undue influence or coercion, and still less any tittle of evidence of fraud. That being so, the whole of the grounds advanced by the plaintiff failed, and the suit must be dismissed with costs.

DIVORCE COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

DECREES ABSOLUTE.

His Honor made absolute the decrees nisi in the following suits, and declared the marriages dissolved:—Karl Frederick Wilhelm Reukert v Margaretha Bertha Reukert; Cecilia Shipton v George Samuel Lloyd Shipton; Margaret Ann Cody v William Martin Cody, and Angelena Marr v David Marr.

BUCHANAN v BUCHANAN.

A Difficult Question.

Mr. E. M. Mitchell, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, appeared for the petitioner. Respondent did not appear. This was a suit brought by Ethel Buchanan (formerly Hunt) against Harry Buchanan, for dissolution of the marriage on the ground of respondent's misconduct with a woman named Ida Wilmot. The petitioner and respondent were married at San Francisco (California), on February 22, 1901, at the Calvary Presbyterian Church, petitioner being at that time 20 years of age, and respondent 35. A statement of the petitioner's case has already appeared. The suit was before the Court a few days ago, and was then adjourned to enable his Honor to consider whether the petitioner, having absented herself from the respondent for a considerable time, was justified in now coming to the Court for relief in consequence of the misconduct of the respondent, as charged in the petition.

Mr. Mitchell, continuing his argument, cited Mason v Mason, 8 Probate Division, page 21.

Evidence was given by Messrs. Neville Montagu and C. W. Schrader on the question of the respondent's domicile at the time of the institution of the suit. Petitioner was also recalled and briefly examined.

His Honor said that if the law as stated by Mr. Mitchell was correct, it seemed to disclose a somewhat anomalous position. The matter had given him a considerable amount of trouble, especially in regard to the correspondence which had been put in. It was not like a civil case, because in divorce jurisdiction he had a duty to discharge to the public as well as to the parties, and he would like to have further evidence on the question now at issue, namely, whether in the circumstances disclosed, petitioner was entitled to a decree.

Mr. Mitchell: The petitioner informs me that she has the address of a witness who is prepared to give evidence.

The further hearing was then adjourned till Friday next.

INDUSTRIAL COURT

(Before Judge Heydon.)

COLD STORAGE EMPLOYEES.

Mr. Croft appeared for the Cold Storage Employees' Union, and nominated Mr. William James Stritch, of No. 6 Holt-street, Newtown, as employees' representative on the Cold Storage and Ice Manufacturers' (country) Wages Board.

His Honor accepted the nomination. The question of appointing a chairman was left to the Court.

RAILWAY AND TRAMWAY SERVICE.

THE COST OF LIVING.

Mr. Croft appeared for the New South Wales Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Services' Association, in support of an appeal from the decision of the Government Railways and Tramways (Permanent Way) Board, and asked for a reconsideration of the matter. Mr. J. S. Cargill (Solicitor for Railways and Tramways) appeared for the Chief Commissioner.

The hearing of argument was continued, and had not concluded.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Murray.)

A CASE FROM CURL CURL.

Mulroney v Warringah Shire Council.

Mr. G. W. Ash appeared for plaintiff; and Mr. L. Armstrong, instructed by Mr. J. W. Maund, for the defence. This was an action brought by Mary Mulroney, of Curl Curl, Manly, against the Warringah Shire Council, to recover compensation from the defendants on the ground that they broke and entered certain land of plaintiff at Curl Curl, in the shire of Warringah, and blasted and broke and carried away certain stone, whereby the land was greatly damaged. Under a second count, plaintiff claimed that defendants had disposed of the stone so blasted to their own use. Damages were laid at £70. The defence was that the land and goods in question were not plaintiff's.

The case stands part heard.

BANKRUPTCY COURT.

VOLUNTARY SEQUESTRATION.

John Albus Feneley, of 65 Burlington-street, North Sydney, shipping clerk. Mr. C. F. W. Lloyd, official assignee.

EXAMINATION UNDER SECTION 30.

Re Christian Gellatly. Two witnesses were examined. Adjourned to May 11.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Backhouse and juries.)

Mr. Harris prosecuted for the Crown.

ALLEGED LARCENY.

Margaret Barry, a tall young woman of respectable appearance, pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing a pair of earrings, a dress, a blouse, a coat, a skirt, a pair of shoes, a sealette necklet, and money, valued at £12 18s, the property of Mrs. Schwaz. Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for the accused. The case for the Crown was that the accused entered the service of Mrs. Schwaz as a domestic servant, and gave an assumed name. When she left in two days the articles were missing, some of which were found in her possession. The defence was that Mrs. Schwaz had given the accused the articles found in her possession, and she denied taking the other things.

The accused was found guilty, and recommended to mercy on account of her previous good character. His Honor in sentencing her said he would deal with her as a first offender if she would pay the amount of £12 18s forthwith. She was sentenced to nine months' hard labour at the Women's Reformatory, the sentence to be suspended on her finding a surety in the sum of £50 to be of good behaviour for 12 months, and on her paying £12 18s forthwith to the Clerk of the Peace.

MISSING CARPENTER'S TOOLS.

Charles Joseph M'Dermott, a middle aged man, was charged with stealing some carpenter's tools at Kensington, the property of Thomas Wilson. A second count charged him with receiving stolen property. Mr. Warren appeared for the accused, who pleaded not guilty. The tools were stolen from the building where the owner had left them. The defence was that a man named "Joe" handed the accused the tools to dispose of. He did not know anything of the man except that his name was "Joe."

The jury found the accused guilty of receiving. His Honor imposed the nominal sentence of a day's imprisonment.

A BROKEN JAW.

A young man named James Rogers was charged with inflicting grievous bodily harm upon James Guest. He pleaded not guilty, and was defended by Mr. W. Atkinson. The case for the Crown was that accused on the evening of April 7 called Guest out of the bar of a hotel in Sydney, and hit him immediately on the left cheek, breaking his jaw. The defence was that Guest had insulted Rogers's wife at a party in Rogers's house just prior to the assault. Guest denied that he had in any way acted with impropriety towards Mrs. Rogers.

The jury found the accused not guilty, and he was discharged.

RATES ON SHOWGROUND.

ORANGE, Tuesday.

The police magistrate on Monday delivered his reserved decision in the appeal of the Orange Agricultural and Pastoral Association, against the assessment of a portion of the show ground for rating purposes, and the claim for rates therefor. His Worship said he would follow the High Court decision, and dismiss the appeal, thus upholding the right of the shire council to levy rates on the show ground. He refused an application for costs.

A LEADING PUBLICIST AND CRIMINOLOGIST AND JUSTICE OF THE PEACE SAYS THERE IS NO MEDICINE TO EQUAL CLEMENTS TONIC.

"I Speak from Personal Experience of its Merits."

Mr. Albert Sydney Watson, M.A., LL.B., J.P., who gives this Clements Tonic testimony, was recently a sitting Magistrate for Queensland; also J.P. for South Australia, and recently directed the Aviation Exhibition in Adelaide. He founded and was secretary of the Discharged Prisoners' Aid Society of New Zealand, and on his departure was presented with an illuminated address, signed by the Chief Justice, the Stipendiary Magistrate, the visiting Justice of the Prisons, the Mayor of Wellington, Members of Parliament, etc., in recognition of his organising services. The Government of the Australian States have always been glad of his opinion on their prison systems (vide newspaper reports). He is Director of the Progress Advertising Agency, Propy., Ltd., Melbourne, and directly associated with other large businesses. He writes as follows:—

368 Bourke-street, Melbourne.
November 6, 1910.

"CLEMENTS TONIC, LTD.,

"Undoubtedly Clements Tonic is the standard remedy of Australia. There is no imported medicine to equal it, and nothing manufactured in Australasia to be mentioned in the breath with it. It has the most powerful possible tonic and recuperative properties, while at the same time it is a perfectly safe remedy, and may be used by young and old alike. I have proved the value of this medicine, and hence speak from personal experience of its merits. You may use this as you think fit.

"(Signed) ALBERT S. WATSON,
"M.A., LL.B., of U.S.A."

Very many persons who have used CLEMENTS TONIC, and have been entirely cured of their ailments, declare that to have this remedy in the house is to be ensured against ill-health. They write thus to the proprietors, therefore it is wise for everyone to keep it, because here are three effects to its use:—(1) It makes the liver active; (2) the heart regular; (3) the nerves are sound as steel. If these vital functions are kept in this order, you keep well. All Chemists and Stores sell it everywhere.—Advt.

THE WEEK'S SPORT

THE TURF.

THE GRAND NATIONAL STEEPLECHASE.

ONLY THE WINNER STOOD UP.

The Grand National Steeplechase, 1911, will long be remembered as the great cross-country contest at Aintree, in which only one—the winner—got round the tiring course without mishap, and only four finished the course. The starters were Mr. F. Bibby's b g Glenside, by St. Gris from Kilwinnet, by Kilmarlin, aged, 10st 3lb (Mr. J. R. Anthony), 1; Mr. O. H. Jones's b g Rathnally, by St. Pat—Alanna, 6yrs, 11st (R. Chadwick), 2; Mr. P. Nilke's b or br m Shady Girl, by Le Noir—Gertie, aged, 10st 5lb (G. Clancy), 3; Mr. W. M'Neil's ch g Foolhardy, by Sainfoin—Retire, aged, 9st 7lb (owner), 4; Lutteur III., 12st 5lb; Tranion III., 11st 8lb; Jenkinstown, 11st 7lb; Mount Prospect's Fortune, 11st 6lb; Rory O'Moore, 11st 6lb; Caubeen, 11st 5lb; Lord Rivers, 10st 9lb; Fetlar's Pride, 10st 7lb; Carsey, 10st 6lb; Vis, 10st 5lb; Monk V., 10st 1lb; Schwarmer, 10st; Subescun, 10st 1lb; Great Cross, 9st 13lb; Circassian's Pride, 9st 12lb; Precentor II., 9st 11lb; Bridge IV., 9st 9lb; Carder, 9st 7lb; Flaxen, 9st 7lb; Roman Candle, 9st 7lb; Hesperus Magnus, 9st 7lb; Hercules II., 9st 7lb.

The French horse, Lutteur III., who was successful two years ago under 10st 11lb, was sent out favourite at 7 to 2, Caubeen and Rathnally started at 8 to 1, Carsey came next at 100 to 9, Rory O'Moore and last year's winner, Jenkinstown, at 100 to 7 each, while 20 to 1 could be had about Glenside, and 33 to 1 v Shady Girl.

The field of 26 was up to the average in numbers, and the race was a veritable chapter of accidents, though fortunately only one rider was slightly injured, and all the horses got off scot free. The first fence brought down Tranion III., the second Lord Rivers, the third Foolhardy (who was remounted and went on), the fourth Flaxen, the fifth Carsey, who brought down Roman Candle and Schwarmer. Becher's Brook stopped Fetlar's Pride, and at the next obstacle Lutteur III., who was interfered with by a loose horse, got hung up on the top of it, and was cannoned into by Rory O'Moore. Another loose horse brought down Circassian's Pride at the canal turn, where Vis also fell, and Valentine's Brook put Hercules II. out of commission, while Bridge IV. and Great Cross came to grief at the next fence. Jumping on to the racecourse, Jenkinstown fell. Here Caubeen and Precentor II. were leading, clear from Rathnally, Glenside, and Monk V. Going into open country again, Mount Prospect's Fortune and Precentor II. came down, and crossing Becher's Brook for the second time, Caubeen came to grass, while Rathnally was cannoned into, and lost his rider, but was remounted, and went on. Here Shady Girl and Glenside were the only ones left in the race, the remounted Foolhardy being a quarter of a mile behind the pair. A mile from home Shady Girl fell, but was remounted, and again gave chase to Glenside and Rathnally, but Glenside came on alone, and beat Rathnally by twenty lengths, with Shady Girl three lengths away, while Foolhardy managed to finish the course. The journey (4m and 856yds) occupied 10m 35s. It is probable that a more tired horse than Glenside has never finished in a Grand National, for his tongue was hanging out of his mouth in the last quarter of a mile, and had there been anything near him he must have been beaten.

The position of Glenside in the betting market was accounted for by the fact that he had been coughing a few days before the race, and that was further accentuated by marks of recent blistering on his throat. His owner, Mr. Bibby, was, owing to illness, not present to see the race, but Mrs. Bibby led the winner into the paddock, amid hearty cheering. It will be remembered that Mr. Bibby also won the Grand National, 1905, with Kirkland, a son of Kirkham, who was one of the first batch of youngsters sent to England by the late Hon. James White, with designs on the English Derby.

Though the going was good, the time for the race was very slow. Jenkinstown covered the course last year in 10m 4 4-5s, and the year before the French horse Lutteur III. accounted for the distance in 9m 53 4-5s. Though no time was taken for the first round of the course, the pace must have been pretty fast, and the general opinion was that the first mile and a half was run as if they were going to finish the first time round. This would account for the number of falls, and the interference of loose horses was also responsible for several of the mishaps.

Mr. J. R. Anthony, who piloted Glenside, scored his first win in the great cross-country race.

The New Zealand representative Gold Seal II., by Gold Reef, the property of Mr. G. P. Donnelly, was not among the starters.

INCREASE OF PRIZE MONEY.

The friendly rivalry that exists between the two leading turf institutions of the Commonwealth—the Australian Jockey Club and the Victoria Racing Club—in the matter of providing valuable stakes, has given great impetus to the thoroughbred stock industry. The big prizes hung up for competition on both sides of the Murray, encourage breeders to invest large sums of money in the purchase of high-class stallions and brood mares, while, on the other hand, there is the incentive to launch out freely when purchasing the juvenile thoroughbreds with the view of participating in the distribution of the prize money so liberally provided. The recent decision of the committee of the Victoria Racing Club to increase the stakes cannot be other than satisfactory to breeders and owners of racehorses throughout Australasia, and its importance to the great army of racegoers, who supply the sinews of war, is of equal interest, inasmuch as they are always ready to afford willing support to the national game, in which the best equine talent competes.

The V.R.C. committee last week decided to increase the prize money for the coming season, 1911-12, by 3700 sovs., and, in its distribution, the executive has done the right thing in encouraging the breed of horses possessed of speed and endurance. During the current season the added money provided by the V.R.C. aggregated £46,630, but next season with the addition of £3700, the total will be £50,330. The prize for the Melbourne Cup will be increased from 6000 to 7000 sovs.; that for the Newmarket Handicap from 1250 to 2000 sovs.; Australian Cup from 1250 to 2000 sovs.; Essendon Stakes from 750 to 1000 sovs.; Loch Plate from 500 to 750 sovs.; C. B. Fisher Plate from 500 to 750 sovs., as well as some increases to the minor events; while the prize for the Sires' Produce Stakes, 1914, was increased by 250 sovs.

Though there is no prize on the programme of the Australian Jockey Club for the coming season equal in value to that for the Melbourne Cup, in the aggregate the prize money provided by the A.J.C. exceeds by £6070 that furnished by the V.R.C., the figures being:—A.J.C. £56,400, V.R.C. £50,330. Instead of heavily subsidising any particular race, the A.J.C. distributes the added money so that more owners can participate, and each gain a substantial prize.

NOTES.

The success of Glenside in the Liverpool Grand National Steeplechase was worth £2400 to his owner, and places his sire, St. Gris, at the head of the list of winning stallions whose progeny have been racing under the National Hunt rules. St. Gris had only two winning representatives during the jumping season, and their total was £2443. Hackler came next with 11 wins, worth £1820; then follow Perigord, 12 for £1611; Royal Meath, eight for £1514; Persimmon, four for £1387; Bushey Park, eight for £1134; Red Prince II., eight for £1077; and Uncle Mac, three for £1044.

The ex-Australian sportsman Mr. Fairie, who headed the list of winning owners in England last season, has secured third call on the services of Frank Wootton for the current season.

The Sydney lads F. Wootton and W. Huxley were in evidence during the week for which latest English files are to hand. At Liverpool, on Grand National Day, Wootton had a winning mount on his father's gelding Goldwin in the Thursby Selling Handicap, and on the final day he piloted Madrina to victory in the Tyro Selling Plate. At Warwick, on the opening day, he won the Ladies' Plate on Lord Wolverton's Golden Lily, and he secured the Elvaston Castle Selling Plate on an unnamed filly by Galashiels at Derby, where W. Huxley was also successful in the Portland Plate on Scotch Duke, with Stanley Wootton second on Orne.

The totalisator fractions of the Onkaparinga meeting on Easter Monday amounted to £96 15s, of which £25 was donated to the fund in aid of the widow and children of the late jockey H. Holmes, and the rest was distributed among the charitable institutions of Adelaide.

The autumn campaign of the South Australian Jockey Club opens on Saturday, with every prospect of success. The general entry of 360 is a record for the last five years, and the large contingent of Victorian horses that have gone across to take part in the different events will enhance the interest in the sport. The great rivals, Trafalgar and Comedy King, are now in Adelaide, and will in all probability measure strides in the Elder Stakes, a w.f.a. event run over nine furlongs. Dyed Garments, Eyeglass, Jolly Beggar, and last year's winner, Dhobi, are also engaged in that event, but all interest will be centred in the meeting of Trafalgar and Comedy King. The latter, of course, will be suited by the distance, and may avenge his last defeat in the two miles race at Randwick.

Apparently the win of the Martian colt Danube in the New Zealand St. Leger, at the Wellington Jockey Club's Autumn Meeting on Saturday was not anticipated. A week before the race the colt was reported to be under a cloud, leg trouble being the cause, and that was ascribed to hard tracks. It was then understood that he would not be a starter in the St. Leger, and, as no horse had hitherto succeeding in landing the classic treble—the C.J.C. Derby, Great Northern Derby, and New Zealand St. Leger—it looked as though the sequence would be continued. However, according to the cable, he captured the red ribbon at Trentham with ridiculous ease, and is another instance of the lame horse winning. Danube was purchased as a yearling at the dispersal of the late Mr. G. G. Stead's racing stud in 1908 by Mr. G. D. Greenwood for 600 guineas. He has been a good investment, for he won four races out of eight starts as a two-year-old, and his success in the classic events during the current season has placed a nice sum to the credit of his owner.

Though imported Positano was credited with the greater number of winners at the A.J.C. meeting, St. Alwyne's representatives secured more stake money, their earnings amounting to £5700; Maltster came next with two winners of £2793; followed Wallace, two winners for £2271; Positano, three for £2216; Clanranald, one for £1946; Flavus (imp.), two for £1859; Prudent King, two for £1345; Challenger (imp.), two for £1278; and single wins were credited to Persimmon for £879; Ayr Laddie, £716; Gerard, £641; Orzil (imp.), £556; Simmer (imp.), £492; Associate, £360; Schimmel, £386; Conqueror (N.Z.), £292; and Mistake, £242.

TROTTING AND PACING.

The Bathurst Show last week brought to a conclusion the round of Easter trotting events, which proved the most successful and interesting yet held in Australia. Over £1300 was given in prize money by the New South Wales Trotting Club, the Australian Trotting Club, the Royal Agricultural Show, and the Bathurst A. H. and P. Association during the time mentioned, and as a fitting conclusion, a pacing record for the State was put up at Bathurst.

The Bathurst A. H. and P. Association offered a prize of 50 sovs to the horse that could beat the Bathurst Show track record of 2m 13 4-5s, put up by Fritz nine years ago. There were five entrants—Ribbonite, Van Roy, Denver Huon, and Rock Huon, but only Denver Huon and Van Roy started. Denver Huon, driven by A. Millsom, and paced by the Bathurst horseman, Hilton Piper, on a galloper, had no difficulty in annexing the 50 sovereigns, for, cutting out the first half in 1m 5s, he finished the mile comfortably in 2m 12s. It was stated in some quarters that Denver Huon had beaten Fritz's record, but this is not correct, as Fritz's record was put up as a free-legged trotter, whilst Denver Huon is a pacer.

Denver Huon is a six-year-old stallion, by the successful sire Huon, Junior, from Leila, by Honesty. He was sold at the break-up of the late C. H. Fitzgerald's stud at Dubbo in 1906 for 28 guineas, and so far has done everything asked of him. He holds the mile and a half and two miles race records of the New South Wales Trotting Club with 3m 25s and 4s 42¾s, respectively, and, taking a line from his performance at Bathurst on a half-mile track, it looks a foregone conclusion that on a specially prepared mile track he could break the Australasian record of 2m 9s, held by champion Ribbonwood.

The veteran enthusiast, Dr. G. M. Slate, who has a leaning towards the American style of heat racing, with the object of giving an exhibition of that style, donated a prize at Bathurst of 20 sovs for a Free-for-all, best two out of three, one mile heats, and the result fully justified the doctor's penchant for this style of racing. Unfortunately, Denver Huon had injured a knee slightly the day previously when putting up the track record, and did not start, the competitors being Ribbonite, Van Roy, and Rock Huon. Ribbonite won the draw, and had inside position. Ribbonite and Van Roy, who was driven by A. Millsom, raced locked together for the mile, Ribbonite ultimately winning by a head in 2m 16s. In the second heat Van Roy led to the final turn for home, when Ribbonite raced past him, and won by a length in 2m 16½s.

Ribbonite is a five-year-old stallion by Ribbonwood (2m 9s) from Maud M., a mare by Huon from Folly, both imported by Dr. G. M. Slate some 26 years ago. Ribbonite, who previous to the Bathurst Show had an exhibition mile of 2m 16s against him, has been for some months trained by the ex-American horseman, W. Wright, and he won at Bathurst with such ease, that 2m 12s should be well within his compass later. Dr. Slate thus had the satisfaction of seeing his prize secured by a horse whose dam was bred by himself from two imported American horses, whom he brought to this country.

Another fine performance at Bathurst was credited to the two-year-old filly Sweet Elmo, who conceded Black Wilkes, Junior, 8s start, and made a dead-heat of it with this son of Black Wilkes. Sweet Elmo's time was 3m 45s for the mile and a half, which works out 2m 30s to the mile, a fine performance for a two-year-old filly thus early in the season. She is by St. Elmo, and is the first of that horse's get to race, which augurs well for his future success at the stud. Sweet Elmo is out of Kola, by Harold Childe, a sterling racehorse in her day. St. Elmo was, or perhaps it would be more correct to say is, for he is a comparatively young horse, a racehorse of high-class and courage, so it is not to be wondered at Sweet Elmo is in turn a filly out of the common. It is said that she is likely later on in the season to go against the Australasian record for a two-year-old, and held by Sal Tasker, to wit, 2m 30s.

POLO.

KING GEORGE'S INTEERST IN THE GAME.

England is determined to wrest the America Cup from the present holders. Already the America Cup Recovery Fund amounts to well over £6000. The 35 ponies for the use of the English polo team arrived by the Minnetonka in New York early in April. They were in charge of Mr. J. W. Nolans, the veterinary surgeon. The English team will be chosen from Captain Hardress Lloyd, Captain H. Wilson, Captain F. W. Barrett, Captain Leslie Cheape, and Mr. E. W. Palmes.

The deep and practical interest which King George is taking in the polo team to represent England against America was evidenced on May 27, when he granted a brief audience to the three of the six chosen players who were in England at the moment. His Majesty said he took a deep interest in polo, and wished the English team every success in the cup contest.

The King's Coronation Polo Cup tournament will be contested at Ranelagh. The Indian team will be Captain Barrett (15th Hussars), Captain Cheape (King's Dragoon Guards), Mr. Palmes (10th Hussars), and Captain Lockett (17th Lancers), or Major Vickham (King's Dragoon Guards).

Local teams, especially in the country, are getting into form for the coming contest for the Dudley Cup.

COURSING.

THE SCARCITY OF HARES.

In the running of puppy stakes coursing men generally would be pleased to see the length of the slip shortened. Puppies are not to be expected to sight "puss" so smartly as older dogs, nor are they possessed of the same pace, and as a consequence with a long slip they often fail to sight the game, and no courses result. Then, again, even if they do sight the hare it often happens that with such a long start puss either beats them home or is only overtaken a few yards before reaching cover. A couple of turns, and the speedier of the puppies wins. If the slip were shorter the speedier puppy would certainly lead to the hare, and might win eventually, but it must be taken into consideration that his opponent may be much the better worker of the pair, so much so, in fact, that with a slightly shortened slip, and consequently more opportunity for turning the hare, he might very possibly work off the points gained for the lead-up, and run out a winner with a fair margin of points in his favour.

The difficulty in obtaining hares still continues. The secretaries of the various coursing clubs are at their wits' end to secure a sufficient number to see them through the season. They point out that hares are just as plentiful as in previous seasons, but that the men on whom they generally depend for their supply won't go to the trouble of catching them. With all classes of labour at a premium, these men, who in slacker times would be quite willing to put in their spare time catching hares for the clubs, are now earning such good money that they are inclined to be independent, and to suit their own ends pretend that animals are very scarce. The same trouble arose some years back. It was said that hares were unprocurable, but when the clubs offered £1 apiece it was discovered that quite a fair supply could be obtained. Such would seem the crux of the present trouble. The men are too well off, and are averse to doing any more work than they consider necessary. Still, the difficulty is likely to be solved within the next few weeks, for a number of enthusiastic coursing men propose organising a hare drive, and it is more than probable that within a couple of weeks a party will leave for the western districts, where, according to the run holders in that portion of the State, the much-wanted animals are more plentiful than ever. That being so, and given ordinary luck, the clubs should soon be independent of the men to whom they usually look for their supplies of hares.

The Kensington Coursing Club purpose running a two days' coursing meeting on the 18th and 19th of the current month.

GOLF.

ON THE LINKS.

CLUB COMPETITIONS.

With a touch of winter in the air golf is at last in full swing, no fewer than 10 clubs in and around the metropolis reporting competitions on Saturday. Entries were numerous, too, there being 74 players in the Australian Club's teams' match, and a like number took part in the Manly Club's autumn open bogey handicap. Killara had nearly 50 entries for the silver putter, and other links were well sprinkled with players.

Manly started its third annual autumn meeting auspiciously. The links were in splendid order, and, despite a rather strong wind, many good cards were returned against the bogey of 78. First and best of these was that of T. S. Cheadle, who, from scratch, finished 1 up, and played in excellent form, driving his usual long ball, but excelling himself on the greens. Going out he was 1 down, and losing the next two holes was 3 down and 7 to play, but from that point recovered brilliantly, winning four and halving three of the remaining holes. Cheadle will shortly be leaving Sydney for Wellington, where he will be an acquisition to the local club. He hopes to get to Sydney in August for country week, and has designs on the country championship. J. H. Bettington, of Armidale, and E. J. B. Macarthur, each with a handicap of 2, and W. J. Douglas (11), were bracketed for second place, with cards of square, an excellent result. Macarthur played splendid golf to the 14th hole, where he stood in an apparently winning position with 3 up and 4 to play, but lost three of the last four holes. C. A. Sinclair (1) had a good card of 1 down, and so did A. W. Buzacott (10). Sinclair put up a splendid performance towards the end of the round, when he notched threes at the 15th and 16th holes, each bogied in four, and followed this up by holing his tee shot at the 17th (the Peninsula). The three holes, for which bogey in the aggregate is 11, thus cost him only seven strokes. Quite a number of players returned cards of two, three, and four down, and the results showed excellent handicapping, due in a great measure to the system of general handicaps inaugurated by the New South Wales Golf Council.

In the silver putter competition at Killara W. Atkins, jun., scored his third win in the event, his other two successes having been scored within the last few months. He is a young player with a good deal of weight, which he uses well, getting a long ball with both wood and iron clubs. He has improved a great deal during the last month or two, and is still in the running for the club championship. On Saturday he had a remarkably even card of 82, taking 40 out and 42 home, which, after deducting a handicap of 14, gave him a card of 68 net. He had sixes at the sixth and twelfth holes and a 3 at the seventh, with which exceptions his card showed all fours and fives.

F. Amphlett also had a card of 82, the result of steady play, but his handicap being lower than Atkins' he only ran into second place, while H. N. Giblin was third with exactly the same gross score less 8. W. Bourke, an improving player, was successful in the "B" grade with a card of 101—32—69.

Some good matches were played in connection with the Killara Club championship. E. Springthorpe was in his most brilliant mood against L. Upward, whom he defeated 5 up and 4. He was out in 35, and at the turn was 3 up on Upward, who, playing solidly, was out in 38. Coming home Springthorpe continued to play splendid golf, though he was in trouble at the twelfth and picked up. With the exception of this hole he was back in 32 for 8 holes, or 67 for 17 holes. Upward played grittily, but his opponent outclassed him. Springthorpe had threes at the fifth, seventh, eighth, and tenth holes, and fives at the first, fourth, and sixteenth holes, everything else taking fours.

R. Colquhoun and W. Andrew had a very even game, though neither player was in his best form, the golf being rather patchy. They were neck and neck the whole way, the match being carried to the last green, honours resting with Colquhoun.

On a later occasion Colquhoun and Springthorpe played their match in the second round, another close game resulting. Springthorpe failed to maintain the brilliant form displayed against Upward, and was somewhat inclined to hook his drive, while some of his second shots were sliced. Colquhoun played steadily and putted in irresistible fashion. On the first green he holed a 20-foot putt for a half, and at the second he won the hole by running down a 20-yard putt from the adjoining green for a 3. Both men drove out of bounds at the third, Springthorpe winning the hole in 4. Springthorpe by winning the fifth stood 1 up, but Colquhoun took two holes and stood 1 up at the eighth. At the thirteenth Springthorpe missed an 18-inch putt, and only halved the hole, the position then being all square. A long putt was of service to Colquhoun at the fifteenth, giving him the lead, and [illegible] also [illegible] him at the next hole, his second shot being badly pulled, but struck a fence post and bumped on to the green, enabling him to halve the hole. Colquhoun won the seventeenth and the match 2 up and 1, and has now to beat the winner of the W. Atkins, jun., and J. E. Matthews match to retain the championship, which he won last year.

Only five cards were returned in the bogey competition at the Royal Sydney Club's links at Rose Bay, and the golf was not of the highest standard. H. B. Gritton (6) and R. E. Bailey (7) returned cards of 3 down, but top form was not displayed by either player.

F. S. Shenstone scored a good win in Dobroyde's monthly medal competition, and played a steady round of 87 less 14=73. The Dobroyde links are in very much improved condition, the long grass having been cut. It is a long course, however, with a par of 74, and 87 is a much better round than similar figures on the majority of our links. C. C. Nelson, who had a round of 90, missed putts on each of the last four greens, and lost a chance of equalling Shenstone's net card.

The Australian Club played a teams match, followed by an excellent dinner, at the club-house (to which some 70 members sat down), as an introduction to the annual meeting, which followed. The annual report disclosed a satisfactory state of affairs and a profit of about £200. In several of the speeches reference was made to the necessity for more match play, and the hope was expressed that next year both the Australian and Royal Sydney clubs would see their way clear to enter teams for the interclub competitions organised by the Suburban and Country Association. A suggestion was also made that more match-play should be encouraged in the club itself, and that club dinners should be held more frequently, as a means of bringing the members together. It seems beyond doubt that amateur golf in New South Wales will never reach its proper height until the two metropolitan clubs determine to encourage match play to the utmost. The best means of doing this is probably to enter teams in the interclub competition, as suggested, but, failing this, matches with outside clubs might be arranged.

The following office-bearers were elected:—Patron, Lord Dudley; president, Senator J. T. Walker; vice-presidents, E. J. B. Macarthur, A. E. D'Arcy, E. L. Rutledge; captain, Langer Owen; hon. treasurer, W. L. Docker; committee, H. M. Cockshott, A. W. H. Padfield, A. J. M'Lachlan, T. W. Garrett, O. H. O'Brien, and J. Vicars.

At Concord G. Bonnington scored his second win in quick succession in the B grade medal handicap by returning a card of 105—32=73, and was not extended. He is an improving player.

Mixed foursomes were played on the ladies' course, the trophy being annexed by Miss McFadyen (a new member, who plays a nice game), partnered by H. Osborne, whose speciality is steadiness. Their round of 97 was subject to a handicap of 23, which gave them a win by one stroke only from Miss N. Moore, the club's associate secretary, and W. A. Little, who by dint of steady play nearly enabled his partner to win the trophy he himself presented. It may be explained that Little was not playing for his own trophy, which was for ladies only. Their round of 87 was easily the best gross return.

The Hunter's Hill stroke competition was won by F. J. Blaxland, with a moderate card of 83, which is not within strokes of his capabilities. It, however, gave him a net card of 76, one stroke better than those returned by R. D. Fitzgerald, F. H. Blaxland, and C. W. Smith, who tied for third place.

The Bonnie Doon Club announce an open stroke competition for amateurs and professionals on Saturday, June 3 (King's Birthday). For amateurs the event is 18 holes handicap, and trophies are offered for best net and best gross scores. The professionals will contest 36 holes, and cash prizes of £5 5s for best net score and £3 3s for best gross score are offered.

Entries should be sent to the hon. secretary, Mr. T. J. Aldcorn, at Commercial Banking Company, head office, George-street, on or before Monday, May 29.

BASEBALL.

OPENING OF THE SEASON.

On Saturday next the season will open with a field day at Petersham Park. The function will be the first of its kind ever undertaken in Australia, and in many respects will be a departure from the ordinary athletic sports.

In addition to a variety of footraces for seniors and juniors, events incidental to baseball have been included in a lengthy programme, such as long-distance throwing, sliding to bases; accurate throwing, 30 yards, through two hoops; circling the bases, 120 yards.

A large number of entries has been received. The competitions will start at 1.30 p.m., and all contestants must appear in their club uniform. An exhibition game has been arranged between two evenly-matched teams, and although there has been very little time for practice the proficiency of the players should produce an effective display. The following are the teams—

C. Franks.	Pitchers.	R. V. Tait.
J. Franks.	Catchers.	C. W. Simmonds.
C. V. Single.	First Base.	H. Granger.
E. Newton.	Second Base.	L. Minnett.
R. V. Minnett.	Third Base.	F. E. M'Elhone.
W. W. Chapman.	Short Stop.	R. W. Law.
E. Rowlands.	Left Field.	W. H. Pratt.
H. Coombes.	Centre Field.	A. D. Watson.
F. Bamford.	Right Field.	C. Bury.

The officials appointed are:—Starter, C. W. Simmonds; referee, F. M'Mullen; judges, baseball events, W. J. C. Kelly and T. J. Proud; footraces, A. J. Stephens and W. Forsythe; timekeeper, D. Price; stewards, E. A. Tyler, G. Sayle, J. Farr, and C. A. Brough; megaphonist, H. Mortley; umpires, baseball match, J. Searle and A. E. Bennett; scorers, W. Renshaw and D. M'Intyre; hon. secretary, J. Young.

A special meeting of the Baseball Association was held last week in the Y.M.C.A. rooms, when the revised rules embodying alterations in the constitution were adopted. Hitherto not less than 12 vice-presidents, with full privileges and voting power, have been elected at the annual meeting of the association, which, in comparison with the number of delegates representing clubs, gave them an influence considered unreasonable. In future the number of vice-presidents will be limited to seven. The position should be regarded as one of honour, and might very well be conferred as a reward for services rendered. Unfortunately, there is a tendency nowadays in all sports to forget those who have helped to build up the edifice.

The amalgamation of Mosman-North Sydney has been ratified, on assurance being given that it was only likely to be temporary, and it being understood that if it was not sanctioned several prominent players would probably go out of the game.

The Surry United Club, winners of the Centennial Park cricket competition, will compete in the A division, besides those already announced. Eight teams have now entered for the district division, 11 for the A division, and 10 for the B division.

Permits have been granted to C. Franks for Leichhardt, F. W. Jones (Burwood), and Pitcher H. Woolcott (Waverley). Colt E. P. Woolcott, first baseman, will probably be allotted to Paddington. R. F. Harvey, of University, has applied to be allowed to play for Burwood.

The schedule of fixtures will be drafted this week, and an endeavour will be made to popularise the game in the northern suburbs, where it has been languishing through lack of opportunity to place it on local grounds.

BILLIARDS.

LINDRUM'S WONDERFUL FORM.

A RIVAL OF GRAY AS A HAZARD PLAYER.

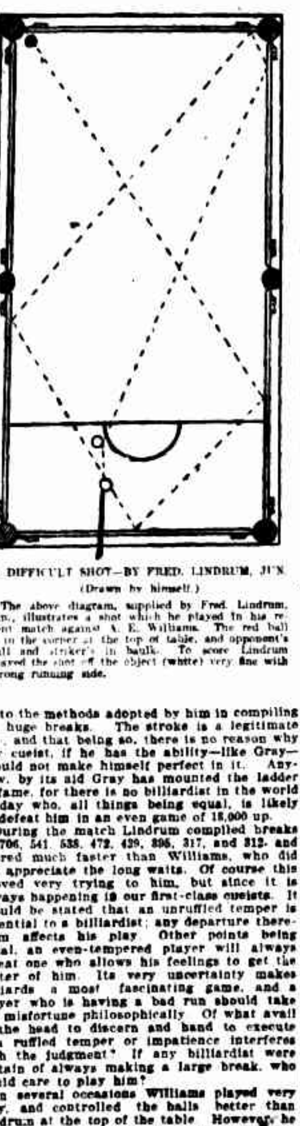
The Lindrum-Williams exhibition match, which had been in progress during the past fortnight at Messrs. Heiron and Smith's rooms, Castlereagh-street, ended in an easy victory for the Australasian champion by 5058 points.

During the first week play was not of an interesting nature, probably caused by the new set of bonzoline balls, which were, so it is said, "greasy." Commencing with the Monday of the second week, however, both players showed improved form, more particularly the Australasian champion, who not only made several large losing hazard breaks—incidentally breaking his own previous record—but gave an excellent all-round display, and obtained a long lead.

Victory being assured for him, Lindrum on several occasions tried to make the game more varied and entertaining by keeping to the all-round game, especially was this so in the afternoon sessions. In this he failed at times, for the balls broke badly for him, and his opponent getting in, scored so well that the sessions were rather prolonged, two of them lasting two and a half hours, and during them Williams scored 1058 and 1024 against Lindrum's 700 in each instance.

Excepting on two occasions it was in the evening sessions that Lindrum shone, his losing hazards being extremely well played. Prior to the match his best break was 507, but these figures were beaten on three occasions—706, 538, and 541. Of the first-named break, 691 had been made during last Saturday's afternoon session, and, had he continued his break then, it is quite possible that he would have reached the thousand, for, whether it was the longer loser to the top pockets or the short one to the centre pockets, there was no indecision, the ball finding the centre of the pocket with rare precision.

Experts may assert that the losing hazard is a monotonous stroke to watch, and so it is—to them; but to the non-expert there is a fascination in watching that red ball traversing the green baize, for practically nearly every stroke is different. As a match-winner, George Gray has demonstrated that the red ball is—par excellence—the stroke, and in years to come, when his marvellous record is being recounted, the public will care little as to the methods adopted by him in compiling his huge breaks. The stroke is a legitimate one, and that being so, there is no reason why any cueist, if he has the ability—like Gray—should not make himself perfect in it. Anyhow, by its aid Gray has mounted the ladder of fame, for there is no billiardist in the world to-day who, all things being equal, is likely to defeat him in an even game of 18,000 up.



A DIFFICULT SHOT—BY FRED. LINDRUM, JUN.
(Drawn by himself.)

The above diagram, supplied by Fred. Lindrum, jun., illustrates a shot which he played in his recent match against A. E. Williams. The red ball is in the corner at the top of table, and opponent's ball and striker's in baulk. To score Lindrum played the shot off the object (white) very fine with strong running side.

During the match Lindrum compiled breaks of 706, 541, 538, 472, 429, 395, 317, and 312, and scored much faster than Williams, who did not appreciate the long waits. Of course this proved very trying to him, but since it is always happening in our first-class cueists. It should be stated that an unruffled temper is essential to a billiardist; any departure therefrom affects his play. Other points being equal, an even-tempered player will always defeat one who allows his feelings to get the better of him. Its very uncertainty makes billiards a most fascinating game, and a player who is having a bad run should take his misfortune philosophically. Of what avail is the head to discern and hand to execute if a ruffled temper or impatience interferes with the judgment? If any billiardist were certain of always making a large break, who would care to play him?

On several occasions Williams played very ably, and controlled the balls better than Lindrum at the top of the table. However, he is not so quick as the Australian in deciding on his stroke, nor does he move so fast around the table. Still, he is a very fine billiardist.

Lindrum is one of the most entertaining of cueists; his mentality is alert, for he quickly decides as to which stroke he will play, and his perception in this respect is little inferior to either Stevenson or Roberts. Now that Edward Reece (who is regarded as England's greatest cannon player) and Lindrum are to meet in the near future, amateurs will be given an opportunity of instituting comparisons, which will no doubt prove interesting.

After the match, Williams stated that in his opinion Lindrum would defeat Gray in a match for money. He bases his opinion on the fact that Lindrum is much the cleverer of the two lads in finding position; but it has also to be written that since Williams last saw Gray perform the latter has made 20 breaks of over 1000 in England, and may have improved greatly in his play.

Williams also states that in his opinion none of the English billiardists can make a success of the red ball game, else they would have been heard from long ago. He had tried to master it, and had so far failed, so has decided to keep to his old game in the future.

Following are the breaks of over a century compiled in the Lindrum-Williams match. The Australasian champion's array looks imposing:—

Lindrum.—706, 541, 538, 472, 429, 395, 317, 312, 289, 243, 236, 221, 209, 202, 195, 193, 194, 188, 185, 168, 166, 149, 156, 152, 152, 146, 128, 114, 134, 124, 120, 113, 112, 111, 107, 106, 115, 104, 101, 101.

Williams.—288, 247, 207, 183, 175, 170, 163, 161, 158, 152, 141, 137, 125, 135, 116, 114, 106.

It will be seen that Lindrum made more than half of his 14,000 points by the aid of three-figure breaks.

George Gray has published a book on "Red Ball Play." He says that any success he has had he attributes to the serious study of the science as a science, and to constant and purposeful practice. He also refers to the good health and complete concentration of mind essential to success. He also reminds the amateur that the red ball game is the secret of success, a statement he has backed up by the following wonderful array of figures:—2196 (unfinished), 1576, 1402, 1340, 1318, 1178, 1244, 1212, 1201, 1200, 1168, 1143, 1143, 1140, 1092, 1055, 1084, 1024, 1024, 1001, and 1205. No other player has made a thousand break under the present rules.

Whilst playing against Edward Diggle recently George Gray was personally congratulated by Lord Alverstone on his splendid form.

FOOTBALL.

RUGBY UNION.

Next Saturday will see the opening of the Metropolitan Rugby Union competitions for first, second, and third grades. The majority of the teams have been practising assiduously, and the probabilities are that the contests for the premiership will prove very keen and interesting. A number of players who took part in last season's opening games will not be with their clubs this year, as they have thrown in their lot with the league. However, new men are coming to the front, and although several of the teams will include a greater percentage of young players than was the case previously, their keenness will make up to some extent for their lack of experience. The majority of the clubs will have vacancies to fill, and it may be some time before they settle down thoroughly, but there is always a little uncertainty at the beginning of every season as to the exact personnel of the teams.

Newtown appear to be very strong, and will place a formidable side in the field. It will be interesting to note which team will be the first to spoil their last season's unbeaten record. The fact that they will have a number of experienced men will make them a formidable side to vanquish.

Eastern Suburbs and University are close up, and these two clubs will have fairly strong fifteens. Both are noted for the brilliancy and pace of their football, and they always make the game fast and open. Their meeting is regarded as one of the tit-bits of the season. As they will be opponents in the opening game of the season at the Sydney Cricket Ground on Saturday, the match should be worth witnessing.

S. R. Stafford, who was full-back for University, will probably play for Eastern Suburbs this season. There is some doubt as to his residential qualification, but the matter is being considered by the union, and will be decided before Saturday.

Glebe have not shown anything worthy of note in their form up to the present, but always seem to come along with a fairly solid side when the competition begins. Their defeat at the hands of University last Saturday should have a beneficial effect.

The remaining teams are a fairly even lot, and are plodding along steadily. North Sydney promised well last season, and may spring a surprise on Glebe next Saturday. Appearances point to some up and down periods for the majority of the weaker teams.

According to Mr. J. Flanagan, it is not certain that South Sydney will take part in the competition, but he hopes to be able to get a side together.

The City and Suburban Rugby Union started their games last Saturday, and although several of the teams were not up to full strength owing to the cricket season the matches were keenly contested, and the form shown very good.

With all the players available on Saturday next, everything will be in full swing. The City and Suburban Union referees will hold their annual meeting to-morrow evening at the Metropolitan Rugby Union rooms.

The Great Public Schools have three games for to-day. Prominent among these is the King School (last year's premiers) v Sydney Grammar School, at Parramatta. The former have only five or six of last year's men left, and a close game should result. Mr. Harding will act as referee. The other games are St. Joseph's College v Sydney Church of England Grammar School, at Hunter's Hill, referee Mr. A. C. W. Hill, and St. Ignatius College v Newington College, at Riverview, referee Mr. C. B. Cochrane.

New Zealand Rugby Union will hold their annual meeting on May 11 at Wellington. One of the proposals to be considered is to abolish the wing forward, which is a move in the right direction, for the wing forward is to a great extent a "spoiler," and is very seldom "on side." Another suggestion that will come up for discussion is that a free kick be awarded when the ball is not thrown in five yards at a line-out. The penalty at present is only a scrum.

Eastern Suburbs have chosen the following to represent them against 'Varsity:—Full-back, Lyne; three-quarter, Scally, D'Alpuget, Milner, Garrett; five-eighth, Bolden; half, Corbett; forwards, Duffy, Graves, Baker, Fahey, Wallack, George, Hourigan, Russell. Reserves: Backs, Macnamara and Newman; forwards, M'Gee and Cameron. The selectors are Messrs. Fahey, Corbett, and Alston.

RUGBY LEAGUE.

INTERESTING CLUB MATCHES.

THE AMERICAN TRIP.

The Rugby League season opened on Saturday in congenial football weather, just sufficient of the nip of winter to make play enjoyable to the participants. The League has reason to congratulate itself on the attendances on the first day, it being estimated that about 18,000 attended the three grounds on which the matches were played. When the cold weather is entirely upon us, cricket done with, and the crack sides are meeting each other, the attendances should be much larger. Taken all round the form displayed by the clubs was of a fairly high standard.

At Metters' ground, Erskineville, Newtown (the premiers), playing the better game, defeated Balmain by 16 to 3, after an evenly-contested first spell. The men from Birchgrove have a bustling lot of forwards, somewhat reminiscent of the vanguard that represented the district in 1906, and which proved very troublesome to all-comers towards the latter part of that season. As scrummagers they heeled better than the victorious "Blues" in the first half, but subsequently were less successful. The forwards of the losing side, however, cannot be blamed for defeat. It was their relatively ordinary back division.

When Newtown secured possession from the scrum, the passing and handling of the backs were generally good, the combination being of a high order. Balmain backs, on the other hand, worked individually, and though defensively good, they could not withstand the concerted attacks of the local team's "threes," for whom the two recruits—Roy Farnsworth and W. H. Graham—played finely. Last year the former took part in the second grade Rugby Union competition with Marrickville, and appears likely to become the equal of his two more famous elder brothers. Graham was in the three-quarter line for the local union team in 1910, and for a couple of seasons previously he took part in the Hunter River R.U. competition.

The forwards were hardly the equals of the vanquished, though Noble played ably. For Balmain, M'Murtrie (from Orange) and his fellow-Wallaby (R. R. Craig), besides Graves, displayed good form.

It was South Sydney, however, that gave the finest exhibition of the day in their 25-5 victory over North Sydney. They have the best of last year's local Union side, with their own cracks, and are, in fact, absolutely representative of the district, which no other club that has any opposition really is. They were practically all backs. The forwards flicked the ball about with a freedom and abandon that was pleasing to watch.

The delightful attacking work of South Sydney will be further strengthened when the backs solve the problem of keeping Stuntz away from the touch-line, thus giving him more room to work in. He was closely watched on Saturday, but his own comrades hampered him somewhat. Why not work him into scoring position, as M'Kivat and Hickey did with Widmer in 1909? The amateur sprinter was not half the player before or after his association with those two famous and heady "Wallabies."

Five tries were scored by South Sydney, and, as each was converted by different players, they must be a team of goal kickers, which is all the more creditable, because of the strong breeze blowing across the ground. With the exception of the crowding of Stuntz, the work of South Sydney three-quarters was very fine; the attackers racing along the wings in threes and fours, and exchanging short-arm passes, which nearly always beat the gritty shoremen. It was reminiscent of Duncan's Maorilanders of eight years back. The high punting and line kicking of the returned Kangaroo, A. Morton, were splendid. His vanguard were always able to get under his skyscrapers. He should be a great help to the State team this year, whether he be played as fullback or as three-quarter. Berecry's swerving run might be utilised to carry him from the ruck, instead of into the thick of it, as was frequently the case on Saturday. In Berecery, North Sydney possess a clever runner, who will improve as he becomes more acquainted with the rules.

Bright combination in attack and splendid kicking by Messenger, were Eastern Suburb's aids to success against Annandale, who were badly beaten by 30 points to 3. The result soon became a foregone conclusion, and many of the spectators in the Coronation stand viewed Trumper, Macartney, and Co., operating at the summer game in the Sydney Cricket Ground. The losers are not a bad side individually, but individualism in football becomes impotent when opposed to a well-organised team.

One of the features of the play was D. Frawley's tackling for Eastern Suburbs. He frequently darted across to the opposite wing and brought down an opponent who looked like piercing the defence of the Tricolours. Kinghorn preferred being caught with the ball in positions where the penalty did not matter, than risking a kick and giving the enemy a shot at goal, with the southerly aiding the kicker. He chose the lesser of two evils. The winners' forwards were good all round, with Green a Trojan.

Western Suburbs may attribute their defeat by Glebe to the same cause as Annandale—want of combination. If the three-quarters brighten up their attack and go low in tackling, they will become a much more formidable team. They made several bad mistakes on Saturday, and yet were only beaten eight to nil. Glebe will, however, be a much more dashing side when L. Cubitt realises that there are twelve other players in the team.

Should the proposed tour of America fail to develop into a reality, the controlling body might well consider the advisability of despatching a side to New Zealand, to continue the missionary work that the English team commenced last year. In fact, such a trip would probably prove of more real benefit—immediate and lasting—to the game than the tour of America, and, besides, it would be much less expensive.

Whilst the standard of play in the thirteen aside game in Australia is very high, and very little if anything inferior to the finest form ever shown here under the Union code—when in 1907 New South Wales defeated and drew with a powerful New Zealand side—the same standard has not been reached in Maoriland, for their players are hardly so adept at N.U. Rugby as they were and are under the older code. It would be too much to expect players of the calibre of the brilliant Wellingtonians—Wallace and Roberts—to be included in every side that the Dominion sends us, but one has looked in vain amongst her black-jerseyed friends who play the League rules, for a three-quarter like R. McGregor, a five-eighth to compare with Duncan or Hunter, a half-back who is as nippy as Humphries was in '97, or a forward like Pauling, Gallagher, Seeling, Francis, or "Ranji" Wilson. A tour of New Zealand would, no doubt, tend to popularise the game, and bring the play of the Maorilanders up to the standard it has reached on the mainland.

The objects aimed at in the proposed tour of America could be attained by bringing the team, which will visit England, home via U.S.A. and Canada, as was done in the case of the "All Blacks" and "Wallabies." However, tours of this kind should not be considered by the controlling body as a solatium for players—however able they may be—who fail to be included in a more important combination.

The Northern Union game is making progress in England. A prominent writer of Rugby Union notes tells us that several of his friends who had seen the thirteen a side game played by prominent teams assured him that they were agreeably surprised at the splendid exhibition of football. The same writer says that there is a likelihood of the game being played in Scotland in the near future. It did not take the Sydney public long to discover the virtues of the new game.

The various first-grade clubs will experience some difficulty in selecting their teams this season, as the supply of players is much greater than the demand. At one time the Rugby League authorities thought of initiating a subsidiary first-grade competition, but subsequently decided not to take any further steps in the matter. This decision will have the effect of raising the standard of the play of the second-grade clubs.

In answer to a correspondent: The Northern Rugby Union (England) came into existence in 1895, as a result of a dispute regarding the rules as to professionalism. Several of the North of England clubs formed the new union, which sanctions payment to players for loss of earnings incurred through playing. The Northern League was formed in 1901. In 1871 the Union game was placed on a settled basis, when the English Rugby Football Union was formed.

This evening the committee of the Rugby League will consider the composition of the team which is to visit England this season. Several proposals have been put forth regarding the number of players and managers. It will be interesting to note if the local body will emulate the Northern Union authorities, by selecting two managers.

Advices from New Zealand indicate that a powerful combination will arrive in Sydney in June. Their first match will be played on Coronation Day (June 22).

Queensland League are considering the advisability of sending a representative junior team to Sydney this season. The trip will probably eventuate.

A. Morton, just back from England, reports that the forthcoming Australian tour is creating great interest in Northern Union circles, because of the fine showing made by our players against the Englishmen last season.

AUSTRALIAN RULES.

THE NEW "ALL BLACKS."

We have heard of the "All Blacks." Their fame has gone throughout the football world. But a new team of all blacks has emerged. These are the aboriginals at Cummeragunga station. They—naturally enough—play the Australian game there, and have written to the New South Wales Football League notifying their willingness to send a team to Sydney during the present season. The match would prove a great draw. These natives are real experts at the game. They have not been beaten during the last three years, and during that time they have met strong combinations on both sides of the Murray. They have gone as far south as Bendigo, and their fleetness and skill have always landed them winners. The match committee has the matter under consideration, and has only to fix upon a date and ground.

The Australasian Football Council has notified the local league that the annual meeting of the council will be held in Adelaide during August. New South Wales is represented on the council by Mr. A. E. Nash and Mr. H. Chesney Harte.

The Broken Hill Football Association has written to the league suggesting that a Sydney team should visit the Barrier this season. Mr. F. Boyce, president of the West Broken Hill Club, is at present in Sydney, and he attended the last meeting of the league, and supplemented the request of the Hill folk. He said that they wanted a representative Sydney team to play the Barrier at Broken Hill on July 29 and August 3, just prior to the Adelaide carnival.

The South Australian Association has written to the Sydney authorities stating their desire to send a team to Sydney during August. Narrandera also wants a visit from the Sydney champions this season to help the game along in the Riverina.

The Victorian season was officially opened on Saturday. The winning teams in the League were:—Collingwood, South Melbourne, Melbourne, and St. Kilda. Carlton and Essendon played a draw. In the Association matches the winning teams were:—North Melbourne, Essendon, Prahran, Footscray, and Port Melbourne.

All the Sydney teams have put in a good preparation for the opening of the competition next Saturday.

Some trouble has arisen in football circles in Hobart. The new constitution of the Tasmanian Football League, framed by the clubs, provides that the surplus at the end of the season should be handed over by the committee to the trustees appointed by the clubs, and that this arrangement cannot be altered. In consequence, two members of the committee, Messrs. Watt (last year's chairman) and Labart, have sent in their resignations, and these have been accepted. The present chairman, Mr. Lord, stated that he had not seen the new constitution, but if certain reports were true, he also would resign. There was a lively discussion at the meeting, and the election of new members for the committee was postponed.

At the meeting of the N.S.W.F.L. umpire and permit committee, held at the Sports Club on Monday night, the following permits to players were granted:—W. Bland, South Sydney to Sydney F.C.; A. Mathieson, North Shore to Carlton (Vic.); J. Blackerby, West Adelaide (S.A.) to Sydney F.C.; E. Jones, North Shore to Essendon (Vic.); J. F. Wedge, Paddington to Sydney F.C.; F. T. Emetment, Yarraville (Vic.) to Sydney F.C.; G. H. Sheppard, Oakleigh (Vic.) to Sydney F.C. The applications of R. Pascoe, Paddington to Sydney and E. Payne, North Melbourne to Paddington, were deferred.

FIXTURES.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

THE COMING SEASON.

The season will be officially opened on Saturday next, May 6, with the Nurse Cup and juvenile competitions.

If circumstances prove favourable, and the respective associations be in accord, negotiations will probably be resumed in connection with visits by New South Wales teams to New Zealand and Tasmania.

Therefore, there is an incentive to the players to endeavour to be included in the teams, although there are such numbers of enthusiastic footballers connected with the association game that the ordinary competition game provides enough enjoyment for them.

Some few years ago the ruling body in New South Wales considered it compulsory to introduce a list of penalties for offences by players and members of clubs, more particularly during the progress of a match. The penalties were fairly heavy, the minimum attaching to the offence of striking a referee being disqualification for a period of three years.

In 1909, however, the list was revised, and the minimum penalty for serious offences was laid down at 12 months' disqualification. At the last annual meeting of the N.S.W. Football Association it was decided to abolish the set penalties, and leave the matter entirely in the hands of the protests and disqualifications committee to recommend whatever penalty they think fit. Previously they were bound by the minimum mentioned in the list, now their powers in that direction have been extended.

The two cups which the association holds for competition by the metropolitan clubs are the Rawson Cup, presented by the late Sir Harry Holdsworth Rawson in 1907, and the Association Cup. The conditions for both cups are that they shall become the property of the clubs winning them twice in succession, or three times in all.

The winners of the Rawson Cup are:—1907, Pyrmont; 1908, Glebe; 1909, Pyrmont; 1910, Glebe. The Association Cup was first played for last year, when Ultimo won.

The cup by-laws state that the Rawson Cup shall be competed for annually by first league, division I. teams, and the Association Cup by first league, division II. teams.

A Balmain team, which included Hughes, Law, A. Latta, Ferrier, Robinson, and Newman, was beaten at Corrimal by the local team on Saturday last by 3 goals to 2. Akers scored the goals for the winners, and Newman did likewise for Balmain. Taylor, who is quite a young player, showed out in some splendid runs as outside left.

It transpired in connection with the delegation to the South Coast that Mr. H. H. Nurse, hon. treasurer of the N.S.W. Football Association, is the enthusiast who is presenting a cup for competition on the South Coast. He has suggested that at least four senior teams compete on the lines of the Gardiner Cup competition, and that Sydney clubs be allowed to enter, provided they play their matches on the South Coast. The Cup is a fine specimen of the silversmith's art. The Nurse Cup, which is competed for by players under 18 years in the metropolitan area, takes its name from the same source.

Helensburgh, Corrimal, and Balgownie, from the South Coast, and West Wallsend from the Wallsend and District Association, have entered for the Gardiner Cup competition.

Practice matches for the first league teams have been arranged to take place on Saturday next. The league competitions will begin on Saturday, May 13.

An English exchange states that as a result of a scene at Dover Athletic Ground in the Kent League match, Royal Irish Rifles v Steppey United, Rifleman Penston, of the Rifles, has been suspended for nine months for striking a player and refusing to leave the field when ordered. He has a good football record for ten years, during which he has played in English League and Irish League matches, and twice represented the Army against the Navy.

CRICKET.

END OF THE SEASON.

WITH GORDON PREMIER CLUB.

THE AVERAGES.

In real wintry weather the local season was brought to a conclusion on Saturday last, when Gordon, by defeating Burwood in brilliant style, carried off the premiership, with Redfern, who beat University signally, runners-up, two points behind.

The feature of Gordon's victory was the batting of Trumper and Macartney, who, after Iredale (36) had helped the former to score 79 for the first wicket, made victory almost sure by carrying the score to 164, after which Macartney (107) and P. Johnson (56), both not out, added 125 without being parted, Gordon thus winning by eight wickets and six runs.

At one period of play it looked as if the match would end in a draw, but Macartney and Johnston, playing brilliant cricket, soon settled the matter.

Macartney's 107 was a fitting climax to his late wonderful form, which stamps the Gordonian as being one of the most accomplished right-handed batsmen in the world.

Trumper's 79 was not a fireworks display, the position of his side demanding that carefulness be displayed, and the great artist adapted himself to the circumstances very ably. P. Johnston's 56 not out, though not artistic, was nevertheless a very sound effort.

The success of Gordon completes the last link of a chain of personal successes by Victor Trumper, for besides batting brilliantly against the Africans he also led New South Wales twice to victory against them, and also in the Sheffield Shield competition. These successes being achieved in the first season of his captaincy must be very pleasing to the great batsman, who has worthily filled the position vacated by M. A. Noble.

That Gordon were favoured by fortune on more than one occasion is a fact, but to win the premiership a team must be blest with a little luck at times. Anyhow it is very pleasing to have to record the northern club's first championship win, for it does cricket no harm when the honours go round.

It is rather remarkable that Gordon should win the premiership this season after being the wooden spoonists of last year's competition, when they won but one match. This year they lost but one match—against Petersham—so that the result of the two seasons' play provides a very pleasing contrast. The teams defeated by Gordon were:—Central Cumberland, University, Waverley (outright), North Sydney (outright), Sydney, Redfern, and Burwood. Drawn games were played against Glebe and Paddington. The club scored 2751 runs for the loss of 89 wickets, averaging 31.36, against their opponents' 2546 for 111 wickets, an average of 22.66. Gordon's record is similar to that of Paddington during the 1905-6 and 1906-7 seasons, when the tricolours won only one match in the former season, but won the premiership in the latter.

The Redfern-University match proved a real disappointment to the scholastic section, as their batting crumpled up against the Redfern bowlers in a surprising manner. So well did Redfern perform that they succeeded in dismissing seventeen wickets in 190 minutes for 271 runs, and this against the strongest all-round batting side in the competition.

University's first innings realised only 108, M'Elhone with 39 alone playing good cricket. In the second innings Barbour (46), Fisher (40), and C. J. Tozer 17 not out, and R. B. Minnett 31 not out, saved the side from an outright defeat, the Tozer-Minnett partnership being a most opportune effort, the score at the finish being 163 for seven wickets.

Redfern's out cricket was excellent. Of the bowlers White and Emery showed best form, the fast bowler taking four for 36, and Emery seven for 92 in University's second innings, the latter also performed the hat trick by bowling Barbour and Stack, and having Gregg stumped, off successive balls. Emery is not only a great trier all round, but is improving in his judgment. Of the other bowlers, Makin took four for 51.

Although Gordon have now the premiership, Redfern and University have each one more victory to their credit, but the northerners' advantage lies in two outright victories, whereas neither of the other two clubs has one such win to its credit.

The remaining matches had no bearing on the premiership, yet in several instances most interesting cricket was witnessed.

At Waverley North Sydney piled on the runs quickly, scoring 409 for eight wickets, against 244. A. E. Johnston once more scored a century, and gives promise of returning to his form of a few season ago. N. Y. Deane 90, Barker 69, Dr. Hordern 40, L. A. Minnett 30, and Clarke 26, also scored very consistently. North Sydney started the season badly, but finished it brilliantly.

The feature of the Glebe-Sydney match was the sensational bowling of Cotter, who took seven wickets for 29, and performed the unusual feat of taking four wickets with successive deliveries. The whole of the seven wickets were clean bowled, and Sydney's total only reached 112. A. Asher, E. P. Hall, A. R. Munn, and N. Cohen were Cotter's quartet of victims. Collins's 58 was a splendid innings.

J. W. Haslit, the ex-Victorian, six for 45, and S. Ayres, four for 38—bowling unchanged—helped Central Cumberland materially to victory against Balmain, who could only manage to score 86 against 176. In their second innings Cumberland scored 207, which included a brilliant 117 by F. Humphries, who notched five sixers and 13 fours. He is a left-hander, who hits with rare power. Folkard again bowled splendidly, taking six for 40, or 13 for 90 in the match.

Petersham accounted for Paddington, scoring 200 in response to 162. However, the latter proved very lenient to their opponents in the field, otherwise the result would have been much closer. T. C. Roughley's 109 was a good effort, though he was let off on three occasions.

The following are the batting and bowling averages of the various first grade teams:—

LACROSSE.

CLUB FORM IMPROVES.

Saturday saw the last of the practice matches. On Saturday next the season will be officially opened, when eight teams will take part in the "A" grade, and a similar number in the "B" grade.

The noticeable feature about Saturday's matches was the distinct improvement in the standard of lacrosse. Every club, with the possible exception of Sydney, showed a decided improvement. This augurs well for the coming season.

At Kogarah the form of the Manly team against Sydney fully justified their inclusion in the A grade. Sydney again played a lackadaisical game, with occasional spasmodic efforts, and it is very evident that the team, if they desire to participate in the final matches, will have to rally together and play lacrosse. In Rogerson and Allison, Manly have two hard-working players, who with a little more practice should develop into first-class attacks. The tit-bits of the match, however, were the exceptionally fine goalkeeping saves of Farebrother, who time and again nullified the efforts of the opposing attack.

The play from the face off, particularly the passing rushes, of Petersham B in their match against Burwood was good, and but for the safe goalkeeping of Fowler the score of the reds would have been considerably larger, as it was, the "Magpies" were beaten by 5 goals to 3. The want of team tactics of Burwood is noticeable, and one night's training together each week would greatly improve their combination.

Birchgrove played their first match against Stanmore B, and put up a fair display. Closer attention to stick work on the part of both teams is necessary. However, the novices did well to make a draw of the game against a team of the calibre of their opponents.

Several new men took part in the Balmain-Waverley game, and the way they adapted themselves to the conditions of the game was most marked. The premiers are now putting a splendid team into the field, who, with Hughes, Clarke, and Gregory will prove a solid team to beat. Waverley, too, will have a good team, but the absence of J. Southwick, through injury, will greatly handicap them.

On their showing against Stanmore, it appears as if Petersham are taking things too quietly, though, probably the absence of Rowe and Gabriel had a disorganising effect on them. At all events they had a day off on Saturday. The Stanmore team, as usual, are very fast. Their new centre, Webb, from New Zealand, played a very hard game, and his tactics, common enough in the Dominion, perplexed the Petersham team. The new bylaws, particularly those relating to the face-off and goalkeeper, were ignored, and it remains for the referees in the opening matches of the competition to see that the rules are adhered to.

In the early match at Kogarah, Sydney B defeated Manly B rather easily. The victors had a lot of likely recruits, and they shaped in promising style, especially in attack.

Now that the Easter vacation is over, practice is being resumed in the schools, and with the arrival of the boys' sticks on Monday one obstacle has been removed. It has been decided that the boys' games will be played on Saturdays, prior to the grade matches. With this arrangement the lads will have a chance of picking up points from the seniors.

Lacrosse in Manly is fast growing in popularity with the public, and a successful and prosperous season is looked forward to by the local club. At the last meeting of the association, Manly were admitted to the first grade in place of Burwood, who have dropped to second grade. Manly have entered teams for both grades, and hope to keep up their reputation of last year. A schools' competition has also been inaugurated, and the Manly boys are very eager to join the local club. So many applications were made for sticks that the membership has had to be closed.

The interstate match, New South Wales v Victoria, has been definitely dated for August 19, at Sydney.

LAWN TENNIS.

THE DAVIS CUP.

A GOOD SERVICE WANTED.

INTR-CLUB COMPETITIONS.

The cable has brought us news of interest during the past week as to the negotiations in progress between England, America, and South Africa for playing off the preliminary ties of the Davis Cup. These took the form which was generally anticipated here. England invited America and South Africa to play their tie at Wimbledon during Coronation week, the winner of that match to play England immediately after. America must have expected such a suggestion and prepared for it, for her answer was made within three days, declining the offer on the ground that her best team could not make the trip to England and also visit Australia if successful, a decision which has been forecasted in these columns.

The effect of the failure of these negotiations is to improve the chances of both the preliminaries being held in Australia if England and South Africa are determined to compete. England is placed in an unfortunate position by the luck of the draw, which requires her to play the winner of the America-South Africa tie. Finding that America will not play in England, the latter nation would probably be quite willing to go to America, as in former years, but this cannot be arranged till arrangements for the meeting of America and South Africa are completed, and South Africa may not be prepared to go to America. South Africa has intimated that her challenge was made with the hope that the preliminaries would eventuate at Wimbledon, and, as this is now out of the question, it would occasion no surprise if her challenge were now withdrawn to clear the way for England meeting America. It seems certain that the Davis Cup regulations must be revised to provide for difficulties of the kind indicated, and which were not contemplated when the regulations were framed, at which time Australasia and South Africa were not seriously considered as tennis nations.

The Mars Buckley Cup competition and interstate contest between New South Wales and Victoria, just completed in Sydney, did not attract the attendances which they deserved. With the same players meeting each other on adjacent days, this result is not surprising, and efforts should be made to hold them at different times of the year. This would certainly necessitate the visitors making two journeys, with corresponding expense; but the latter feature ought not to be a serious objection, for it could be arranged to hold the Mars Buckley on a Saturday and, possibly, a public holiday, which would have the effect of producing gate receipts far exceeding those now obtained.

The sudden death of Mr. A. F. Chomley, of Melbourne, has occasioned regret throughout the Australian lawn tennis circles, and in no place was this greater than in Sydney. Mr. Chomley was best known to players of the present time as the referee of the first Davis Cup contest held in Australia, which was contested in Melbourne in 1908. His selection for that responsible position was itself a tribute to his impartiality and knowledge of tennis law. As a player he was one of Victoria's best in the early days. He first represented the southern State in the Sydney match of 1888, and won the New South Wales doubles championship with E. Raleigh in the tournament which immediately followed it. A peculiar feature of that win was that, in the final, the pair beat J. R. King and R. D. Fitzgerald, who had defeated them three sets straight in the interstate, or intercolonial as it was then, match, and won the first two sets of the championship final. Chomley and Raleigh then won the next three sets with the loss of only five games, a surprising reversal of form. Victoria has sent many good sportsmen to Sydney, but none who has surpassed the late "Aleo" Chomley, whose uniform kindliness to Sydney men during his long connection with the game endeared him to all.

Dr. W. V. Eaves, the English player, who has twice won the New South Wales championship, acted as best man to Norman Brookes at the latter's marriage to Miss Emmerton. Brookes owes much of his success in the tennis world to Dr. Eaves, who showed him the possibilities of the American service, after acquiring which Brookes was invincible.

Speaking at the dinner tendered to the Victorian team, Dr. L. O. S. Poidevin pointed out the great advantages of a good service, a point which he mentioned was realised on the Continent, where the players have reached a very high standard within the past few years. Dr. Poidevin's remarks are very timely, and, coming from so high an authority, should carry much weight. Speaking generally, the service of New South Wales players is capable of much improvement. Few make any determined effort to acquire the American service—an asset of the greatest value. The best exponent of this is probably N. W. Roxburgh, of the University team. At Adelaide his service had all his opponents in trouble in the inter-universities match. V. V. Rudder is another who is proficient at this variety of service. It requires much practice to acquire, but the result is worth all the trouble.

The entries for the interclub competitions, which are shortly to begin, constitute a record. There are 18 teams in No. 1 division of B grade, 17 in No. 2 division, and 18 in C grade. As each team meets every other team in its division or grade, it is clear that the competitions will last for about six months, allowing for the inevitable wet Saturdays. There is some suggestion of further dividing the teams entered, in order to reduce the time necessary for carrying out the programme. It is strange that, out of the 200 or more players in the above teams, comparatively few are competing in the handicap events at the tournament now in progress.

BOWLS.

THE ASSOCIATION DEADLOCK.

Since last issue a deadlock has arisen in bowling circles, and as a result the association is faced with the prospect of loss of its executive officers, for those gentlemen's (the president, four vice-presidents, and secretary) resignations are in the hands of the committee of management. The trouble has arisen over the proposal of the committee to impose a capitation fee of 3s per member, in order to have a paid secretary. The committee's proposal was rejected by the body politic, hence the resignation. The delegates, as a body, however, look upon the adverse vote in a different light from the officers, who assert that it is equal to a vote of censure; but the delegates hold that it is no more a vote of censure upon the officials than upon themselves, and if the executive resign, then they must all resign. The delegates, however, do not wish to take the extreme course, and are doing all in their power to persuade the officers to withdraw their resignations, and with this end in view it was decided at a meeting held on Thursday evening to allow a fortnight for the officers to reconsider the position, for a motion was unanimously carried that the resignations should be withdrawn.

The position is a unique one, and demands serious consideration. The view taken by the president is that the association, by its adverse vote, has taken the government of the game out of the hands of its officers, but he admits that the parent body has the right to say yes or no to anything submitted to it. The delegates, however, regard the vote in the light of a catch one, there being not more than 90 members present at the meeting, which should, seeing the importance of the question submitted, have been much more largely attended. During the discussion on Thursday last it was admitted that the meetings of the association, as now composed, did not act in the best interest of the game, the personal, and not the broad view, being taken of matters of importance. It may be stated that in no other branch of sport in New South Wales is the parliament of the game composed of the whole of the players of every club, as is the case with bowls, and a desire has been expressed that the Victorian Bowling Association Rules should be made to apply to this State.

As regards the capitation fee of 3s, which bowlers were asked to contribute annually, the point taken by a large percentage of the players is this that each club having equal representation should share equally in the expenses. But if the proposition of the officers were carried, it would mean that a club with, say, 100 members, would pay £15 per year towards the secretary's salary, whilst a small club with, say 50 members, would only pay £7 10s, and yet each club would be equally represented in the government of the game. It is claimed that if the clubs are to continue to have equal representation, then they should share equally in the expenses, and that is really what the association meeting decided when it turned down the proposal of the committee to impose a capitation fee.

The solution of the difficulty appears to lie in an alteration of the constitution in regard to representation, according to the numerical strength of the clubs, and a contribution to the upkeep of the association on the same basis. But will the general body of bowlers agree to such a drastic change? This is the question which will have to be answered in the near future.

This is an age of crises, and bowls is in the fashion; but it is to be hoped that the good sense and judgment of the players will not be dominated by party feeling. One of the basic principles of any game—and bowls is one of the best—should be the promotion of good-fellowship, and the dignity and prestige of this ancient game should not be subordinated for the personal element. Commonsense demands that the affairs of such a large institution as the Bowling Association should be carried out on business principles, and the sooner some scheme is evolved for that purpost, so soon will peace and tranquillity prevail. The watchword of every true bowler should be—the game first, the individual afterwards.

CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The championship competitions for 1911 are gradually drawing to a close. The State championship was won by New South Wales, who defeated Victoria in two out of three games, Queensland in two out of three, and Tasmania in all three. The club championship was won by Chatswood, with Randwick as runners-up. The rink championship was secured by a Mosman rink, composed of Jones, Hamilton, Gelding, and Walters, with a Waverley rink captained by Evans as runners-up.

The champion pair is Dr. Clarke and W. M. Alderson, of Kuring-gai Club.

The individual championship of the State was won by H. Moses (Ashfield), with G. A. Chapman (Chatswood) as runner-up.

The champion of champions' contest has just been commenced. The contestants are the champions of the metropolitan clubs within the association. They number 22, so that it will take some time to decide the winner, more especially as several of the clubs' championship competitions are still unfinished. The position of the various clubs, in regard to their championship contest, is as follows:—

CLUB CHAMPIONS.

Balmain.—J. J. Reeder, W. B. Simpson runner-up.
City.—A. J. Whitehouse, T. B. Butler runner-up.
Marrickville.—J. Dunwoodie, L. P. Griffiths runner-up.
Petersham.—J. Yeo, H. Lawson runner-up.
Redfern.—J. Leitch, J. Cridland runner-up. Leitch has won the championship for five years in succession.
Manly.—E. A. Hind, T. H. Fuller runner-up.
Parramatta.—W. Hart, S. Wickham runner-up.
Waverley.—G. Johnson, M. J. Fitzgerald runner-up.
Mosman.—Burton Smith, J. B. Doutty runner-up.

UNFINISHED CLUB CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Ashfield.—Moses and J. C. Harrison will meet in the final.
Burwood.—Kellett and Cross will meet in the final.
Chatswood.—W. H. Gartrell and H. A. Young to play, and the winner will meet G. A. Chapman in the final.
Gladstone Park.—Batty and Meyn will play the final to-day.
Kuring-gai.—Alderson and A. Nettleton will meet in the final.
Randwick.—There are still five left in the competition.
St. George.—The competition is still in its early stages.
Victoria Park.—Thorne and Huenerbein will play in the final.
Warringah.—Denyer will meet G. Bingham in the final to-day.
Strathfield.—C. E. Francis will meet Shadford, and the winner will play R. J. King in the final.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP.

H. Moses, of Ashfield, is the champion bowler of the State for 1911-12. He played in every round of the contest. His first victory was against Whitehouse, of the City Club, in the bye-round, by 31 to 13. Then he defeated Eveston, of Waverley, in the first round, by 31 to 24. His next success was against Reeves, of North Sydney, whom he defeated by 31 to 19. Litton, of Parramatta, was defeated by 31 to 22; Freeman, of Mosman, was vanquished by 31 to 19: whilst Fuller, of Manly, was defeated in the semi-final by 32 to 22.

In the final round Moses beat Chapman, an ex-champion, easily by 31 to 22.

Moses, who has been playing consistently all through the season, kept up his average to the last. Chapman, on the other hand, had a forfeit from Arnott in the bye-round; then he defeated Denyer by 31 to 14, Hogue by 31 to 29, Hobson by 31 to 21, Marks by 31 to 21, and Bromwich by 31 to 26. Moses won the State championship four years ago, when he defeated Captain Kondlo in the final on the City green. Chapman has held the State championship on two previous occasions. He has also held the championship of the Chatswood Club for the last six or seven years, and both he and Moses are in the final of the championship of their respective clubs for the current year. Their non-successes have been few.

THE BALLARAT TEAM.

ARRIVE TO-MORROW.

The Ballarat bowlers will arrive in Sydney to-morrow morning by the Melbourne express. They will be driven to the City green, and officially welcomed. Afterwards a roll up will take place on the green. The visitors will be the guests of the Redfern Club on Friday, and on Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday will meet an association team, which has already been selected. After that the Ballarat men will visit a number of clubs, who have arranged to entertain them.

HOCKEY.

THE COUNTRY WEEK.

It has been definitely decided to hold a "country week" on June 3. Play will commence at 10 o'clock in the morning, and will continue all day. All the metropolitan clubs—with one exception, 'Varsity—will be in attendance, and the country men will be more strongly in evidence than ever before. So far Goulburn, Orange, Dubbo, and the Hawkesbury have been invited to send contingents.

Goulburn is going in strongly for the winter game, and a hockey association has been formed in the town. It is probable that Goulburn will send half a dozen teams to participate in the country week carnival.

The chief match on June 3 will be a trial game between the two best combined metropolitan teams chosen by the selectors. This match will enable the selectors to finally decide upon the personnel of the team which will represent New South Wales against Victoria. It will also provide instruction to country visitors.

Messrs. Stratton, W. Preston, and Massey have been appointed selectors for the association.

'Varsity, as has been mentioned, will be the absentee club on June 3. On that date the students will leave for Melbourne, where they will play the southern University team. In the past the inter-University matches have been arranged, and the visits paid without the governing association being consulted. This has not worked for the best interests of the game in New South Wales—nor for Victoria, for that matter, for it frequently happened that several of the best State players were in the 'Varsity teams, and having made one trip to another State, could not spare the time for a second visit. Thus the State teams have been materially weakened. To obviate this disadvantage, the association has decided that when a New South Wales State team goes to Melbourne, the Sydney University club must be visited by Melbourne University. This will mean that Sydney students will again go south next year.

The N.S.W. Hockey Association met on Monday evening, when complaints were received that owing to some of the early matches commencing after the time appointed, the second matches have been unduly delayed. The schedule times are 2 o'clock and a quarter past 3. The association has now decided that the second matches must commence on time, no matter when the early match begins.

English advices state that Wales made a very creditable showing against England in the first half-hour of the annual match at Llandudno, but once again the latter proved too strong. Spooner, the English goal-keeper, was like a brick wall to the attacking Welsh forwards, and the game ended 7 to nil in favour of the visitors. H. J. Goodwin in the centre was great in attack, and fed his wings so admirably that Wales could not withstand them.

England and Wales first played international hockey in 1898. Since then Wales has never managed to win a match, and has scored only 8 goals to over 80 by England. Wales, however, has her revenge at Rugby Union football.

In the annual international contest between England and France, played at Folkestone, the home side beat the visitors by 4 goals to nil. England was represented by a particularly strong team, so France must be improving in the winter sport. These matches were first played in 1907, when England won by 14 goals to nil. France has never beaten the home team yet, though in 1908, in Paris, they played a draw, each side scoring 2 goals.

It has never been accurately determined whether hockey was originally a British or a French game. It may have developed from the old Irish game of hurley, while it may be only a modification of French hoquet. But it has only been played in its present form as a recognised English pastime since 1883.

Several of the metropolitan hockey clubs have not yet paid their annual subscriptions to the association. A purely amateur sport relies so entirely on subscriptions that the hon. treasurer is unduly handicapped when same are not forthcoming.

MOTOR NOTES.

The results of the first 1911 meeting on the Brooklands motor track (England) are to hand. Commenting on the entries, the "Autocar" said: "We welcome a new private competitor from Australia, a land of sportsmen, in the person of Mr. A. T. Craig, who makes his debut with his 27.3-h.p. car." The result of this meeting proves of more than passing interest locally, as it is not often that an Australian motorist has competed at the big meetings on the famous Brooklands track, where the majority of the finest cars and the world's best drivers have been seen. It is therefore all the more pleasing to have to chronicle the success of Mr. Craig, who won the March private competitors' handicap with his 27.3-h.p. car. He was opposed by Mr. D. Spies' 59.6-h.p. car and Mrs. C. Prioleau's 24.5-h.p. car. The big car ("Mercedes") was on scratch, and in the distance 5¾ miles conceded 62s to the 24-h.p. Lancia, and 39s to the 27h.p. Benz. The limit car got away well, but failed at the second lap with some temporary trouble. Mr. Craig, in his car, kept going well at the rate of about 76 m.p.h., beating the big car, which, however, did not appear to be going at its best. Mr. Craig also started in third 100 m.p.h. handicap, the next race, but could not do better than get third. The winner of this event, Mr. Arkwright, drove his 27.3-h.p. car at 86 m.p.h.

According to American exchanges, the motor car industry is flourishing both in the States and Canada. The Quaker City Motor Club is scheduled to hold what the Americans term a "roadability" run from Philadelphia to Atlantic. We presume this is equivalent to what is known as a reliability trial in Australia. These contests are more valuable to the motor owner or driver than straight-out speed tests.

The Manitoba Government has passed several amendments to the Automobile Act. The main feature is the clause for the suppression of "joy" riding by chauffeurs. A penalty of six months' imprisonment is provided for the illegal user of another man's car. Evidently the pace has been made too fast for "joy rides" in Canada.

In the opinion of the leading men in the motor car industry of America, such as Hugh Chalmers, Benjamin F. Briscoe, Charles Clifton, Alfred L. Reeves, and others, the United States will absorb 150,000 to 200,000 cars this year. There is every probability there will be a shortage of good cars before the year is over.

The smoke concert arranged by the entertainments committee of the Automobile Club of Australia at the club rooms to-morrow night promises to be the most successful the club has yet put forward.

The officials of the Automobile Club of Australia have recently been interesting themselves in the state of the road between the top of Bulli Pass and Appin, and approached the Bulli council with a view of having one bad stretch between Appin and Eden (about five miles) put in order, but from correspondence to hand last week it does not appear as if the council is likely to do anything in the matter until the Government grant for tourists' roads is available, as they claim that the road carries very little local traffic.

While on the question of road and transit improvement, a subject of great importance to all owners of motor vehicles, it is said that so far as can be seen the conditions existing at the North Sydney ferry, apart from the amended time-table, do not appear to be improved, the flaps, ramps, and chocking blocks do not appear to have been interfered with.

MOTOR CYCLING.

The committee of the Sydney Bicycle and Motor Cycle Club will probably hold the run off of the recent Bathurst-Sydney motor cycle reliability trial in a couple of weeks. The final test will be to Springwood. Another hill-climbing contest is scheduled in about three weeks' time, and the first smoke night of the winter season is to be held on May 31. The competitors who tied in the club's Easter reliability trial were:—Alphonso Brown, 3½-h.p. N.S.U.; P. Bailey, 3½-h.p. N.S.U.; R. Robinson, 2¼-h.p. Speedwell F.N. The run-off—a non-stop run from Sydney to Springwood and back in one day—will be a good trial for the reliability of the motor and the endurance of the rider.

So far the committee of the Motor Cycle Club of N.S.W. has not decided on a date for the running off of the abandoned Easter reliability test. This contest could not be finished on Easter Monday, owing to the treacherous state of the roads, and Mr. A. E. Morton, president of the club, was commended for his action in calling the competitors off.

The Kookaburra Motor Cycle Club is arranging for an open motor cycle hill-climbing contest early next month, when a substantial prize list is to be submitted.

CYCLING.

It is quite a common expression among many old-time cyclists that they have given up the wheel because it was hard work. But they made hard work of it by using unsuitable machines, and riding too high a gear for comfort. It is absurd to see the cycling tourist with a racing model and racing gear taking hard, lengthy rides whilst out of condition. They do not appear to realise that there is a big difference between the touring and racing cycle, and generally use a light cramped-up machine, [illegible] to the last ounce, and expect to obtain pleasure from a week-end tour.

Cycling under proper [illegible] is always [illegible] than walking, [illegible] conditions is twice as fast; even the constant complaint against hill-climbing is discounted by the change-speed gear. In ordinary country it might reasonably be said that the really hard work in cycling does not exceed 10 per cent. of the distance covered, the remaining 90 per cent. is best remembered by the consistent rider. Apart from the sense of satisfaction experienced by the average rider in conquering a hill, the extra work entailed better fits him for cycling, while the easier sections are the sweeter by comparison. A common complaint from the cyclist on the back country plains, where the bicycle is part and parcel of the rider, and has become an absolute necessity, is the monotony of the long steady stretch of flat roads, no hills to climb, and no down grades to coast. Those wheelmen who have the advantage of riding over the ranges sometimes complain of the up grades, but they often fail to mention the exhilaration to be gained by a long free run on the down grades.

UNION'S FIRST OPEN ROAD RACE.

Entries for the Cyclist Union's open road race of the season—a 10-mile race—are to close at the Sports Club, Hunter-street, on Saturday evening. Four heats will be run on the 20th inst., and the final on the following Saturday.

UNION OPENING RUN.

There is to be a slight alteration in the route of the Union's opening run this year, which will give the opportunity of making a better display while passing through the city. Instead of going down Boomerang-street from the Domain, as has been done during the past few seasons, and thence by way of Stanley-street to Darlinghurst, a better road has been arranged for. The new arrangements will take the procession from the Domain, via Macquarie-street, College-street, Oxford-street, Flinders-street, Randwick-road, to Centennial Park, and from there on to Coogee and the Aquarium.

The majority of the clubs are now engaged in their preparations for the display in the procession, and the number of fancy dresses and decorated bicycles is sure to be very large. The big function will be held on the date arranged for whether the day be wet or fine, and should it unfortunately turn out too wet to enable the procession to be held the members will go out to Coogee by trams, and the whole of the programme will be carried out.

For one event this year the entries will close a week before the date, viz., the inter-club tug of war. Nominations for this will close at the Sports Club on Saturday evening next, and it should be noted that it is only necessary for club secretaries to send their entry fee and the name of their club, it is not required that the names of the team be given. So long as the members competing are given to the officials on the day of the event that is enough. This contest is open to bona-fide members of the union only, and should any club allow a person to compete with their team who is not a registered member of the union it will incur disqualification for the event.

The general secretary of the League of New South Wales Wheelmen states there is very little doing this month, only the club races already announced.

ATHLETICS.

THE YEAR'S WORK.

With the annual meeting over, the New South Wales Amateur Athletic Association look back on a year of splendid achievement, and also look forward to further efforts in the cause of amateurism.

The annual meeting brought together a body of sportsmen who during the year have participated in many interesting events. To these delegates was presented a report satisfactory in every respect, particularly the financial, for a record balance on the right side of the ledger was recorded.

Several big events loom on the horizon. First comes the festival of Empire sports at the King's Coronation. Then back in the Antipodes is the bi-ennial Australasian championship meeting, which will be held in New Zealand. The council of the N.Z.A.A.A. has fixed upon Wellington as the venue, and January 1 and 2, 1912, as the dates. It is hoped that New South Wales will be adequately represented at the meeting, for more than ordinary interest attaches to the results. The performances of the champions there will naturally influence the selection of the team to represent Australasia in the athletic section of the Olympic games, which take place in Stockholm in 1912.

Quite a feature of athleticism during the last few years has been the rise of the Marathon. Now it finds a place each year in the programme of the world's principal athletic associations. In Sydney last season only one Marathon over the full distance was decided. This was held under the auspices of the Newtown Harriers in June last, and was won by A. R. Sime, of South Sydney, with A. A. Connor, of Victoria, second. The winner established a fresh record, covering the distance (26 miles 385 yards) in 2 hours 54 minutes 30 seconds. The Victorian Marathon, held in September, was a successful contest, only one Sydney man competing, S. Poulter, of Newtown, who finished fourth. This season's Marathon will be held on June 22, and will again be held under the direction of the Newtown Harriers.

An event that is attracting considerable attention at present is the Novice Cross-country Championship, to be held by the East Sydney A.A.C. on June 10. Club secretaries appear to be keen on having their novices in good fettle for the event, in the hope of one of them carrying off the championship, and, judging by the enthusiasm displayed, a large entry should result. The course—an ideal one—will be at Rose Bay, over five miles of good-going country, comprising chiefly well-grassed paddocks, and with just enough undulating country and change of scenery to make the race enjoyed by the contestant and spectator alike. Entries do not close till the end of the present month.

A return match has been arranged between Jack Donaldson, the world's sprint champion, and C. E. Holway, the American crack, over three distances, 75, 100, and 220 yards, for a purse of £250. The contest will come off at the Melbourne Exhibition Ground on May 13.

Brisbane advices state that there is a probability of Postle having a race with "Major" Taylor in the northern capital in the near future. Postle was recently looking for a match with Donaldson, in the hope of capturing the world's championship. Postle considers Taylor a first-class sprinter, but hardly up to world's championship form.

Latest English news to hand conveys the information that England has won the International Cross-country Championship. The other contestants were Ireland, Scotland, Wales, and France. The first man home was a Frenchman—Jean Bouin. The course, which is nearly nine miles in extent, was covered by the winner in 54m 7 3-5s. England won this event last year. This year the second man home was H. D. Baldwin (England), who finished 14 2-5s behind Bouin.

FIXTURES.

May 4, council meeting N.S.W.A.A.A. Sports Club.
May 6, Marrickville Harriers, 100yds and 1 mile handicap.
May 13, East Sydney 2½ miles open road race.
May 13, Donaldson v Holway, Melbourne.

SAILING.

CRUISING JOTTINGS.

Last week mention was made of some of the Easter cruises, which calls to mind some of the more extended and venturesome trips of our yachts. Since the Sayonara Cup was instituted there have been many journeyings to and fro between Sydney and Melbourne of the yachts of each place in quest of the cup. Perhaps the earliest seeker after interstate honours was Dr. Milford, when some 27 or 28 years ago he sent his little 6-tonner Doris round to Melbourne, and successfully competed with the cracks there. The Era, Volunteer, Miranda, Thelma, Sayonara, and Rawhiti are all associated with this trip. Rawhiti's run over from Auckland to Sydney in the face of some bad weather required some heart and nerve—there are no ports to put into; once out you have got to stick to your guns. Mr. W. M. Marks' trip to Hobart, Melbourne, and Sydney is too recent to need recapitulation, but nevertheless it will take a lot of beating for pluck and endurance, done in a racing yacht with practically no special provision for sea work.

An experience that few would want to meet with again befel the crew of Mr. Busby's 15-ton lugger Boronia. Leaving Double Bay deeply laden, sail was set for Lord Howe and Norfolk islands, but when a long way off this coast fearful weather was encountered, terrific gales and sea, and no shelter anywhere; nothing but the raging, roaring sea—conjure up the thought of a small, deeply-laden yacht practically engulfed by the seas—for a couple of days it was a fight for life, even baling the cabin by buckets had to be resorted to. Fortunately pluck and endurance won the day, the little vessel being safely navigated back to port.

Amongst the long cruises the Jess's trip up Torres Straits way stands out prominently. Coming to small boats, Messrs. Brutus, Packham, and Claude Hay's venturesome trip in the small 16-footer Nellie to Newcastle and Lake Macquarie was a good performance, although risky, but her crew was rather given to doing things out of the common. There was a feat stated to have been accomplished, and there was no reason to doubt it. It was the sailing of a 16ft dingy, of the Norwegian type, up the Clarence River and back. Of course it was done in stages.

What fearful weather a well-found, small yacht will stand was amply demonstrated on the trip of Mr. T. Marshall's Nanoya on her journey from Hobart to Sydney. During the passage she encountered some terrific weather, the worst there had been on the coast for years. Yet she came through scatheless.

A consistent cruiser up and down has been the Winifred, a small cruiser, built by Logan, and owned by Mr. Moore.

'ANNIVERSARY REGATTA.

A meeting is to be held to-night to consider what steps shall be taken in the event of the date of the celebration of Anniversary Day being altered from Januarp 26. It will be a sad blow to the aquatic community if this time-honoured function is allowed to lapse. A season without Anniversary regatta is hardly to be thought of.

ROWING.

THE INTERSTATE EIGHT-OAR CARNIVAL.

DOINGS ON THE PARRAMATTA RIVER.

THE SINGLE SCULLS.

As the time—Saturday next—approaches, interest in the interstate rowing carnival is quickening. During the past week the various eights, with the exception of Queenslanders, who only arrived on Monday, have been practising, and their doings have been watched with interest by rowing enthusiasts. All that is required to make the fixture a complete success is fine weather.

The New South Wales Rowing Association has made arrangements for intending visitors. Three large ferry steamers will follow the races, leaving Port Macquarie jetties at 2 o'clock sharp, the Vaucluse carrying the umpire, Mr. Vicary Horniman, the timekeepers, visitors, subscribers, and a limited number of the public. On the other two steamers the fare will be 5s, but on the Vaucluse one guinea. Mr. John M'Gregor has been appointed starter, and Mr. John Degotardi judge. The positions of the crews have been drawn as follow:—New South Wales, No. 1 (south side); Victoria, No. 2; Tasmania, No. 3; South Australia, No. 4; Queensland, No. 5; Western Australia, No. 6 (north side). The scullers' stations are:—J. R. Towns (N.S.W.), No. 1; C. M'Villy (Tas.), No. 2; H. Stevens (Vic.), No. 3.

The scullers are to start from near Ryde Bridge at 3 p.m., and the finish is at Searle's Monument, the distance being 3m 176yds. The eights row the same course an hour later. Every precaution will be taken to keep the course clear from all traffic, the Harbour Trust having made special arrangements; in fact, the river will be closed during the time the races are being rowed.

Of the eights, the crew most in favour is New South Wales, but they are by no means free from faults, being at times short in length of stroke, and at least two of the oarsmen are not quite blended in the crew. Still, there is fine pace, and the blade work is even as to time.

Victoria is rapidly improving, but the body work and swing are still far short of the mechanical precision of many previous crews from the southern State. The leg work is by no means bad, and by the race day the crew will be capable of a fine effort. It is a light crew, but the men can row up to the weight, and before leaving the Yarra did well when opposed to some other good crews of more experienced oarsmen. Victoria will have a chance if the water be smooth and no strong breeze ahead of the boats.

The Tasmanians are a powerful lot, who drive well, but the work is nothing like as even as the eight that was here six years ago. The crew is not perfectly blended, and there is a tendency to shorten the stroke.

South Australia is a big team, and is more compact than the others. The men row hard, but the catch is somewhat weak compared with the finish. It is the best crew seen here from that State, and should row a fine race if the pace be in proportion to the weigh, the men apply.

Western Australia seems hardly up to the other crews as to pace, although it has been well coached for some months. The men do not reach out far enough, and the swing is not long enough. However, there is perhaps better condition in the boat than the other crews have.

The Queenslanders only reached Sydney on Monday, so have not had a chance to show what they could do on the course; but their work at Brisbane has favourably impressed their friends, and good time has been made in trial rows of the three miles. It is considered the best crew the northern State has had for many years, and it will probably need to be to score a win.

The boatrace officials are well qualified for the positions they have been appointed to, and the umpire in particular will see there is no infringement of the rules. It is a difficult position to fill at any time, but with six crews racing on even terms the responsibility is greatly increased. The coxswains will need to be very watchful, particularly when approaching the mile point, Mortlake, and Putney. It will not be too easy to control the course of the boats, and the least mistake may lead to considerable trouble.

At the start the best positions are those on the south side; but if the crews are well together at Blaxland's Point, a very wide turn will have to be made, by both New South Wales and Victoria, to make room for the other four boats. Six eight-oar crews cutting out miles in about 5 minutes is a crowd, even on the Parramatta.

Although the first interstate amateur sculling championship dates back only to 1892, the first race of this character took place in 1868, since which time various contests have taken place.

This year the representatives will be:—C. M'Villy (Tasmania), H. R. Stevens (Victoria), J. R. Towns (New South Wales). A fine race is expected, as the competitors are very well, and doing good work, particularly Towns, who is the heaviest and most experienced of the trio. He will row at 13st. M'Villy, who is the holder of the championship, is also a sculler of much merit. Stevens does not appear equal to the task of defeating his rivals, but he may do better than is given him credit by those who have seen the men afloat.

The interstate amateur sculling championship dates back to 1892, when the first race was held at Brisbane. M. J. Slack represented Queensland, and won from W. Lambert, of this State. The second race was also rowed at Brisbane in 1895, when E. Powell, of Victoria, won from W. Lambert, of Sydney, and M. J. Slack. After this the race became an annual fixture, to be decided on the same day as the eight-oar championship. In 1896 the race was first rowed on the Parramatta River, when M. J. Slack again won, beating L. Bannister, of this State, W. M'Cormack, from New Zealand, and C. Powell, of Victoria. Next year on the Yarra, E. Powell, representing Western Australia, won from A. Dennis, of Brisbane, and H. Lindgren, of Melbourne.

In the following year at Brisbane, only Queensland was represented, A. Dennis winning from M. J. Slack. In 1899 on the Yarra, J. J. Daley won for this State, beating M. J. Slack. Slack, however, got another win next year, at Brisbane, his only opponent being Charles Donald, of Victoria. The race of 1901 was held on the Parramatta River, when J. J. Daley beat M. J. Slack and J. Lumsden, also a Queenslander. In 1902 the race took place at Adelaide, and J. J. Daley won from J. J. Fahey, of South Australia. Next year the race was held on the Yarra, and was won by T. M. Bourke, of Launceston, with P. C. Ivens (Victoria), second, J. J. Daley third, and H. Brasch (Victoria) was fourth. Bourke won again in 1904, at Brisbane, beating Slack and Ivens. For the third time Bourke won, on the Parramatta, the following year. R. Evans, also a Tasmanian was second, P. C. Ivens third, and H. J. G. Edwards, of Western Australia, was fourth. Ivens was the winner in 1906 and the following year. In 1908, on the Yarra, E. Jack, of Tasmania, was the first to reach the judge's boat, but his amateur status was questioned, and eventually H. Brasch was awarded the race. In this race J. R. Towns competed, but gave up when leading a half-mile from home. Next year Towns won, and last year C. M'Villy won from P. S. Ivens and A. Priddle, of this State, at Hobart, his home.

It is evident W. Fogwell cannot get a race with H. Pearce for some time, for the Arnst-Pearce race will block it, and should the latter win the big event, he will forfeit the Australian championship to the previous holder, who is B. Thoroughgood. However, Pearce has yet to win. Arnst does not look so well as a man should who has to face a hard course of training extending over ten or eleven weeks. He has no pace unless he is thoroughly trained.

SWIMMING.

HARDWICK IN FORM.

LONGWORTH'S PLANS.

The decision of the Festival of the Empire Sports Committee to alter the date of the boxing and wrestling events from June 29 to July 5 is indeed welcome news, the action having been taken as a result of a request made by the Australasian Council as mentioned in this column last week. Harold Hardwick will now be able to finish with his swimming before appearing in the boxing arena, and the alteration will enable him to do himself justice in both branches of sport.

The news that Hardwick accomplished a record swim for the Bath Club's headquarters last week (73½yds in 41s) denotes that he is in good form thus early after his arrival. He has, however, accomplished better time over the distance in Sydney, and as a matter of fact has completed 75yds under 41s over a straight course. Although the 75yds distance is not in the recognised list, it is on record that both C. M. Daniels and Alex. Wickham have swum the course in 40 2-5s, in baths with turns.

The Bath Club is continuing its courtesies to Australians in putting our representative up as a member. All our latter-day swimmers speak very highly of the treatment meted out to them by this club.

W. Smythe, who is accompanying Mr. Coombes, the hon. manager of the Australian Festival of the Empire Team, to take part in the wrestling championships, is also a very fair handicap swimmer, and will, no doubt, take part in some events whilst in England.

Mr. Walter Brown, chairman of the Victorian Swimming Association, paid a flying visit to Sydney last week. The members of the Sydney Club's team that visited Melbourne last year, and to whom Mr. Brown was especially attentive, entertained the visitor at a dinner theatre party, and motor trip during his short stay here. Mr. Brown stated that the swimming season in Victoria has been a rather quiet one on account of the uncertain weather, but that some remarkably fine breast stroke swimming was accomplished by a Fitzroy boy, who beat the world's best figures for the furlong distance in a handicap.

The second monthly winter reunion of the Sydney Club will be held at the Domain Baths next Sunday morning, when a punching ball competition and a 25yds handicap will be carried out.

W. Longworth, who startled the swimming world by the brilliance of his performances last season, is intent on visiting the old world next year. In all probability he will be selected as the Australian representative in the swimming programme at the Olympic Games, but, besides having his eye on these events, is extremely desirous of winning the King's Cup competition, which is held annually by the Royal Life-saving Society. With this end in view he is receiving special tuition in the methods of life-saving used in this contest. Longworth intends perfecting himself during the winter months at this branch of the sport, and with his speed in reaching the subject to be saved should make a formidable opponent at next year's competition. The cup presented by his late Majesty King Edward VII has never been won by an Australian. The late B. B. Kieran competed in 1905, and Cecil Healy in 1906; but both swimmers were not very conversant in the life-saving methods, and, although leading in the swim to reach the patient, were disqualified when they attempted to bring their man in in an unorthodox manner. The style then used by Healy has since been included in the drill of the society as a fifth method of rescue, and leaves one arm and both legs free to swim with, the other arm being passed round the patient's chest. The English championships will, of course, also form part of Longworth's programme, especially the long-distance swim in the Thames (five miles). In view of his fine three miles record-breaking feat last February, the Rose Bay champion should accomplish something sensational in this event, as he will receive material assistance from the current in the river. This race has been twice won by Australians, viz., Percy Cavill in 1898 and F. W. Springfield in 1909. The mighty Kieran secured second place in 1905, but F. E. Beaurepaire did not start in last year's event, though he won all the other championships.

ANGLING.

CLOSE OF TROUT SEASON.

GOOD SPORT ON THE SNOWY.

OPENING OF THE SCHNAPPER SEASON.

May 1 was the first day of the close six months on the trout rivers, and it would be interesting to know how it has been observed. Amongst Sydney trout fishermen who have had opportunities of seeing and hearing of the doings of country fishermen, the belief is prevalent, and is no doubt founded on fact, that the close season is constantly ignored by people who cannot be induced to understand that it is necessary to have a close season at all. The policy of declaring a closure and not seeing that it is obeyed is a State discredit. Of what use is it to formulate laws if they are not carried out? The only thing that saves our trout rivers from destruction as State possessions which attract tourists is the rugged character of the country through which so many of them run. The fish can get into inaccessible ripples, where they can spawn in peace. Supplemented by the output of fry and yearlings from the State hatchery at Prospect, and nurseries at Talbingo and Kosciusko, the natural deposition of ova will this year be very large. On the whole the number of trout taken from the streams during the last season was smaller than for some years past, owing to the frequency of thunderstorms in the mountains interfering with the sport of tourists.

During the Easter week the angling at Marlo, a fishing resort at the mouth of the Snowy River, Victoria, was of a most sensational character. A party of seven rods, consisting of the Messrs. Hollins (4), Holdley, Barracchi, and Dr. Stanley Argyle, creeled 1271 fish, weighing 1968lb. The fish were chiefly Gippsland perch, but also included a fair proportion of bream and silverfish. Nearly 1000 fish were caught in four days, and in one afternoon Mr. George Hollins' party of five rods landed over 200 fish, weighing 500lb. The heaviest fish were a 5½lb silver, caught by Mr. John Hollins, and a 4¼lb perch. The fish were nearly all caught on shrimp bait. This may be regarded as the record catch for the Snowy River.

Schnapper fishing is in full swing, and, like during the last few years, has been good early. The enterprising promoters of several of the ocean fishing bands, which cannot yet be dignified by the name of clubs, have already secured tugs for trips, and engaged the services of pilots. More attention might, indeed, be given by those who do not like large parties, to motor and open-boat fishing. The professionals at Fairy Bower (Manly), La Perouse (Botany), Long Bay, Wollongong, Terrigal, Watson's Bay (Sydney), Newcastle, Yamba (Clarence River), Long Reef (Deewhy), and a score or more coastal centres are fearless and hardy ocean fishermen, who can handle a boat in a sea as well as any North Sea or Newfoundland long-liner, and seats in their boats are not nearly as expensive as the cramped space on the tugboats of Sydney, Newcastle, Wollongong, and Grafton.

Inland the Murray cod fishermen should be doing well. Those who fish with spinners from punts or small boats are bound to get fish just now. Black-fish anglers are girding up their loins for estuary sport, too, and are sure to have the usual hauls. Their catches are infinitely better to eat than the ungutted marketed black-fish, which are served and sold as bream so frequently.

Great jewfish hand-lining has been got lately in Middle Harbour by Mr. W. Paul and others. These fish are also plentiful off Croppy Head (Broken Bay) and Milson's Island (Hawkesbury).

BOXING.

With very satisfactory entries, and the cream of the amateur talent appearing, the State championships wear a very open look this year, and interesting contests are foreshadowed. As the Australasian championships will be held at Brisbane this year, and as the winners of the local championships will represent their State in the northern capital, a further inducement is added, if such be necessary, to make the contestants get into condition. The championships will be put through at the Gaiety Athletic Club, and will commence on Saturday night next.

Latest American files bring news of the fight between "Bud" Anderson, of Vancouver, and "Kid" Morrison, of Spokane. The match aroused a lot of local interest, as both lads were considered as being in line for a match with Ad. Wolgast, the present world's lightweight title-holder. The contest, which was scheduled to go 15 rounds, however, proved a surprise, Anderson knocking his opponent out, early in the second round, thus summarily disposing of his championship pretentions.

Out at Waverley, where Jack Lester, the American heavyweight, is training, for his contest, with Bill Lang, all the ambitious young boxers of the neighbourhood are having the gloves on with the visitor. Lester, who seems tireless, takes them on as fast as they arrive, and the bigger and stronger they are the more he seems to relish the combats.

Rumour has it that Bill Lang's name will shortly be figuring over the entrance of a certain well-known local sporting hostelry. Apparently Bill's recent trip to America and London have but emphasised the fact that Australia is by no means the worst place in the world to select as a home.

Carl Morris, who hits so hard that, according to Marvin Hart, who recently went up against him, no man can stay with him for more than a few rounds, has been matched with another "white hope," a giant named Palsor. The contest will be decided on July 4, at Tulsa, Indian Territory, U.S.A.

"Picato will have to be better that Johnny Summers, when he meets Arthur," says Harry Steve, Douglas's manager. "If he means to win. Arthur is better now than ever before, and realises that by beating Picato he will be in line for a match with Hughie Mehegan. He is boxing with Jack Sullivan and Harry Smith, and keeps the two big fellows moving all the time." Picato is training out at Albert Conlon's in the Glebe, and has greatly impressed the local boxing critics, who look to him to be returned the winner. In the event of Picato winning it is almost certain that he will be matched to meet Mehegan, now quite recovered from his recent illness, at the Stadium, on May 20.

Wiring from Hobart, Jack Read, the ex-amateur featherweight champion, states that on Wednesday last he gained a points decision over Frank O'Grady, the Sydney lightweight. He further adds that the contest was a good one, and pleased the spectators mightily.

The Gaiety Athletic Club, has matched Jimmy Hill with Ted Green, the contest to take place early next month.

DYSPEPTIC PEOPLE

are often unaware that anything serious is the matter with them. They are prone to imagine that their ailments will "go as they came"—pass away of themselves. Quite possibly there is at first merely a touch of indigestion, liverishness, or some similar trouble, easily cured by the right means in the initial stage, but which, if neglected, may result in more grave conditions. The earlier symptoms point to a disordered state of the stomach and liver. Then is the time to realise that the functions of those important organs can be

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

IN APPLE COUNTRY.

PROGRESS AT BATHURST.

II.

Mr. Wollstenholme's orchard, Montavella, a couple of miles from Bathurst, was planted between five and six years ago. Its area is 90 acres, carrying about 5500 apple trees, and also other fruit, pears, peaches, etc. It is the pioneer private commercial apple orchard in the district.

Messrs. R. G. Edgell and H. S. Wark next followed this example. At Bradwardine, quite close to the town, Mr. Edgell has 70 acres of apples, which have just come into bearing, the orchard being now in its fifth year. Mr. Wark's orchard of 40 acres is the same age. Both properties are beginning to give some return for the money expended.

Mr. Wark was very successful at the local show with exhibits of very fine fruit. Mr. Edgell did not exhibit, although he also has splendid specimens, particularly of Rome Beauties.

These examples were promptly followed. Mr. A. J. Bond, Yulayulo, putting in 40 acres, now in the third year. At Kirkconnell Estate, near Yetholme, Messrs. Miller and Bolton have the largest orchard in the district so far—9000 trees—planted two years ago, which have made excellent growth, and are in fine condition. Messrs. Cutler and Raglan have 30 acres of trees. They showed some fine specimens of Roman Beauty at the recent show. Dr. Machattie has a two-year-old orchard of 30 acres; Messrs. Stewart, 25 acres; Ray Bros, 26 acres; Thompson, Campbell River, 20 acres planted last year; and Mr. Trivett, the well-known show exhibitor, has 10 acres at Peel. A syndicate of local railway men have also planted out 20 acres at Bald Hill last year, putting peaches in as fillers.

Here, then, is something like 500 acres under apples, several orchards having got within sight of the commercial stage, which the pioneer orchard has reached. It will be seen that the apple business is going to be a big thing for Bathurst. In addition there are a number of small orchards, which will all help to increase the district's output. Two fair areas have been planted out this year on the main O'Connell-road, and others are proposed. It is expected that at least another 100 acres of apple trees will be planted this year.

Climatic conditions undoubtedly suit the fruit. The soil is a decomposed granite, which is what is wanted for good stuff. The district is, of course, also basaltic, but for apples this soil wants to be avoided. The granity soil works up well, has a natural mulch, and holds the moisture. The rainfall is well up to the average, although the last few years have been on the dry side. Good cultivation, however, will carry the orchards through.

Soil, climate, and rainfall are therefore satisfactory; the fruit already produced is a guarantee of this. Growers are planting with an eye mainly to the export trade. Following the experience of the Government orchard, the four main varieties put in are Jonathans, Cleopatras, Granny Smiths, and Rome Beauties. These are all good export sorts, and suit the district. In this respect the growers are not going on chance, thanks to Government enterprise. The commercial fruit grown at the Government farm has not been beaten for the last five or six years. It has been exported by the Department of Agriculture for the guidance of those in the industry, and the prices realised have equalled those obtained in London by apples from any part of the world. There should be no reason why private orchards exporting should not have the same success. It is a very valuable point that varieties so suitable for export should thrive in the locality.

In some cases the Cleopatras have shown bitter pit, unfortunately, and there is a division of opinion as to the best course to follow. One grower has practically decided to abandon this variety, working some other on the trees. This, however, is certainly a drastic course, and one that should not be taken too hurriedly. There is a chance that the trouble will not be so acute when the trees get older. For that reason Mr. Allan, Government fruit expert, advises growers to hang on to the Cleopatras for a time, at least. They rank amongst the best selling sorts in London, and his experience at the Bathurst orchard is that letting the trees wood out more largely counteracted the trouble. In regard to bitter pit it is also worth noting that a thorough investigation is now to be made into the matter as a result of the decision of the recent conference of State Ministers of Agriculture, and it may be that some solution will be arrived at concerning this trouble, of which little is definitely known as regards cause, etc. It is certain that something will have to be done, as the variety is too valuable to sacrifice. Bitter pit is now a matter of careful investigation with many orchardists, and it will be strange if a cure is not achieved.

The Bathurst orchards are well looked after. The ground is subsoiled and properly worked. Green manuring is a regular practice. Winter rye, barley, rape, and cow-pea being sown as green crops. Winter rye is the most popular crop, although an objection is urged against it that it is difficult to keep under in the cross-ploughing. However, it grows a great body of stuff, and the rotting of any green crop is mainly a matter of the weather. Rape is a good crop locally, providing the rain comes the right time to shove it along. At the Government farm cow-pea is said to be a failure for this purpose, but Mr. Wark has been very successful with it. This legume should be a most useful crop if it can be grown, owing to its value as a nitrifier. So far there does not appear any practice of manuring the trees with artificial fertilisers, but same is generally put in with the green crop, so the fertility of the soil should be maintained.

The orchards are planted on both the square and triangle system, each having strong believers, and each claiming identical advantages for the one they prefer. Different methods of laying out the orchards are also noticeable, more importance being attached to this feature by some growers than by others. Both these matters will be referred to later.

So far, of course, the operations at Bathurst have been practically confined to the hard part of building up the orchards, a matter that requires both a stout pocket and a stout heart. A year or two will see the beginning of the other side, when the returns should be getting substantial. Probably the same period will also see the beginning of new troubles for the growers, particularly with labour, although it is to be hoped that by that time the folly of crippling enterprise and development by scarcity of good labour will be recognised. Both political parties profess to favour immigration where labour is really wanted. As there can be no question that it is wanted in the rural districts for the most part, it may be that some effort will be made to meet this trouble. At Bathurst several growers state that they would extend their areas of apple orchard if they were not in some trepidation as to the trouble in handling the fruit later on. Obviously if this is the case such a position is a direct loss to grower and worker, and, indeed, the whole community.

Co-operation amongst growers will be most desirable when the active distributing stage is reached. It is not too early to consider the matter now, and we are glad to understand that the leading growers have taken the initial steps in forming an association. In many ways from a commercial standpoint such an association can be most valuable. In both the disposing of fruit and buying supplies economy will come from combination.

It is also a good sign to see that there seems to be full realisation of the necessity for keeping up the name of the district by a rigid system of grading and branding and placing the best fruit only on the market, as the best. It is certain that this will be the soundest policy when the district gets into full swing as an apple-producer, and it is certainly to be hoped it will be adhered to.

TUMBARUMBA POTATOES.

VALUE OF MANURE.

The productiveness of the Tumbarumba district for potato-growing, and the advantages derived from the use of fertilisers, together with careful selection of varieties, have been strikingly demonstrated by experiments carried out on the holding of Mr. John Eisenhauer, at Rosewood.

The experiments were conducted under the auspices of the Agricultural Department, and the southern districts inspector (Mr. H. Ross) reports that in December last five acres were used for the purpose. The varieties of potatoes selected were Early Rose, Bliss Triumph, Cambridge Kidneys, Red Rubies, Up to Date, Satisfaction, Brownell's Beauty, Adirondak, Queen of the Valley, and Coronation. They were put into well prepared and manured land, at the rate of 4cwt per acre, with a complete manure. The cost of the manure was £1 12s per acre. The opinion had been expressed that the soil of the Tumbarumba district would not respond readily to artificial fertilisers, and the trial was carried out with the purpose of testing half an acre without manure as against the remainder of the area manured. The results go to show that the use of fertilisers added over four tons to the acre, or a return of £24 to the acre more than was obtained from the other land.

Specimens of the potatoes, dug out at random, are magnificent in each of the varieties, one of the finest yields being obtained from Up to Date. This is an English potato, introduced seven or eight years ago, has a white skin, and a fine flavour. Samples of this variety taken from the plot weighed 1lb each. Satisfaction, also one of the whites, yielded close on eight tons to the acre. In point of size, regularity of shape, and cleanness, Satisfaction proved to be finest of the ten varieties used in the tests. Brownell's Beauty also did remarkably well, giving about eight tons to the acre, and the samples obtained from Red Rubies were exceptionally good. The Adirondak (a comparatively new variety) is adaptable to cool climates such as Tumbarumba, and yielded excellently in the experiments. Early Rose gave about six tons to the acre of big, evenly-formed, clean-skinned tubers. Queen of the Valley, which is new to this district, was demonstrated to be essentially suited to cold regions, the potatoes dug out being good enough for any show. The total yield of the five-acre plot was between 35 and 40 tons, or at the rate of between seven and eight tons per acre.

WHEAT-GROWING.

SOW NEW LAND FIRST.

WAIT FOR RAIN WITH FALLOW.

Mr. Ross, the southern districts inspector of the Agricultural Department, advises farmers, in view of the continued dry weather, not to sow fallowed land at the present time. It would be better, he says, if they confined themselves to the sowing of new or stubble land. Fallowed soil at present contains just sufficient moisture to swell and germinate the grain, without having enough to carry it through for even a short period if no rain should come within the next two or three weeks. On the other hand, with wheat sown in stubble land or new ground, there is no risk whatever of it germinating, at least not until the now urgently-needed rain comes. There has been no rain for nearly two months in eastern and southern Riverina, and largely because of the abnormally cold autumn and the desiccating winds the country is as dry as if there had been no rain worth mentioning in the summer.

MEAT EXPORT TRADE.

OVER-SUPPLIES IN LONDON.

LONDON, March 31.

The frozen meat market is by no means satisfactory, and signs are not absent of the advent of another such season as was 1909. The trouble is simply one of over-supplies, which have led to such heavy stocks as to cause congestion in the meat market all round. Some six weeks ago the forward buyers of New Zealand lambs, who usually at that time of the year operate heavily for March to May shipments, were found to be reluctant to do business. Since then this tendency has increased, and practically nothing is doing on a c.i.f. basis. These men got to hear of very heavy expected shipments of lamb from New Zealand and became alarmed. I hear of close on 600,000 lambs likely to be shipped from New Zealand in May—a ship just in is discharging 158,000. North Island lambs cannot be sold at present, and are being bottled up, and there is still a considerable quantity of Australian lamb, of quite secondary quality, in cold store. The present position of slackness is rendered more acute by the exceedingly wintry nature of the weather, with blizzards and snow about; good fat beef is more to the point than a dish of lamb.

Accompanying these depressing conditions, and resulting from them, we find a low level of prices for both mutton and lamb. New Zealand, Australian, and South American mutton is a good ¾d per lb under the level of 1910 at this time, and Commonwealth lamb is worth 3¾d to 4d, against 4¾d to 5½ last year. The position of the lamb trade is certainly most disappointing and somewhat disquieting, but considering the enormous imports (1,720,000 for the first three months of the year, as against 1,391,486 in 1910) nothing else could have been anticipated. Selling conditions are a bit dull at the moment, but there is nothing wrong with the "demand" part of the business—it is the "supply" which (being excessive) has upset the trade.

Beef has been quite healthy for some time, both chilled and frozen being in reduced stocks. For some reason or other the Argentine people have slacked off considerably, and as the shipments from Australia and New Zealand have been nominal the beef market is firm. Australasian frozen hinds are up to 4½d per lb, being quite short.

Without doubt, when the summer comes along, and with it the immense numbers of visitors expected in London for the Coronation, the consumption of meat will be enormous, and a rise in price will take place, but for the next six weeks or so it is difficult to see any improvement of moment in sight.

The meat trade all round is quiet and devoid of special features. The nodule trouble is over. It has done wonderfully little harm to the trade, though some of the Queensland shippers must have lost heavily in having to meet the claims of c.i.f. buyers, who either threw up their bargains or demanded considerable allowances on the ground that the nodule beef was not a "merchantable article."

AUSTRALIAN FRUIT IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, May 2.

The Western Australian apples ex Otranto are selling at from 10s to 17s 6d per case. Some Victorian and South Australian apples are realising from 9s 6d to 14s per case.

POTATO BLIGHT.

ORANGE.—The local potato-growers and potato market are now very unsettled, as the consequence of the information which reached Orange, of the discovery of blight in several places in the district. Prices and sales slumped seriously. Many growers are pitting their sound tubers, waiting for a more favourable occasion to dispose of them. Quite a number of growers still refuse to believe that blight is in the district at all, as the appearance and smell of the samples they have seen do not fit in with the published descriptions of the disease.

MONEY IN RABBITS.

MOLONG.—A local rabbiter drew £32 8s for rabbit skins for two weeks' operations. The amount paid was for skins alone, at 10½d per lb.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

ALBION PARK.—From a dairymen's point of view, everything points to a very prosperous winter. There is plenty of grass and green fodder. Many farmers have large stacks or silos of ensilage. A general complaint prevails regarding the scarcity of labour of all descriptions.

BLACKTOWN.—The frosts have dried up much of the green maize. Farmers are busily engaged filling silos and storing feed for the winter. Orchardists have taken advantage of the fine weather, and recommend spraying and fumigating, chiefly for red and waxy scales.

MILLTHORPE.—Mr. W. Lennox, the president of the local Farmers and Settlers' Association, has been made the recipient of a present, in the shape of a gold watch, suitably inscribed, in recognition of his services as president of the above association, having held that position since the inception of the society, and his great interest in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the man on the land.

MOLONG.—Owners complain that stock refuse to eat herbage in any of the paddocks visited by grasshoppers. Sheep-owners have sustained severe losses by vagrant dogs. Mr. S. P. Reynolds, of Burrawong, lost six fine sheep in one night from dogs. Foxes are reported to be increasing rapidly.

MOSS VALE.—During the last week several very severe frosts have been experienced in this district, and caused considerable damage to the corn and millet crops. Farmers and graziers have an abundant supply of grass, and together with ensilage stacks, which the majority of dairy-farmers have conserved, will ensure an abundant supply of fodder. Stock are also in splendid condition, and prospects are brighter than for a considerable number of years past.

RICHMOND.—At a meeting of the council of the Hawkesbury District Agricultural Association, held last Thursday, Mr. J. Holmes was elected to the council, vice Mr. P. Holland, resigned. A report presented by the delegates, Messrs. C. S. Guest and E. Campbell, of the pastoral and agricultural conference was received and adopted. The total entries catalogued for the coming show are 2461, which is lower than last year's entry. This is due to the losses sustained by many farmers through the past flood or phenomenal rains.

YERONG CREEK.—The weather continues dry, with frosty nights. Farmers are anxiously looking for rain to enable them to proceed with ploughing and sowing operations. Grass and water are plentiful throughout the district, but the former is dying off for the want of rain. Stock of every kind are very healthy, and in splendid condition. Rabbits have got a great set back through the use of the poison-cart, and other methods of extermination. Trappers are making their appearance in this neighbourhood, but this occupation is not likely to prove as lucrative as was the case last year.

WELLINGTON HORSE SALES.

WELLINGTON.—Although as a result of the continued dry spell prices at Messrs. Bedford, Taylor, and Weston's special horse sale were not equal to those realised at the big annual sale, nearly every consignment was cleared. Buyers were present from all parts of the State, and 562 horses were sold, the sales aggregating £10,196 10s, an average of about £18 per head. The biggest consignors were Messrs. Sparkes Bros., who yarded a splendid mob of 185 head of young draughts, which were landed here after travelling 1000 miles by road. Something of a record was put up by Mr. Harry Taylor in selling the lot between 11.30 a.m. and 4.30 p.m. on the last day of the sale. The ruling prices were:—Extra heavy draughts, £37 to £41 10s, medium £26 to £33; young draughts (growers), £12 15s to £18; mares with foal at foot, £20 to £32; light horses, good quality, £15 to £32.

STECK
Pianola Piano

IS MUSIC A NEGLECTED PLEASURE IN YOUR HOME?

You enjoy looking at great pictures and reading good books. Wouldn't you find equal pleasure in beautiful music if it could be brought directly into your own home?

Merely listening to fine music, well rendered, is pleasurable. But when, to the enjoyment of listening, is added the fascination of personally producing the music yourself, you have a form of entertainment that is irresistible.

The pleasure of the STECK PIANOLA PIANO is the pleasure of conquest. Each composition that you take up you make your very own. You play it over and over until you know the different themes, and with each repetition you strive to secure a more artistic result.

The pleasure that the painter has in watching the canvas grow under his brush is yours when you play the STECK PIANOLA PIANO, for each time you play a composition you create it anew.

The popularity of the STECK PIANOLA PIANO is not founded on mere caprice, but is based upon a deep-seated need of human nature. It is the desire to do things ourselves, and the pride we take in a thing well done.

As the success of the PIANOLA PIANO induces more and more imitation, it becomes increasingly important to distinguish between the different instruments of this type. Back of the Pianola Piano are 316 basic patents. They ensure points of musical and mechanical superiority which imitators cannot overcome.

CAUTION.—The Pianola Piano is obtainable in Sydney only at the Pianola Showrooms. The Steinway and the Steck are the only pianos containing the genuine Pianola.

Wouldn't you like to own one of these wonderful Pianos, which are above criticism from a musical standpoint—which enable you to hear all the world's best music?

Let us send you one of our Catalogs. We will send it free if you will write us. Ask for Catalog B.

NEWCASTLE.

HOSPITAL PATIENT SUED.

Newcastle, Tuesday.

At the Newcastle District Court to-day, before Judge Docker, Thomas Michael O'Neill, treasurer of the Newcastle Hospital, proceeded against William Holmes, formerly of Newcastle, and now residing at Marrickville. A sum of £21 12s was claimed for treatment received by the defendant at the Newcastle Hospital. Defendant pleaded not indebted. The complainant stated that the defendant was admitted into the institution suffering from electric shock. He was unconscious when admitted, but on his recovering consciousness an arrangement was made for payment on the date of his discharge from the institution. Defendant stated that he had been maimed for life, and was not in a position to pay. He gave evidence to the effect that his left hand was useless, and his right hand injured. He received from the Newcastle Council the sum of £127 5s as compensation. He denied having made an arrangment for payment, and stated that he had always been a subscriber to the hospital. His Honor returned a verdict for the full amount claimed.

SURETY OF AN EMPLOYEE.

Henry Rowland Ward proceeded against John M'Grorley, of Wallsend, for the recovery of a sum of £32 7s 7d, which plaintiff alleged was due for losses sustained by him through the deficiency in the accounts of an employee for whom the defendant had gone surety. Defendant pleaded equitable defence and payment. Plaintiff carries on a business as a tea merchant in Sydney. The employee, in whose accounts the deficiencies were alleged, was a traveller and collector. The employee denied the deficiencies, but was dismissed in 1910. The defendant said he was not notified of any deficiency in the plaintiff's accounts until after the employee had been dismissed. A verdict was given for the plaintiff for the sum of £16 9d 9d.

COAL AND OTHER EXPORTS.

The following vessels were cleared at the Newcastle customs-house to-day:—Kooringa, s, for Melbourne, with 1800 tons coal, 200 tons bunkers; Askoy, ship, for Supe (Peru), with 2210 tons coal, and 11 tons coal for ships' use; Nardoo, s, for Port Pirie, via Sydney, with 560 tons coal and 370 tons bunkers.

NORTH COAST RAILWAY.

FIRST SECTION NEARLY READY.

MORPETH, Tuesday.

The contractors for the first section of the North Coast Railway, Maitland to Dungog, expect to be able to hand over the line to the department within a month or six weeks. The completion of the line has been delayed in consequence of wet weather at different periods of the contract, and the damage by washaways and the sinking of line caused much trouble and delay. A deal of work had to be done a second time, while difficulty was experienced in getting suitable skilled labour. Recent heavy rains caused the subsidence of the ballasting in a number of places. Portion of the line from Martin's Creek to Dungog requires lifting and packing, and the required labour for this work is said to be hard to obtain.

The erection of the telegraph line is completed as far as Patterson, and the interlocking gangs have still a considerable amount of work to do, but all is going well. The contractors are hopeful that the line will be out of their hands in the time stated.

FIRST PASSENGER TRAIN.

WEST MAITLAND, Tuesday.

It is officially announced that arrangements have been completed between the Railway Commissioners and contractors for the first section of the north coast railway, Carey, Carson, and Simpson, to run a special passenger train for the conveyance of visitors from West Maitland to Dungog, on Thursday, 11th inst., the second day of the Dungog show, returning the same night. This will be the first passenger service on the new line, and it is anticipated large numbers from Newcastle and Maitland districts will make the journey.

NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Williams, the owners of those good collies Poplar Laddie and Poplar Lassie, have left Sydney to reside in Young.

Mrs. K. Tovey reports that she has disposed of several pug puppies by ch General Grand and Prince Arthur. Two went to a fancier at Hornsby, and others to Yass and Homebush. The well-known Robert Emmett has been secured by Mr. J. Scaffer, of Toowoomba.

Mr. J. M. Chisholm, of Goulburn, who owns the imported deerhound Scotch Queen, has bought the winning fox terrier puppy at the last Ladies' Kennel Club Parade.

The Town Hall has been busy in the dog line for several days. In connection with the Girls' Realm Guild, exhibition space has been allotted in the basement for dog benches. Each day members of the Ladies' Kennel Club have brought in their best dogs, in which the visitors have shown great interest. To-morrow afternoon there will be a parade of champions, among them being Rosebank Cedric, Poplar May, Lady Isabel, and Prince Zetland.

Yesterday afternoon, at the above exhibition, Mrs. Florence Griffen, the popular secretary of the Ladies' Kennel Club, met with a painful accident. Mrs. Griffen was standing on an Austrian chair when the cane seat broke, with the result that she fell with great force to the floor, severely spraining her right wrist. The ambulance attendant fearing a bone had been broken, at once placed the wrist in splints.

Mr. Alban Gee, president of the Kennel Club and patron of the Bulldog Society, left Sydney last Thursday for a trip to London. His health has been indifferent for a long time, and it is hoped that the sea voyage and a long spell from work will prove beneficial. Among those to say good-bye to Mr. Gee were Messrs. Borthwick, Burns, Clarke, Chapman, Allison, Ehrlich, Cunningham, Walters, and Wimble.

Mr. Arthur Goodman, who is well known in connection with the Bulldog Club, has been an inmate of Prince Alfred Hospital for the past fortnight. He is now on the road to recovery.

Mr. A. E. Wilson, hon. secretary of the Sydney Silky and Yorkshire Terrier Club, reports that the prospects of the combined show on May 27 are bright. Several special prizes have been presented. Entries will be received daily at the Kennel Club rooms, and on Saturdays from 7 till 10 p.m.

The bronze medal not awarded at the Royal Show will be allotted at the meeting of the Australian Terrier Club to-night.

The reunion of the members of the Bulldog Club was held last Wednesday at the A.B.C. Cafe. There was a large attendance of the members and their friends. During the evening an excellent musical programme was provided. After supper the management committee made a presentation to the club secretary, Mr. E. C. Streat, on the occasion of his marriage. The gift, suitably inscribed, was a handsome cut-glass Tantalus spirit stand, with a smoker's companion attached to it. Mr. F. M'William, president, in making the presentation, spoke of the great enthusiasm of Mr. Streat in the interests of the Bulldog Club.

At the last meeting of the Kennel Club committee, Mr. P. R. Russell presided. An application from the Sydney Silk and Yorkshire Terrier Club to hold a championship show was granted, and the judges nominated were approved.

A meeting of the committee of the Bulldog Society was held on Thursday evening last. Mr. F. W. Walther occupied the chair. The principal business before the committee was the consideration of the annual show, the Kennel Club having granted the society the right to hold a championship show, the committee decided that such show shall take place on August 25 and 26 next. Seventeen classes will be provided, with prize-money of 30s for each class. A number of specials will be added to the cash prizes.

BATHURST SHOW.

There were 126 dogs at the Bathurst show held last Wednesday. The general quality of the exhibits was indifferent. The best classes were pointers, of which 13 dogs were benched, cattle dogs (15), and Irish terriers (12). The one St. Bernard was a poor sample. Deerhounds were fair, but one of the best of them was wrongly entered in the kangaroo dog class. Seven good greyhounds were shown, the best being a black dog. There were nine setters—four English, two Irish, and three Gordons. In the last-mentioned breed the winner showed average quality and fair tan, but the runner-up was nearly all black.

Mr. Peacock brought out a strong team of pointers, winning with the well-known Cannon in dogs, and with Lady Sceptre in bitches. The latter is by Lune Sceptre ex ch. Drayton Lady. She is beautiful in outline and working properties, but plain in head. Ch. Moston Beatrice, now 12 years old, was placed third. Cattle dogs were a good lot, W. Dawson winning with a dropeared dog, which has excellent bone, body, coat, and feet. A beautifully-proportioned puppy bitch won for J. Morris in a class of nine. The two collies were only up to country form. G. Shute's dog, which won, is a bit coarse, and the runner-up is small and shortheaded.

No entries were received in the bulldog and bull-terrier classes. Irish terriers were good. The winning dog (L. Bell's), is a nice-sized and well-balanced terrier that could beat several of the Royal Show prize-getters. The second dog (D. Matthews) is one of the useful sort, and the third (P. Minehan's) is a lovely colour, with good head properties and hard coat. He fails, however, badly in body, being very shallow in brisket, and weak in loins. Norah O'Connor (Liverpool and Royal winner) won easily in bitches for J. Melbourne, of Campsie; Mrs. J. Minehan, of North Sydney, owns the runner-up.

Of the nine fox-terrier dogs the judge had difficulty in finding one worth a card. J. Ingersole's dog was placed first, and the other eight were dismissed. The five bitches were even worse, and were also sent out of the ring without mention. These classes furnished the worst lot of fox terriers I have seen at a show. It would take space to specify their faults, but it will suffice to say that with one exception they failed everywhere from a show point of view.

Australian terriers (6) were poor. The best, shown by R. W. Fincham, is a good blue and tan with crooked fore legs. What the catalogue called Australian silky-coated terriers mustered well, there being eight of each sex. They were not up to much, most of them being wavy-coated silvers without tan. Kelpies and barbs were relegated to the any-other-variety class. Why, I know not. Surely the most useful of all workers should receive better recognition. The A.O.V. dogs comprised five pugs, two barbs, and a skye. The last mentioned, a fair one, won for M. Cripps, J. Johnson being second with a barb whose left foot was too much spread for a worker. A skye terrier (A. Naylor's) won in the bitch class, followed by a good little kelpie too young for show, owned by E. Jacobs.

Cocker spaniels were only middling; so were the Fields. There was a special prize for the best field spaniel bitch, but it was not awarded, as the two exhibits were not in that category.

The stewards, Messrs. H. A. and N. A. Hansard, had the ring well served. The little cubby-houses in which the dogs were benched answered the purpose, but a show like Bathurst should provide a properly-covered building for the canine exhibits. A defect in the catalogue is that instead of the numbers being consecutive each class is numbered by itself.

LABOUR INSPECTOR.

COMMENDS POSTUM PLANT.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 21.—The pure food factories of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., of Battle Creek, Mich., which are visited by from 15,000 to 18,000 tourists annually, entertained an unexpected visitor the other day in the person of Sylvester Greusel, Michigan State Factory Inspector.

With practiced and unsparing eye this state official investigated the great group of factory buildings where Postum Cereal, Grape-Nuts, and Post Toasties are manufactured. The result of his visit was shown by the following special report which he made to the Michigan State Labour Commission:—

Mr. Richard Fletcher, Commissioner of Labour and Statistics, Lansing, Mich.—Dear Sir,—I have this day (Sept. 20, 1910) carefully inspected every department of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Michigan, and I think they are entitled to an especially complimentary report for the following reasons:—

First.—All the mechanical appliances of this splendid factory are in perfect condition—everything safeguarded.

Second.—The sanitary conditions are of the best. Everything is furnished employees—fresh water, wash-rooms, dressing and toilet rooms.

Third.—With the large number of persons employed in the breakfast food department, there have been no accidents.

Fourth.—I find the statistics of the wages paid men and women are the highest I have found in any factory I have inspected in Michigan.

Fifth.—They do not employ any child labour under 16 years of age.

It is a model institution in every respect.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) SYLVESTER GREUSEL,
State Inspector.—Advt.

Hopes for the future can banish the pain,
Our faith points the way to a brighter to-morrow,
And whispers to us we'll meet him again.

Inserted by his loving wife and family.

MYERS.—In sad but ever-loving memory of my dear husband and our dear father, Saul Myers, who departed this life May 3, 1910, aged 74. Sadly missed.

Oh why should the spirit of mortal be proud!
Like a swift-fleeting meteor, a fast-flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
Man passes from life to his rest in the grave.

Inserted by his sorrowing wife and children.

PERRYMAN.—In loving memory of my dear husband, Henry M. Perryman, who died May 3, 1910.

Dear is the grave where my husband is laid,
Sweet is the memory that never will fade,
Roses may wither, flowers fade and die;
If others forget you, never will I.

Inserted by his loving wife, Lavinia Perryman.

SLANEY.—A loving tribute to the memory of William Slaney, who departed this life May 3, 1910. Inserted by his friend, Jack Hackett.

SLANEY.—In loving memory of William Slaney, who departed this life May 3, 1910. Inserted by his friend, Tom M'Dolald.

SLANEY.—In loving memory of my dear friend, William Slaney, who departed this life May 3, 1910.

Could I have been there at the hour of death,
To have caught the last sigh of your breath;
Your last faint whisper I might have heard,
And breathed in your ear a parting word.

Inserted by his loving friend, Myra Jones.

RETURN THANKS.

Mrs. JOHN LEWIS and FAMILY, of Rocky Point-road, Arncliffe, desire to return their heartfelt THANKS to all kind friends for telegrams, cards, letters, wreaths, and expressions of sympathy, also the doctors and staff of the St. George's Cottage Hospital, for their kindness during their late sad bereavement.

This Company is acquiring that valuable property at the corner of Park and Castlereagh streets, Sydney, and the business being carried on at that centre as a going concern from 1st February last. The Property in the vicinity is increasing enormously in value, and the New Company is taking over the Land and Building at more than £2000 under its marketable valuation. On a basis of the past month's operations the Company can easily show a 10 per cent. Profit for the year. Patronage to the Hotel has almost doubled itself in 4 years, and during Easter over 1000 people were accommodated in 10 days. Although 16 additional bedrooms have just been provided, bringing the total to 57, the Company must at an early date enlarge the building to meet the demands; hence the need for additional Capital.

THE COMPANY IS REGISTERED WITH A CAPITAL OF £100,000,
DIVIDED INTO SHARES OF £1 EACH.

First issue, 25,000 £1 shares, 2/6 on application, 2/6 on allotment, and the balance in calls (as required) of 1/ per Share, the intervals between calls not to be less than one month.
Application List closes at an early date.

THE QUARTER MILLION.

As the referendum figures approach finality it emerges that the poll was much better than at first promised to be the case, though there is still a large margin to make up before every Australian can be said to have done his duty. Nevertheless the result is so conclusive as to be crushing. There is roughly a quarter of a million majority against both increase of legislative powers and the nationalisation of monopolies; in other words, the majorities against tampering with the Constitution amount to over 20 per cent. of the votes polled; and there is a five to one majority of States against it. Even this is not the worst part of the story. As Mr. Holman has pointed out, more than half the Labour voters in New South Wales either voted against the proposals or did not record their votes; and the same thing is doubtless true, with modifications, of the other States. No one, therefore, can complain that the verdict was indecisive in this instance. A most emphatic negative has been recorded against the unification of politics, and the socialising of industry.

As is shown by the cabled comments of the London journals, if a defeat of this kind had happened to a dominant party in the House of Commons its Ministers would have almost certainly resigned office. The other day Mr. Hughes tried to explain why no such notion would occur to him. We certainly should not expect it to do so, but the fact remains that the people of Australia have flatly declared themselves against Labour policy in two or more of its fundamental points, and that is tantamount to a general vote of want of confidence, infinitely more fraught with meaning than the carrying of a vote of no confidence in the House could be. The referendum is a novelty, and there is, of course, no precedent that can be quoted; but we doubt if Mr. Asquith would care to remain in office if, say, his Parliament Bill received a similar rebuff from the people.

However that may be, there is no doubt that in our case Parliament will run its course; and the only question is, will it be satisfied to do useful and non-contentious work, or will it ride for a fall at the general elections two years hence. As Mr. Deakin says, it is not fair to attach much importance to Mr. Hughes's utterances on the morrow of defeat. That gentleman has feelings, and we can understand how bitterly disappointed he and his friends must be. When it has had a little time to recover his party will see the wisdom of not risking another battle on the same lines. Once bitten, twice shy. Nor, indeed, should it take it too much to heart that it has so seriously misjudged public opinion. That is a mistake that may be freely forgiven it. Wrapt up in much that was intolerable, there was a substratum of good in the referendum proposals, and purged of the evil element Labour may ultimately succeed in achieving the useful part of its purpose—or Liberalism will take up the work if its turn arrives first. But obviously the best chance now for Labour is to go slow on all proposals of a doctrinaire nature. It has its two years of office tolerably certain before it; and in such matters as naval and land defence, immigration, and the development of the Northern Territory and Papua, to say nothing of the east-and-west railway and the Federal capital, it has an abundance of work to its hand requiring all its administrative and business ability, and affording the opportunity for broad and far-reaching policy on behalf of Australia as a whole, and independent of narrow party considerations. Surely it is good advice, even if it comes from the enemy, to be content with that, and to put all the available energy into building up a sound record of practical politics? Who knows but that that might even convert the Philistines? Certainly in so far as it was accomplished Labour would be learning that class prejudice is its worst weakness.

NEGLECTED IMMIGRATION.

When are we to get sincerity from either the State or Federal Government on the subject of immigration? So far a pretty set-to of pingpong has been played with State and Federal Ministers as the participants. The Commonwealth protests that it wants immigrants, and that it is doing all it can to encourage them to make for our shores, but that it has no lands under its direct control, and so cannot allow itself to be made directly responsible. The States urge that immigration should really be a Federal matter; that for the States individually to endeavour to create the machinery necessary to secure an adequate flow of desirable newcomers would be merely to duplicate institutions. To some extent both are right in their assertions. But what is the result? Neither is doing anything worthy of the name. Some few immigrants are certainly making their way towards Australia, but, according to our cables, there are more Scotchmen leaving the Clyde each week, chiefly for Canada, than there are immigrants from all countries arriving in Australia in three months. Mr. George Stagg gave us his impression the other day of the good work being done by Sir George Reid in London, and how he was enabling the Commonwealth completely to eclipse Canada. Immigrants do not go to Canada in the winter. Let us wait and see what the record is next summer. Doubtless the High Commissioner is doing good work, but his efforts, not being backed up by the full weight of the Government he represents, nor by the funds necessary to prosecute a vigorous campaign, in tangible results fall far below those of Canada's representatives.

It is very evident that constant vigilance is needed on the other side, not only to make the most of our opportunities for attracting settlers, but also to keep in check the misrepresentations sedulously circulated by those who have interests elsewhere. Our London correspondent on Tuesday gave a graphic account of how the country can be maligned, either by a genuine immigrant, who has had bad luck, or by someone posing as the genuine article, who merely depends on the fervidness of his imagination for his facts. From the same source comes the intimation that the report of the Scottish Commissioners is already being discounted. It would seem that, although the actual report is not to be issued in Great Britain till some time during the current month, several of the commissioners have been interviewed, and many expressions favourable to Australia have been uttered by them. To counteract this influence which would be highly beneficial to Australia, statements have been circulated that the commissioners did not really see the Commonwealth at all; that they hugged the coast, and saw only picked spots, being carefully kept off the waste patches. Anyone who knows anything of their peregrinations throughout the States is well aware that these statements are far indeed from the truth, and anyone who was brought into contact with these Scotchmen realise full well that they were not so easily gullible. They were long-headed men, who came to Australia to see the country as it is, not as it might be represented to them. Their mission was one that they had entered into in the interest of their own countrymen, and when their report is published it will undoubtedly be received with due weight by a large section of Scottish people who contemplate emigrating. It is about time that the Commonwealth Government realised its responsibilities, and that the State Governments awoke to the fact that what they are now doing is but a tithe of what they should do in the way of attracting desirable settlers Australia-wards.

PICTURES AND PRUDERY.

The Minister for Education is probably right in his suggestion of the need of some supervision of the picture show. It is to be hoped, however, that reasonable counsel will be at his service in the matter. At present somewhat extravagant ideas are abroad concerning what is, after all, a harmless entertainment. The basis of sound objection to the picture show is really very slight. We have ourselves urged that the exploits of bushrangers and their kind should be consigned to that oblivion which they so well deserve. For the bushranger was essentially a ruffian. He has not, and never had, any more claim to perpetuation in history than any of the thousands of unhonoured desperadoes of the American backwoods, who, defying the law, were ruthlessly silenced by it. As an Australian type, he is worthless to a people grown beyond the semi-savage stage which he represents. He is especially baleful as an object of study by the children. For ever imitative, and for ever in search of material for that inexhaustible sportiveness of imagination which is his dower, the child instinctively builds upon the material at his hand. Nothing is so poor as to be without its suggestion for the properly-balanced child mind, and there is no suggestion but sets him to the task of mentally doing what he sees done. A picture of bushranger exploits is thus of so little service as to offer the child mind fictitious values. Whether he imitate those exploits or no, they are of no use to him, even as entertainment. The bushranger picture, therefore, should be firmly excluded from any essentially childish entertainment.

But we are afraid that altogether too much is being made of the picture show as a deteriorating influence upon the young mind. Apart from the bushrangers and their fellows—who by the way are not confined to picture shows, but have been glorified, to much popular applause, in Australian fiction and Australian drama—the entertainment which has developed from cinematograph photography has its rights. It supplies a need. It occupies the place of a theatre where theatre provision is impossible, and it meets half-way the scruples of many people opposed to the theatre on principle. It has opened up to a vast public possibilities of innocent amusement, the need for which was such as is evidenced to-day in the world-wide spread of the picture entertainment. It is easy, of course, for promoters to spoil any form of entertainment by bad taste, or by undue attention to the low instincts of a section of the public. But there is no evidence at all before us to suggest that that offence against the community is either the exclusive or even the customary function of the picture show as we know it. Those same offences are by no means unfamiliar portents of our theatre, for example, but they are forgotten in the general. They are undoubtedly to be met with in some picture shows; but there is no warrant on that account for a virtuous crusade against picture shows as a whole. The harrowing charges made by the State Children's Relief Department leave us cold, we confess. That children would be better at home and in bed, than up and about late at night, is obvious. Further, that individual and already reprobate children should get into mischief after visiting a picture show, is as reasonable as if they got into mischief after visiting a theatre. But we really must take leave to question the gloomy forecast of Mr. Green as presented to the Minister. In that is to be visioned wholesale escapades by the children—stopping out at nights, money stealing (for picture-show admission purposes), and housebreaking (as a result of picture-show pictures). This is really to over-estimate the influence of any form of entertainment. All that is required in regard to the picture theatre is a little official supervision, and as little as possible, say some scrutiny of films by a sensible man in the Inspector-General's office, and some supervision of exits and entrances in case of fire. Otherwise, the picture show should be left to its function of providing cheap, wholesome, and even educating amusement for the large public available to it.

THE CRICKET SEASON.

With the grade matches of Saturday last the cricket season of 1910-11 may be said to have ended. There are obvious disadvantages in playing cricket in a failing light, but this year did not witness the dramatic episodes that characterised the close of last year's competition matches when the deciding games were conducted in something dimmer than twilight. In reviewing the season's cricket one cannot but be struck with the fact that the game has been brighter and better than ever. How far the visit of the South Africans had inspiration for our players is a matter of conjecture, but that the crowd was interested, and that the cricket pulse of the public was quickened, is beyond doubt. The attendance at the last test match in Sydney, when there was no longer any question of "ashes" or "rubbers," was a sufficient proof that not only were the visitors deserving of compliment, but that the game itself had received an uplift. Whilst it is, of course, acknowledged that what are called first grade electoral matches represent the standard of the game as it is expounded by our leading players, there is a vast amount of cricket played that never comes into the limelight, and experts are of opinion that, taking it all round, our summer pastime has reached a general excellency never in evidence heretofore. More satisfactory still is the fact that the spirit of the game remains untainted by any of those influences which have a tendency to spoil true sportsmanship.

With regard to the performances of clubs and players, it may be remarked that Gordon owes its position as premier to the merit of individual players. Two such redoubtable champions as Trumper and Macartney, backed up by so notable a veteran as Frank Iredale, are quite enough to make a side formidable. This is strongly in evidence in the list of club averages. With practically only two bowlers and half a dozen batsmen, Gordon has performed exceedingly well, and is entitled to its victory. Other features of the past season have been what one might phrase as the "coming of Hordern" and the "return of Noble." Australia's former captain heads the list of averages; whilst Australia's new bowler has already made a name for himself of international import. Taking a general survey of the achievements of first grade cricketers, it is interesting to note that there were thirty-one batsmen who made centuries, six of these made aggregates of over 500 runs, and a dozen of them secured averages of 50 or more. There have been some close and exciting finishes when the fate of a club as regards its victory and indeed its place in the competition has depended upon a single stroke, and there have been occasions when for some unaccountable reason strong batting sides have utterly collapsed before an average bowling attack. Such is, however, the glorious uncertainty of cricket that the unexpected happens with sufficient frequency to keep up the interest throughout a long season. New South Wales leads the van of Australian cricket, having won back the Sheffield Shield, and if the supply of superior players can be kept up there is no reason why this State should not remain in the van for years to come. At any rate, last season's play appears to indicate no falling off in any department of the game.

The "Sydney Mail."—Queensland figures prominently in this week's "Sydney Mail." The fruit industry in the northern State is the subject of an attractive page, the fruits illustrated including strawberries, pawpaws, pineapples, grapes, bananas, pippin apples, and oranges. The "double page" is devoted to illustrations of Rockhampton, where a week's carnival is to be held next month. Dairying in the Calliope Valley, in the Gladstone district, forms the subject of another interesting set of pictures. A valuable illustrated article on "The Best Sleeper in the World" contains a great deal of information respecting Australian hardwoods, the lasting qualities of which surpass those of any other timber known. The personal page, in addition to a number of portraits (including their Majesties the King and Queen, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, General Botha, Sir Joseph Ward, and Mr. Fisher) contains an informing sketch respecting "Motherland and Daughters." "Outdoor Australia" is, as usual, entertaining. Sporting matters are given a good deal of attention. There are some fine snapshots of the play in the tennis championships, and the final round of the metropolitan cricket competitions and the bowling championship are pictorially dealt with. Music-lovers will be interested in the portraits of the principal soloists of the Sheffield Choir, soon to be welcomed in Sydney. The eclipse of the sun is illustrated, and there are a couple of fine pictures of Lake Cudgellico. A couple of pages are devoted to the Bathurst show. Bengalla Estate, Muswellbrook, is illustrated; and among many other pictures are illustrations of the recent aero and motor exhibition in London, the Duke of York's schools, where the colonial Coronation troops are to be located, and the Russian monk Iliodor, whose name has been prominent in the cables lately.

The State Session.—Parliament has been further prorogued until the 16th instant, when it will meet for the despatch of business. A lengthy programme was outlined in Mr. Holman's policy speech, at Cootamundra, and Ministers are hopeful of getting a substantial portion of it through by the end of November. It is proposed to meet on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, at 2.30 p.m.

Coronation Day.—The Government has varied its original scheme for the entertainment of school children on Coronation Day. It has been found necessary to cut out the spectacular display provisionally arranged by the Public Schools Amateur Athletic Association, and in lieu thereof something in the nature of a military tournament will be provided. Mr Holman mentioned last evening that 20,000 senior pupils, drawn from the Public schools and from denominational and private schools, will be entertained. The Agricultural Show Ground had been selected as the most convenient site. The authorities of the Roman Catholic schools had entered into the project with great cordiality, and warmly approved the idea of making the celebration a children's festival. The general scheme for the observance of Coronation Day includes the illumination of all public buildings, and in this the Government has the co-operation of the Lord Mayor.

City Resumptions and Improvements.—Previous to the Wentworth-avenue resumption sale on Monday last the Lord Mayor was asked by the tramway authorities to withdraw two lots in order to enable a double tram track to be considered in place of the single one now existing. The Lord Mayor, in a minute to the works committee yesterday, said the Chief Commissioner had agreed to pay the council £2875 compensation for the land required, it being understood that such land need not be transferred, but simply utilised. A certain amount of the land resumed by the Public Works Department at the intersection of Hunt and Campbell streets for roadway purposes will be used by the Chief Commissioner for roadway purposes. The council will be asked at its next meeting to agree to the arrangement. In the Flinders-street widening scheme the council will be asked to agree to the Lord Mayor's original plan, with a proviso that the demolition of the buildings in the area shall not take place for five years. The committee decided to recommend the council to adopt the Lord Mayor's Pyrmont Bridge-road and Bayswater-road proposals. The council will be asked at an early date to consider the advisability of making a tunnel from Dowling-street to Rushcutter Bay, the levels of which are said to be workable.

Medical Men Against War.—We have received from Paris a pamphlet explaining the objects of the International Medical Association Against War, and containing the speech of the president, Dr. Riviere (Chevalier of the Legion of Honour), at the last annual general meeting of the association on March 21. In his address the president said: "Reform can be achieved by starting from two extreme points, namely, by reforming education from the cradle in order to suppress what remains with us of the barbarous teaching of the past; and by giving immediately to humanity the necessary institution for the solution of international conflicts. This institution should not emanate from Governments, but from corporations (public bodies) of the different States. Arbitration is a step of great value. Compulsory arbitration is a necessity. Tribunals, in which the interests of public bodies and those of individuals are equally counterbalanced, would constitute the safeguards of the nations and of humanity." Another document explains the scheme as follows:—"Each profession, each corporation of a country should have a proportionate representation in this high tribunal, which would take the title of International Tribunal. Above this tribunal a supreme jurisdiction would receive the name of Humanitarian Tribunal. The members of the first, which would represent each corporation and each profession, would be directly elected by the bodies they represent. The members composing the second would be directly elected by the citizens of each country. The sanction of these two sovereign tribunals would not be more difficult to apply than that of ordinary tribunals; an international police would replace the national police. The moral sanction which would result from the verdict of the Humanitarian Tribunal would of itself be sufficient. There is, however, a palliative, which, from this on, should be the duty of the tribunal already constituted at the Hague, to apply: The prohibition of certain murderous arms, which the nations make use of at present with refined cruelty, and the control of the manufacture of all instruments of destruction.

Workmen's Dwellings.—The Lord Mayor, accompanied by his officers and the aldermen for the ward, will make an inspection of the Chippendale area on Monday afternoon next, with a view to setting apart a portion of the area on which to erect workmen's dwellings.

Age Understated.—The Commonwealth Statistician, knowing the weakness of women for taking a year or two off their age, caused the age stated on a number of census cards to be checked by a reference to birth registers, and found that in many instances they did not tally. The average amount of misstatement was found to be eight years. All persons who have been discovered so far have been written to, pointing out the misstatement, and that they are liable to a penalty of £50. Mr. Knibbs states that it has clearly become necessary to ascertain how far this practice has been common, and he advises all persons who have misstated their age to forward their correct ages to him in Melbourne without delay, in order to avoid the penalties prescribed by the Act.

French Scientist's Discovery.—Dr. J. M. Creed, M.L.C. (president of the Cremation Society) has received a letter from the Minister for Foreign Affairs in France, stating that Dr. Icard, of Marseilles, has discovered a preparation which, when injected into a living body, colours the skin, but leaves no trace when injected into a dead body. Hitherto, with the exception of the mortification of tissue, no conclusive proof that death has occurred has been in existence. By means of Dr. Icard's discovery, it is stated, a doctor can make quite sure that death has taken place. This preparation is now used in the various crematoriums in Europe before incineration. Dr. Icard has been awarded the French Academy's gold medal. At last night's meeting of the Cremation Society the following letter from the Minister for Works (Mr. Griffith) was read:—"Personally, I should much rather be reduced to two handfuls of brown earth, stored in an urn of brass, than that my body should be reduced to the state so gruesomely and graphically described by Shakespeare, 'to lie in dull obstruction, and to rot.'" It was also announced that the Sydney Labour Council had decided to affirm the principle of cremation.

Pure Milk.—A short time ago attention was drawn by the president of the Board of Health to two serious defects in connection with the milk supply. One was the habit of some purveyors to leave their milk measures exposed to dust and dirt; the other was the practice of carrying milk in uncovered vessels from the milk cart to the customers' doors. Dr. Ashburton Thompson stated yesterday that the advisory committee under the Pure Food Act was determined that purveyors of milk must have more regard for the interests of their customers, and must alter these methods of trading. Several prosecutions had been lately undertaken. It appeared, however, that to protect effectually the milk from contamination, special milk measures must be used, and in order that vendors might have time to provide themselves with these measures it had been decided that no further prosecutions should be instituted until July 15.

"Who is Joe?"—A man named "Joe" figured in a case in the Quarter Sessions yesterday before Judge Backhouse, and his identity was shrouded in mystery. An accused, charged with stealing, or in the alternative with feloniously receiving, a kit of carpenter's tools, said that "a man named Joe" gave them to him to pawn. He did not know the man who thus entrusted him with what proved to be stolen booty any more than that his name was "Joe." The police had accompanied the accused to a street where he said he had an appointment to meet "Joe" to hand over the proceeds, but "Joe" failed to appear. After the accused had given a long rigmarole about the instructions he received from "Joe" as to disposing of the tools, the Crown Prosecutor, in tones bordering on despair, asked him, "But who is Joe?" "We have heard what he says," remarked his Honor, with a smile, "and all he can tell us is that Joe is Joe." (Loud laughter.)

An Overdue Steamer.—The arrival at Watson's Bay late last night of the steamer Belle of Ireland, from Valparaiso, gave rise to some anxiety as to the whereabouts of the steamer Ilford, which was due a week ago from the same port. The Ilford, a vessel of 4266 tons, in command of Captain Thorpe, left a week before the Belle of Ireland, and Captain Kidd, of the latter vessel, reported, upon dropping anchor, that he saw no sign of the other vessel during any part of his journey. His vessel (in ballast), however, made a smart run, despite unfavourable weather conditions, covering the distance in 32 days 12 hours. The Ilford is coming forward to the agency of Messrs. Gibbs, Bright, and Co.

With reference to certain police court proceedings reported in the "Herald" on April 28, under the heading of "After the Wedding—A Guest's Escapade," we have been requested to state that the person referred to in the case was not a guest at the wedding, and that the incident mentioned occurred some hours after the ceremony.

PERSONAL.

The Archbishop of Sydney, Dr. Wright, yesterday paid an official call on his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir William Cullen.

The Acting Premier on Monday last called at the German Consulate-General to return the official calls of the Consul-General and the commander of S.M.S. Thanet.

Commander N. Shirase, of the Japanese Antarctic exploring party, paid a formal visit yesterday to the Japanese Consul, Mr. M. Saito.

Judge Murray, Lieutenant-Governor of Papua, who has been on furlough for seven months, paid a visit yesterday to the Acting Minister for External Affairs, Senator Findlay. Judge Murray will return to New Guinea in about a month. The Parliamentary party will leave Sydney on May 30, and he will join it at Brisbane. He will resume his duties as Lieutenant-Governor on his arrival at Port Moresby.

Mr. Beeby, Minister for Education, left last evening for Dubbo and Wellington, on business connected with his department. To-morrow Mr. Beeby will visit Orange to open the agricultural show. He returns to Sydney on Friday.

Mr. G. Whitfeld has been appointed assistant Under-Secretary, and Mr. D. R. Jamieson as chief clerk in the Department of Justice.

The Rev. Arthur Taylor, M.A., one of the general secretaries of the British and Foreign Bible Society, will visit Australia from England this year. Mr. Taylor, who is expected to arrive about August, will tour the States in advocacy of the claims of the society.

Mr. Charles Low was presented yesterday by the delegates to the Federated Licensed Victuallers' Association with a gold sovereign purse, in appreciation of his services in the interests of the liquor trade.

Mr. P. F. Rainsford, manager of the Newcastle branch of the Queensland Insurance Company, who has been granted six months' leave of absence, will sail on Saturday next by the R.M.S. Mooltan on a trip to Europe. Prior to leaving Newcastle Mr. Rainsford was banqueted by a number of his friends.

Mr. Joel Eade, architect, who was the founder of technical education in Victoria, died yesterday at Collingwood, Victoria, aged 88 years.

Mr. R. A. O'Keefe, secretary to the Minister for Lands, has been appointed to the commission of the peace.

AN EARLY COLONIST.

LATE MR. J. F. PLUNKETT.

ROMANTIC CAREER.

An interesting character of Australia's early history passed away with the death on Monday of Mr. James Francis Plunkett, at Neutral Bay. He was born in 1825 at Roscommon, Ireland, and came out to Australia in 1841. He went to California among the first when the gold rush broke out; was wrecked at the Fiji Islands on the way back to Sydney; and afterwards had some experience of the stirring bushranging days. He was a squatter in prosperous times that followed his settling down in New South Wales, being owner of Birrawa station, on the Talbragar. Newspaper proprietorship also formed part of his career, the "People's Advocate" and the Mudgee "Advertiser" being owned by him. Later he was, in the ups and downs of colonial life, in Sydney as an officer of the Children's Protection Society.

Mr. Plunkett was one of the earliest batch of Justices of the Peace in New South Wales. He voted at the first election held under responsible government, and also at the last occasion upon which the people were called to the poll—the referendum of a few days ago. He and Sir John Lackey wheeled the first barrow-load at the commencement of the first railway in the colony. Mr. Plunkett was always known as an orator and a scholar. He used to say that he had read the "Sydney Morning Herald" every issue from 1841, and his faculties still remained unimpaired enough to enable him to read it till within a few days of his death. His mother was a member of the Walpole family. His grandmother was one of the beautiful Misses Gunning, whose portraits are historical. His grandfather, Colonel James Plunkett, was compelled to reside out of his native country on account of his having taken an active part in the rebellion of 1798. He lived in England for many years, but was ultimately permitted to return to Ireland, where he died. An interesting relic is preserved in a letter to Colonel Plunkett, dated from Shelton Hall, Wolverhampton, in May, 1825, in which Lord Lorton, an old acquaintance of the colonel, intimates that he has secured the desired permit.

Among Mr. Plunkett's papers is a quaint diary of his experiences on the occasion of his being shipwrecked. When he went to California, what is now the city of San Francisco was nothing but some tents on the sandhills. Whether he returned with any considerable quantity of Californian gold the diary does not say. He sailed from San Francisco in the brig Lady Howden, and in the early hours of Wednesday, May 22, the vessel struck on an uncharted reef in the Fiji group, and became a wreck. When day broke the vessel's crew found they were high and dry on the reef some miles from land. The diary recounts that the long-boat and the cutter were lowered on to the reef, and after several hours' exertion they were carried and pulled over it into deep water. It was then discovered that still another barrier of coral lay between the shipwrecked sailors and the island they were making for. Little was known of the Fijians in those times, and the sight of some natives did not inspire the men with any feelings of security. "I was a landsman," wrote the castaway, "and the shore had charms for me. I was stripped for a swim, and felt a strong inclination to attempt it, when we descried natives at some distance coming towards us. . . . Hoisting the Union Jack (the glorious banner of the brave) we could not refrain even then from giving a cheer as it fluttered in the breeze. It seemed to have a good effect, for the natives, carrying a canoe, through the surf, they launched it clear of the reef, and pulled to us."

The natives apparently surprised the castaways by shaking hands with them all round. They were then piloted through a passage in the reef, and taken into a basin containing several beautiful bays, each bay studded with small islands "decked with blossoming shrubs." Getting ashore they were somewhat astonished to be greeted with a "How do you do, sir?" and they then learned that some 70 miles distant was a mission station. The natives were all Wesleyans.

After staying with them a week, Mr. Plunkett and a sailor left with some natives for the mission in a canoe. On the way a couple of nights and a Sunday were spent on an island with another community of the brown people—all converts. He attended their church service.

Mr. Plunkett proceeded on his way next day, and, receiving a kind reception at the hands of the missionaries, sent assistance to his comrades.

It was on Mr. Plunkett's station at Talbragar that one of the bushranging tragedies of 1865 took place. The bushranger in this case happened to be a Chinese named Sam Poo, the only one of that nationality in Australian history. One morning Sam Poo disappeared from his camp near Mudgee, where he had been a digger, and reports followed that a Chinaman was bailing up solitary travellers on the Mudgee-Talbragar-road. Mounted-constable Ward, of Coonabarabran, was brought to the ground by the desperado's gun as he tried to arrest him. Policeman and bushranger exchanged shots. The officer was badly wounded, and the bushranger rode off. Mr. Plunkett, on his way to an adjoining station, found the wounded constable, and conveyed him to his homestead, where he died. The bushranger was afterwards caught and hanged.

Mr. Plunkett has six children living. Most of them are in England and Africa. Mrs. Marks, of Neutral Bay, is a daughter.

DEATH OF MR. W. F. BUCHANAN.

Mr. W. F. Buchanan, of Killarney, Narrabri, died at his son's residence, Mosman, at midnight, of Tuesday, aged 89 years. The deceased gentleman arrived in New South Wales 75 years ago. He left a son (Mr. W. Buchanan) and four daughters.

PENNY POST.

CONGRATULATORY MESSAGES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Postmaster-General (Mr. Thomas) sent the following cablegram to Mr. Herbert Samuel, British Postmaster-General on Monday:—"Pleased that to-day Australia has penny post with motherland. Trust it will tend to draw closer the bonds of kinship."

Mr. Samuel has replied as follows:—"Accept cordial congratulations on establishing penny postage to-day. British public opinion rejoices at this fresh link between the peoples of the motherland and the great Australian Commonwealth."

Sir Joseph Ward cabled, "Hearty congratulations Australia introduction penny postage to-day. Completes another link in chain of Imperial unity. May its general introduction throughout the world quickly follow."

Mr. Thomas replied, "Thanks for congratulations; heartily join you in hope that adoption penny postage throughout world may be speedily accomplished."

LETTER CARDS COST TWOPENCE.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

Members of the general public who have applied at the post-office for letter cards have been surprised to find that twopence is demanded for payment.

One customer, on remarking that he thought penny postage came into operation on Monday, received the reply that that was so, but no penny letter cards had yet been received from the printer.

MILITARY AVIATION.

LIGHT HORSE CAMP.

ADVANCE AND RECONNAISANCE WORK.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

LIVERPOOL, Tuesday.

Hammond's proposed flight over the camp lines was the chief topic of conversation amongst the senior staff and regimental officers to-day. An aviation test is a thing which has been much talked about in military circles lately, but up to the present no genuine opportunity has been afforded our local military authorities of witnessing such a feat, and certainly very few officers in the Commonwealth, comparatively speaking, have even seen an aeroplane flight. Mr. Hammond is expected to fly from Sydney to Liverpool in his Bristol Biplane. Granted favourable conditions he will arrive in Liverpool at about 7.30 in the morning, and will alight at the southern end of the camp lines. He will be accompanied on his journey by a military officer, who it is understood will furnish a confidential report to district headquarters later on. The flight will be made at an average height of about 1500 feet, but when within a few miles of Liverpool the aviator will ascend a further thousand feet, and then make a bee line for the camp. Arrangements have been made by the district commandant, whereby every soldier undergoing training will be given an opportunity of inspecting the machine, and seeing it in full flight. A test will be made shortly after noon from the staff lines, and in the ascent from this point, the aviator will be accompanied by Lieutenant-Colonel Antill, C.B., D.A.Q.M.G.

OFFICERS' AERIAL EXPERIENCE.

In the course of an interview on the subject an officer who has had the good fortune to accompany an aviator on one of his trips in the old country, stated to-day that a peculiar feature of aeroplaning was the difficulty experienced during the first flight of the novice in judging distances and the lay of the land. This difficulty was gradually overcome as the aviator became accustomed to going aloft, but to judge distances, even fairly accurately was a task that only an experienced man would take upon himself. The reasons why the difficulty existed were—firstly, because from a great height there was absolutely no sense of perspective, or if it existed at all it was all out of proportion; and secondly, it was well nigh impossible for the aviator to accurately gauge the various gradients met with. During a trip along the roads perspective and the existence of gradients were after all the main factors taken into consideration by an officer whose duty it is to judge distances, and when both were taken away from him his difficulty could be readily imagined.

"As an instance of what I mean," the officer continued, "I will refer to one of my own experiences. We were travelling from one point to another, about 12 miles distant. From the height at which we were flying both points seemed to be almost directly below us, and, comparatively speaking, not more than a few hundred yards apart, and though we were travelling at a high rate of speed towards the second point, and were experiencing the sensation of rapid motion, still we seemed to be making no progress whatever."

PROTECTION ON THE MARCH.

To-day's work in camp was of an unexciting nature. It comprised a couple of minor schemes in which each regiment was exercised in protection on the line of march, and protection at rest. The first A.L.H. (New South Wales Lancers) conducted their manoeuvres along the Moore Bank-avenue, and across the country in the direction of Eckersley. In the case of this regiment the four squadrons were exercised separately from the first squadron. It was supposed that an enemy was marching upon Eckersley to destroy the railway bridge over the Bunbury Curran Creek, and that its advance scouts were seen at George's River ford, one mile east of Glenfield. No. 2 squadron was set the task of acting as an advanced guard of a Light Horse regiment moving from Eckersley to raid the town of Liverpool. No. 3 squadron was ordered out as the advanced guard of a regiment moving from Eckersley to destroy the railway viaduct near Glenfield, and No. 4 squadron as the advance guard of a mixed force moving towards Eckersley. The second A.L.H. Regiment was exercised in work of a similar nature, and small tactical schemes on the same lines were set each of the squadrons. In the case of this regiment the country operated over was in the vicinity of Holdsworthy trig, and complete trig stations. The third A.L.H. Regiment went through their advanced guard practice by squadrons in the vicinity of Horton Park and along the Great Southern road. During the exercises special attention was paid to march discipline, the maintenance of correct distances, and the writing of messages and transmission of information. In every case the work was carried out satisfactorily, and though the tasks set were comparatively simple, they were only intended as practice for the more serious work, which is to follow later on.

A MODEL CAMP.

No brigade, either of Light Horse or Infantry, has given so much satisfaction to the D.A.Q.M.G. in the way it settled down to camp life and straightened up its lines. "In fact," said Colonel Antill, "you could eat your dinner comfortably off any portion of the ground," and Colonel Antill is a keen critic, with the reputation of bestowing his favours in the way of favourable comment very sparingly. The interior economy of the camp is also exceptionally good, while the quality of the rations and forage has been generally praised.

THE EDUCATION ACT.

ORANGEMEN'S PROTEST.

SPEECH BY MR. VARNEY PARKES.

At a meeting of the Protestant societies of Leichhardt, Annandale, and district, held in the Leichhardt Town Hall last night, Mr. H. E. Gill presided over a fair attendance, the majority of those present being members of the Orange body.

The chairman, in introducing Mr. Varney Parkes, M.L.A., said the lodges represented at the meeting wished to arouse the citizens to the danger of the present education system being upset. Protestants were going to be smothered, Cardinal Moran had threatened. (Cheers.)

Mr. Parkes said it was their duty to maintain at all hazards the education system they at present possessed. There were three great principles for which they stood as a political body. First the maintenance and extension of the British Empire, secondly the deep and intense democracy, which meant a democratic education system, and thirdly the immigration of people who would be true to the British Empire. The Protestant body did not stand for intolerance or oppression. The object of the Public school system was that the children of all sections of the community should sit side by side and receive, in addition to the education provided, those principles which meant love and respect for one another, and for the Empire to which they belonged. Cardinal Moran had made statements in regard to this matter which could not be substantiated; yet he refused to make acknowledgment. The present Minister for Education proposed that Roman Catholic schools should be registered, and he had said that he could not grapple with the truancy question without inspection. But if these schools were going to be registered by the Department of Public Instruction, it would mean that they would become part and parcel of that system, and in that case the whole essence of the Act would be dissipated. Competition for bursaries between State and denominational schools would cause ill-feeling and bigotry, which was hostile to their idea of democracy. The next demand would be for a Government subsidy to meet the expenses of a system of Government inspection. The Parliament which gave away the right of inspection might as well go the whole hog.

The following resolution was carried unanimously:—"That this meeting of Protestant citizens of Leichhardt, Annandale, and district views with alarm the evident intention of the Minister of Education to alter our educational system, and earnestly prays that he will take a firm stand in maintaining the system, which is based upon the principles of freedom to all, irrespective of creed."

AUSTRALIA'S ARMY.

REGISTRATION OF TRAINEES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Considerable progress has been made in the medical examination of boys between 14 and 18 years of age registered in the Commonwealth under the universal military service scheme. Of the total number (152,333) registered, 82,900 have been medically examined, and 77,800 found fit. The percentage is 93.8. The total exemptions given on grounds of unfitness were about 5000, and exemptions have been granted to some 2300 more on account of the distance of their residences from the training centres. The number remaining to be medically examined is 46,000.

UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN.

THE PEACE CONVENTION.

SIGNED WITHIN A FORTNIGHT.

LONDON, May 2.

The "Daily Telegraph" reports that the Peace Convention between Britain and the United States will probably be signed within a fortnight.

The paper states that the Convention includes an arrangement whereby a special agreement will be made in each case wherein the disputed matters will be clearly defined.

Britain reserves the right, before concluding a special agreement affecting the vital interests of a self-governing Dominion, to obtain the concurrence of the Government of that Dominion.

THE ANTARCTIC.

DR. MAWSON'S EXPEDITION.

PURCHASE OF DOGS.

LONDON, May 1.

The Danish Government is purchasing 30 Greenland dogs on behalf of Dr. Mawson, for his expedition to the Antarctic.

The dogs will be sent direct to Australia.

Dr. Mawson will take an aeroplane, selected by Mr. Graham White, who is also arranging the details.

THE GERMAN EXPEDITION.

HAMBURG, May 2.

Prince Henry of Prussia yesterday inspected Lieutenant Filchner's exploring ship, the Deutschland, and her equipment.

The expedition, which will take supplies for three years and a half, will sail for Buenos Ayres on May 7.

THE SCOTT EXPEDITION.

SOUTH AFRICAN CONTRIBUTIONS.

PRETORIA, May 2.

Including the grant by the Union Government, South Africa has subscribed £1274 towards the expenses of Captain Scott's Antarctic expedition.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER'S POSITION.

OTTAWA, May 2.

At a Liberal caucus meeting yesterday, the offer of the Opposition to vote supply in order to allow Sir Wilfrid Laurier to attend the Imperial Conference was debated.

The caucus was sharply divided on the matter, and the meeting concluded without any decision having been arrived at.

ANGLO-GERMAN FRIENDSHIP.

SOCIETY FORMED.

LONDON, May 1.

An Anglo-German Friendship Society has been formed, with the Duke of Argyll as president.

Sir George Reid (High Commissioner for Australia) was present at the inaugural meeting.

He said that he sympathised with the movement, and hoped to see a solid agreement arrived at to arrest the growth of armaments.

THE HOUNDSDITCH MURDERS.

ACCUSED ON TRIAL.

LONDON, May 1.

At the Old Bailey, to-day, the charge against Peters and Dubof, who were charged with constructive murder in connection with the shooting of three constables at Houndsditch in December last, was withdrawn on the suggestion of Mr. Justice Grantham, and the charge of being accessories was substituted.

Rosen and the other three accused were charged with conspiring to enter a jeweller's shop with intent to commit a felony.

A MORMON PRESIDENT.

CHARGES AND DENIALS.

LONDON, May 1.

Joseph Smith, one of the Mormon presidents, denies the charges of loose living that have been levelled against the Mormons.

He also denies polygamy, and invites the fullest investigation.

The "Utah Times" shows that Smith was fined in 1906 for unlawful cohabitation, and alleges that he confessed to a committee of the United States Senate to having five wives.

THE WORCESTER CASE.

MRS. WILESMITH SENTENCED.

LONDON, May 2.

Mrs. Wilesmith, of Worcester, who with her bailiff and her son, were arrested on a charge of cruelly ill-treating a little servant girl, has been sentenced to two years' imprisonment with hard labour.

The bailiff has received a similar sentence, and the son has been bound over under the provisions of the First Offenders Act.

NAVAL ORDNANCE.

A COMPARISON.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 2.

The artillery commission, which recently visited England, France, and Germany, have unanimously reported that the naval guns of the Armstrong-Vickers system are immeasurably superior to those produced on the Continent.

A DISASTROUS FIRE.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS.

BANGOR (Maine), May 1.

A fire occured in this city last night, causing damage to the extent of 1,000,000 dollars (£200,000).

Two people are known to have been killed and several firemen are missing.

Fifty people were injured, and thousands are homeless.

AERONAUTICS.

A DOUBLE FATALITY.

SEVASTOPOL, May 2.

A military airman, Matievitch, and his brother, were flung from a Bleriot monoplane here yesterday, and both were killed.

THE VETO BILL.

CLAUSE 2 PASSED.

A MATTER OF BOGUS SESSIONS.

LONDON, May 2.

In the House of Commons last night the Government were able by means of the "kangaroo closure" to dispose of all the amendments to clause 2 of the Parliament (House of Lords' Veto) Bill.

Mr. Asquith agreed to an amendment providing that the two years that had to elapse prior to the passage of a bill over the head of the House of Lords should date from the second reading of the bill, and not from its introduction.

The Government refused to accept an amendment ensuring that sessions should be of ordinary length, and not bogus sessions, simply to evade the Parliament (House of Lords' Veto) Bill.

REVOLT IN CHINA.

FIGHTING NEAR CANTON.

SERIOUS SITUATION.

PEKING, May 1.

It is reported that revolutionaries have captured Wu-chau-fu, on the West River, and Samshui (25 miles west of Canton), and Wee-chou, on the East River.

It is stated that a Chinese gunboat shelled the rebels at Fatshan, 9 miles south-west of Canton, on one of the arms of the West River, killing 200.

The train service on the Canton-Kowloon Railway has been suspended.

Arrangements have been made to send the womenfolk belonging to European employees on the railway to Hongkong.

Mr. Tong Chai Chih, editor of the "Tung Wah Times," is in receipt of advices from Canton concerning the present revolutionary outbreak in China. For some time past there has been growing uneasiness in China owing to the activity of the revolutionary party. Certain viceroys had been informed that Sun Wen, alias Sun Yat Sen, and Liang Chai Chao, chief and second of the revolutionary party respectively, had been gathering all the rascals of the different districts, and had formed a society called the Tien Ling (Heavenly Dragon), and had sent them through the various provinces with the object of inciting the people to join them in raising a rebellion early in the summer. The Chinese Investigation Department had forwarded the names and descriptions of suspected persons, with instructions for their arrest, to the provincial magistrates, but it is now apparent that many have eluded the authorities. Mr. Tong Chai Chih stated that the object of the revolutionary party is to sweep away the present Manchu dynasty and replace the Chinese, and that the revolutionaries aim at abolishing all constitutional government under the guidance of the Manchus. "My party," said Mr. Tong Chai Chih, "regrets the present turmoil. Everything, from our standpoint, was full of promise, having now provincial Parliaments and the promise of a National Assembly in 1913. So long as the present dynasty concedes to the people the right to discuss the affairs of the nation in open parliament the reform party of China will remain loyal."

FESTIVAL OF EMPIRE.

A TABLEAU OMITTED.

AMERICAN SUSCEPTIBILITIES.

OTTAWA, May 2.

The omission of the tableau representing the battle of Chateauguay from the Canadian portion of the Empire display in connection with the Festival of Empire, because of the fear of offending American susceptibilities, was referred to in the House of Commons last night.

Several members complained that the Americans did not usually consider others in their celebrations.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier explained that he was powerless in the matter.

The battle of Chateauguay was fought in 1813, during the Second American War, between the United States troops, 7000 strong, under General Hampton, and a force of Canadian militia, far inferior in numbers, who were strongly posted near Chateauguay, 16 miles south-west of Montreal. The Americans attempted to storm the Canadian lines, but the Canadians made a most gallant defence, and repulsed them with heavy loss.

THE WAIHI MINE.

"ENORMOUS POTENTIALITIES."

LONDON, May 2.

The report of the directors of the Waihi Gold-mining Company, Limited, emphasises the fact that no ore bodies below the No. 9 level have been tested; nevertheless, though the mine has lost for the present that quality of stability which it was believed to possess, yet its potentialities are enormous.

The report states that 387 New Zealand shareholders, representing 33,600 shares, oppose the transfer of the board to New Zealand, and the directors do not believe that the British shareholders, who own 70 per cent. of the shares, desire that the control should be given to New Zealanders.

PENNY POSTAGE.

THE AUSTRALIAN INNOVATION.

LONDON, May 2.

In connection with the inauguration of Australian penny postage, the newspapers to-day "display" the congratulatory telegrams that have been exchanged between Mr. Josiah Thomas, Postmaster-General of the Commonwealth; Mr. H. L. Samuel, British Postmaster-General; and Sir Joseph Ward, Prime Minister and Postmaster-General of New Zealand.

LABOUR UNREST.

STRIKES IN THE UNITED STATES.

LOS ANGELES, May 1.

Five hundred carpenters are out on strike.

PITTSBURG, May 1.

Ten thousand railway shopmen went out on strike to-day.

TORONTO, May 1.

The bridge and structural iron workers struck work yesterday.

NEW YORK, May 1.

Nine thousand machinists are on strike.

HAVANA, May 1.

One thousand cartmen have gone on strike.

LAUNCH OF THE CONQUEROR.

LONDON, May 1.

H.M.S. Conqueror, a contingent Dreadnought, has been launched on the Clyde.

The battleship Conqueror is one of four "contingent ships" of the 1909-10 programme, known as the Orion class, the quartet being the Orion, the Conqueror, the Monarch, and the Thunderer. Few details of these vessels have been allowed to appear in the public press, but the following are believed to be correct in most particulars.—Length, 545ft, overall 584ft; beam, 88½ft; mean draught, 27½ft; displacement, 22,680 tons; i-h.p. turbines, 27,000; designed speed, 21 knots; armament, 10 13.5in and 20 or 24 4in guns; 3 21in torpedo-tubes. The Conqueror was laid down at Dalmuir on April 5, 1910, and should be completed in March, 1912.

EMIGRATION.

REFERENCE IN THE LORDS.

DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH'S SUGGESTION.

LONDON, May 2.

In the House of Lords last night, the Duke of Marlborough drew attention to a resolution that was passed at the Imperial Conference in 1907 in favour of encouraging emigration to the colonies rather than to foreign countries. He advocated child emigration on a comprehensive scale, and said that poor law and reformatory children would be welcomed in the Dominions.

Lord Lucas, Parliamentary Secretary to the Colonial Office, replied that it was not the policy of the Government, nor had the Dominions requested, that emigration should be subsidised by the State. If the Dominion representatives at the forthcoming conference made suggestions with a view to increasing emigration the Government would do everything possible to meet their wishes.

Lord Selborne said that his colonial experience had greatly impressed him with the lost opportunities of the Imperial Government respecting the organisation of emigration.

He added that, though it was useless to dump townsmen on the land, there were many who had not been country men in Britain simply because the rewards were insufficient, but were tempted by the greater rewards offering in the Dominions, and these were likely to make excellent settlers.

THE MAGISTRACY.

COMPLAINTS OF LIBERALS.

THE ADVISORY COMMITTEES.

LONDON, May 1.

The Premier, Mr. Asquith, speaking in the House of Commons, referred to the complaints made by Liberal members as to the appointment of a preponderance of magistrates holding Unionist views in certain localities.

He stated that Lord Loreburn had written declaring that appointments to the magistracy belonged exclusively to his office, and had added that as long as he remained Lord Chancellor he would adhere to the views he had expressed before the Royal Commission.

Mr. Asquith considered that until the country had a better opportunity of judging the working of the Advisory Committees it would be premature to give a day to discuss the question.

PARIS, May 2.

At the official banquet in connection with the Roubaix Exhibition last night the Mayor, M. Mott, who is the largest woolbuyer in France, said that Australia could teach France many lessons in regard to legislation. He added that Australia needed to advertise her resources in France.

Mr. H. C. Smart, who is in charge of the press and advertising branch of the High Commissioner's Office in London, was responsible for the Australian pavilion at the exhibition.

ALLEGED "GRAFT."

CANADIAN MINISTER CHARGED.

OTTAWA, May 2.

Accusations are appearing in the Opposition press charging the Minister for the Interior, Mr. Frank Oliver, with "graft" in connection with a railway land transaction.

Mr. Oliver has promised an explanation, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier is said to be in possession of the full facts of the case.

CHINESE CUSTOMS.

SIR ROBERT HART RESIGNS.

PEKING, May 2.

Sir Robert Hart has definitely resigned the position of Inspector-General of the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs.

Mr. F. A. Aglen, who has been Acting Inspector-General for some time, is to succeed Sir Robert Hart.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS.

REBELS ACTIVE IN COAHUILA.

EL PASO, May 2.

The rebels are active in the State of Coahuila.

The people of Monterey, in the neighbouring State of Nuevo Leon, are demanding the extension of the benefits of the armistice to their region.

LOS ANGELES OUTRAGE.

M'MANIGAL'S CONFESSION DENIED.

LOS ANGELES, May 2.

It is now denied that M'Manigal, one of the men who are accused of having wrecked the "Times" Office with dynamite, has turned State's evidence.

KISMET.

LONDON, May 2.

An expert cracksman entered the Garrick Theatre last night, opened the back of Mr. Oscar Asche's safe, and stole £400, the night's takings for the production of the play "Kismet." The thief got clear away.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND INVALIDITY.

MR. LLOYD-GEORGE'S BILL.

A coiner's plant worth £500 has been seized in Clapham.

RECIPROCITY.

"ONE PEOPLE ONE FLAG."

ANOTHER CONGRESS UTTERANCE.

WASHINGTON, May 2.

In the House of Representatives last night, during the debate on the Farmers' Free List Bill, Mr. M. Madden (Wisconsin) expressed the hope that some day Canada would be part of the United States—that there would be one people, one flag, and one Government. It would be better for all, he said, when such a time came to pass, if ever it did.

Speaking in the Senate last night, Senator W. J. Stone denounced what he alleged to be the unjust propaganda against reciprocity. He hoped that freer trade with Canada would result from the agreement, and declared that the United States people ought not to be alarmed at the stories of impending ruin.

Senator J. H. Gallinger declared that the United States had lost £2,000,000 in revenue without any adequate return.

CANADIAN CABINET DIVIDED.

OTTAWA, May 1.

It is reported that the reciprocity proposals have caused a cleavage in the Cabinet and may wreck the Liberal party.

MAY DAY IN PARIS.

DEMONSTRATIONS PROHIBITED.

CHARGED BY SOLDIERS.

PARIS, May 1.

The May Day demonstrators who were barred from entering the Place de la Concorde assembled in the Champs Elysees.

Cuirassiers charged the crowds, and several arrests were made, including a man who fired a revolver.

CASUALTIES TOTAL 118.

May 2.

The troops were not hidden on this occasion as in former years. Instead they patrolled the streets, and there were strong detachments in the squares. They overawed the 100,000 workmen who were holiday-making.

There were a number of minor disturbances, and in all 81 arrests were made. Thirteen policemen, 25 soldiers, and 80 civilians were injured.

THE WOOL TRADE.

LONDON, May 2.

The arrivals of wool total 366,500 bales. Of these, 203,500 bales have been forwarded direct to the manufacturers, and with those held over from the last sales, there are available for the next series 201,000 bales.

ENGLISH SCULLING CHAMPIONSHIP.

WON BY BARRY.

LONDON, May 1.

The race for the sculling championship of England, between E. Barry and W. Albany, was decided on the Thames this afternoon.

Barry won by six lengths, in 23m 2s.

It was a good race to Hammersmith Bridge, where Albany was leading by a couple of lengths, but Barry then pulled away and won easily.

The first record of a race for the sculling championship of England is in 1831, but from that year to 1876 the racing was not on well-defined conditions. The "Newcastle Chronicle" gave a cup in 1877, and proper conditions were drawn up, one being that three wins would secure the cup absolutely. John Higgins scored the required three wins in two years by beating R. W. Boyd twice and W. Elliott once. Then the "Sportsman" (London) gave a cup, which lasted from September, 1878, to April, 1882, when the late Edward Hanlan won it four consecutive times, beating W. Elliott, E. Trickett, E. Laycock, and R. W. Boyd, thus securing the cup. It is now in possession of the Canadian Government, Hanlan's trophies having been secured by the State. The "Sportsman" gave a second cup, to be won three times in two years. This was in June, 1882, and it has not yet passed out of the hands of the trustees. It has been held by John Largan, G. J. Perkins, G. Bubear, W. G. East, C. R. Harding, W. A. Barry, and E. Barry, English scullers; and by Wallace Ross and J. G. Gaudaur, Canadians, also by H. E. Searle, T. Sullivan, J. Stanbury, Neil Matterson, and George Towns, Australians. Towns and Harding won the cup twice, but could not get a third win in the two years. Monday's race between E. Barry and W. Albany was the first time two English-born scullers had competed for many years past.

Ernest Barry is 11st 10lb weight, 6ft in height, and is 29 years of age. He beat George Towns for the Championship of England and the "Sportsman" Cup in 1908, since when he has not rowed any races of consequence in England, but was beaten last year on the Zambesi by R. Arnst for the World's Championship and £1000. William Albany is rather shorter than Barry, but is 12st weight, and 24 years of age. He had not previously rowed a big race, but had shown considerable merit, and before this race he was favourite.

SUGGESTED ARNST-BARRY MATCH.

LONDON, May 2.

The "Sportsman" states that T. Sullivan is willing to back Arnst against Barry in a match for £500 a side, to be rowed on the Thames, if Barry allows Arnst £200 for expenses.

FAIR GIRLS, BEAUTIFUL FLORA.

MR BATCHELOR'S ADVERTISEMENT

OFFICIAL IMMIGRATION REPORT.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Acting Minister for External Affairs (Senator Findley) said to-day that if the Commonwealth were approached by the States to assist in procuring special accommodation for immigrants the matter would be considered by the Cabinet as one of policy.

Criticisms of Commonwealth advertising, which appeared on April 20, have caused the Minister to call for an official report on the subject. It appears from the report that the department disowns responsibility for the first seven pictures of the poster series, criticised on the ground that they were authorised by a Minister not now in office. Replying to the second phase of the criticism, that Mr. Batchelor had chosen an idyllic rather than a representative picture of Australian life, the report states that none of the representative designs was suitable for use, and Mr. Batchelor chose one which was at least truthful in showing that "Australia possessed fair girls and beautiful flora."

The report recapitulated the work that had been undertaken at Mr. Batchelor's instance, with a view of impressing upon the British public that accurate information could be obtained from accredited representatives of the Commonwealth in London. Weekly budgets were sent to the High Commissioner, comprising cuttings from the newspapers, and agricultural and other news supplied by the State authorities. During the past 10 months 30,000ft of biograph film had been exhibited at the principal agricultural shows in Great Britain by an Australian lecturer, and the pictures had also been shown at provincial centres. Ninety per cent. of the poster advertisements had been placed in rural centres. The Commonwealth was the only Government which manned its London office with an Australian staff. In August last Mr. Batchelor had authorised the publication of 30,000 copies of "Australia for Farmers," which was the first attempt to set before the British agriculturists the bare facts about farming conditions in the several States. Arrangements had been made to supply the High Commissioner with agricultural products for exhibition, and when the States hesitated about supplying them Mr. Batchelor had announced his intention of purchasing them rather than fail to supply the High Commissioner.

In conclusion, it was claimed that more efficient work had been done in the last 12 months than in the previous 10 years, and the proof of it was in the difficulty of obtaining accommodation for immigrants, the Agent-General of every State having had to charter special steamers.

HOW ELECTORATES VOTED.

SIGNIFICANT FIGURES.

LABOUR STRONGHOLDS CARRIED "NO."

The New South Wales figures to hand yesterday give a clear majority cast against the legislative powers amendment of 100,081.

The "No" vote was 231,657, and the "Yes" vote 131,576.

The State majority against the monopolies question is now 95,379, the total for "No" being 229,023, and for "Yes" 133,644. A considerable number of absent votes still remain to be counted.

Only five Federal electorates in New South Wales recorded a majority in favour of the referendum proposals, while 22 divisions declared against it. The five seats that were favourable to the Government proposals are represented by Labour members, but the 12 other Labour electorates were on the opposite side, as were the Hume and Eden-Bombala, represented by Sir William Lyne and Mr. A. Chapman, Independents. The eight divisions represented by Liberals were all solidly arrayed against the proposals.

The twelve Labour electorates that negatived the Government proposals were:—Calare (T. Brown), Cook (J. H. Catts), Dalley (R. Howe), East Sydney (J. E. West), Hunter (M. Charlton), Macquarie (E. S. Carr), Nepean (G. Cann), New England (F. J. Foster), Riverina (J. M. Chanter), Robertson (W. J. Johnson), Werriwa (R. D. Hall), and Gwydir (W. Webster).

BRISBANE'S GROUNDING.

MARINE COURT'S FINDING.

CAPTAIN'S CERTIFICATE SUSPENDED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Marine Court to-day gave its decision in connection with the grounding of the steamer Brisbane, which occurred in the vicinity of Red Point, New South Wales, on April 11 last. The Marine Board had preferred a charge of reckless and careless navigation, constituting a misconduct, against Captain James Hutton, master of the Brisbane.

The Court found that Captain Hutton attempted to navigate the Brisbane through the passage between Big Island and the mainland, instead of taking her through the recognised passage between Big Island and Tom Thumb Island. This course, in the opinion of the Court, was unwarranted, and constituted a gross act of reckless navigation on the part of the captain. The Court therefore suspended his certificate for six calendar months from April 11 last.

It was stated that Captain Hutton intended to apply to the Marine Board for a first mate's certificate, covering the period of suspension of his master's certificate.

The chairman said that the Court would recommend the board to grant the application.

FIRE BRIGADES' CONFERENCE.

PENSIONS FOR FIREMEN.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

At the fourth Interstate Fire Brigades' Conference, to-day, Captain Lynch (Vic.) read a paper on "The Utility of Demonstrations." Superintendent Hinton (Brisbane) gave some ideas on subduing and preventing the spread of fire, with simple first aid appliances. Superintendent Rickwood (Adelaide) spoke on "Electricity and its Relation to Fires."

Mr. S. Mauger (Vic.) said they had not in any way abandoned idea of pensions, which were necessary, and must come. The firemen of Melbourne metropolitan area and the whole of New South Wales, he believed, had formed a Firemen's Union. He thought he could say that they offered no objection to that. Any representations firemen might have to make to the board, collectively or individually, would be well considered, and, if possible, carried out. There had also been formed a Commonwealth organisation, and an application for registration had been made to the Arbitration Court, so that in Melbourne and Sydney the firemen's service was to be put in the position of an industrial concern, subject to the decision of the Arbitration Court. This was a matter which would not be discussed by the conference, but the application had placed the metropolitan board in an altogether different position from one it occupied previously. A decision under that application might be of such a character that neither board, nor Government, nor municipalities, could carry it out, however much they might desire to do so. It was hoped that the best counsels would prevail. As soon as the board knew the position, and knew what was likely to develop, the next step would be taken to carry out a scheme. The present position was exceedingly unsatisfactory. They recognised as much as ever that, in such a service, provision should be made for men who ran risks, and whose work was altogether different from that of the average artisan. "We are in favour of a pension scheme," he concluded, "which will be worthy of the service, and adequate for its great needs."

The president (Cr. Frinsdrof) said the Adelaide board proposed to ask for an amending Act this year, and probably for the same rights as prevailed in New South Wales, if they saw fit to start a fund for pensions to firemen.

FRACTURED JAW.

EXTRACTION OF A TOOTH.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A brush and broom maker named Patrick Ryan to-day brought an action in the County Court, before Mr. Judge Box, in which he claimed £99 damages against George H. Prout and George Samuel Prout for alleged negligence in extracting one of the plaintiff's teeth so violently that the plaintiff's jaw was fractured by the operation.

For the defence it was alleged that there had been no negligence and no violence in the extraction, and, further, that the plaintiff was suffering from a disease of the jaw known as Rigg's disease, which was sufficient in itself to account for the loss of the piece of jawbone, without any further application of force than would be required to extract a tooth in the ordinary way.

Judgment was given for the defendants with costs.

REIGN OF THE UNION.

BADGE COMPULSORY.

BOYCOTTING—A FINE ART.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The Hairdressers' Union last night decided that unionists should only support those journeymen employees wearing their union badge.

A unionist in Broken Hill now is not supposed to move, act, buy, or sell, except under union orders.

The local Labour paper to-day boasts that per its medium only, "against keen opposition, elections have been won, record Parliamentary votes have been scored, and boycotts with far-reaching effects have been engineered."

Boycotting has come to a fine stage in Broken Hill. All business is supposed to be conducted under union privileges.

MAWSON EXPEDITION.

GOVERNMENT AID SOUGHT.

£10,000 WANTED AT ONCE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A deputation, composed of the Lord Mayor of Melbourne, Professor Masson, of Melbourne University, and and Mr. H. A. Hunt, Commonwealth Meteorologist, to-day asked the Acting Prime Minister to make the position of the Commonwealth Government a little more definite regarding its proposed contribution towards the expenses of the Antarctic exploration expedition under Dr. Mawson.

Professor Masson said they wanted some further encouragement in regard to the expedition. In March a deputation asked Mr. Batchelor to guarantee £20,000, which would be half the total estimated expenses. Mr. Batchelor seemed to say that the amount asked for was too high, but he promised to lay the matter before Cabinet and give the deputation a reply the first week in April. It was subsequently announced in the press that the Cabinet has decided to let Parliament decide the matter. Dr. Mawson had since cabled from London stating that he wanted immediate command of £10,000. The subscriptions promised by the public up to the present totalled only £600 or £700, and the deputation to-day wanted a more definite statement of the attitude of the Government.

Mr. Hughes asked what might the Commonwealth hope for by way of return, either in scientific results or quasi-commercial enterprises?

Professor Masson said that the expedition proposed to investigate 2000 miles of unknown rocky formation, and mineral finds of great value might be made. Chiefly, however, the object of the expedition was scientific.

Mr. Hunt said that in regard to meteorology the expedition would do work of the highest value to Australia. The South Polar regions probably held the secret of Australian weather conditions.

Mr. Hughes said he had not the slightest doubt that the chief material advantage to Australia would result from meteorological data. He thought that the expedition should be looked at from its scientific standpoint.

Professor Masson: Still it is not unlikely that valuable minerals will be found, as they were in Alaska, which was at one time under offer to Great Britain, and was refused.

Mr. Hughes said that there was plenty of opening up work to be done for settlement in Australia without going to the Antarctic. However, he would bring the matter before the Cabinet next Tuesday. He was heartily in favour of the Commonwealth doing something. The extent to which the Cabinet could go was a matter for consideration. If the Cabinet approved of something being done a cable would be sent to Mr. Fisher and Mr. Batchelor, asking them to see Dr. Mawson, with a view of carrying out the Cabinet's wishes.

DEAR FRUIT AND FISH.

SUPPORT FOR MR. GRIFFITH.

The Glenorie branch of the Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Union carried the following resolution unanimously on Saturday:—"That this branch congratulates the Hon. Minister for Works, Mr. Arthur Griffith, on the remarks made by him re the distribution of fruits to the public of the city of Sydney and suburbs, and hopes that the city and municipal councils will grant the privileges to the street sellers of fruits as outlined by him."

CENSUS RETURNS.

PROGRESS FIGURES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Only seven returns have been received from the census districts in the metropolitan area, Sydney. They are as follows:—City of Sydney census district, population 112,155; Balmain, 56,096; Ashfield, 50,683; Newtown, 37,602; Rockdale, 34,048; North Sydney, 50,990; Ryde, 11,171.

The returns for the metropolitan area in Victoria have been completed. These fix the population of Greater Melbourne at 572,589. Five years ago the population of the metropolitan area was 526,400, while the census taken in 1901 showed it to be 496,079. This total of 572,589 is but a rough estimate, based on the check tallies of the number of cards handed in to each enumerator. When all the cards have been received at the census bureau a more careful count will be made. It is considered certain that there will be a large number of additions to be made to the preliminary district totals, and that when the actual figure is announced it will be found to approximate closely to the estimate of 575,320 advanced by the Victorian Statistician, as the population of Greater Melbourne, at the end of last year.

TRUE LEADERSHIP.

GOULBURN, Tuesday.

Preaching at St. Saviour's Cathedral last evening on true leadership, the Ven. Archdeacon Bartlett said that true leaders required to be appointed to their positions, and should have strength, patience, give nourishment, and be ready to sacrifice themselves. He applied the definition to the question of the referendum. So far as he could see, the answer given was a correct one, and in the interests of the Commonwealth as a whole. The Empire and the Commonwealth had, he considered, reached a critical period. Some people desired to upset the old order of things, and bring in a revolution. He defended the old families, who, although some had not lived up to their traditions, had built up the Empire to its present standard. He adjured the young men present to measure the actions of those would-be leaders desirous of uprooting the old landmarks by the standard he had outlined as necessary for a true leader.

THEFT FROM A THIEF.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Antonio's Hotel, Flinders-street, was entered early yesterday morning, and two bags containing about £16 in silver were stolen.

At the Fitzroy races to-day the police arrested William Rennie Phillips, a former employee, aged 20 years. He admitted the offence, and signed a written confession. He was locked up on a charge of housebreaking. The sum of £4 5s was found in his possession.

Phillips said that one of the money bags was stolen from him while he was in the crowd coming from a picture show last evening.

SPLENDID FLIGHTS.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Hammond made two successful, perhaps, sensational, flights at Ascot. The first occupied about 10 minutes, and the second about 25. In each he ascended to heights of about 4000 feet—higher than ever achieved previously in Sydney. A feature of both flights was the descent. He was seemingly poised at about 1000 feet above the heads of the spectators, and then, shutting off his engine, and deflecting the plane, came down towards the earth with a rush, gracefully and easily alighting. In his second flight he did some manoeuvring over the racecourse, turning at sharp angles, and so forth.

KNOCKED DOWN BY A MOTOR-CAR.

A little block boy named Leonard Burns was knocked down by the Lieutenant-Governor's motor-car yesterday, and sustained minor injuries. Sir William Cullen had driven from his home in Mosman, and the car had just come off the punt when the accident happened. The car was running at a moderate speed, when the lad, who was working on the roadway, got in front of it. The driver made an effort to clear him, but the lamp struck him, and he was knocked down. Sir William assisted his chauffeur to put the little chap in the car. He was then taken to Sydney Hospital, and admitted for observation.

PENSIONS FOR ALL.

STATE AND MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES.

COLLECTING THE DATA.

A couple of months ago the Acting Treasurer, Mr. Carmichael, moved in the direction of the establishment of a comprehensive scheme of Public Service pensions to take the place of the existing schemes, and to extend the benefits of pensions to all Government employees. Two well-known actuaries were appointed to examine the railway superannuation scheme, and a departmental committee of experts was appointed to consider how far the benefits of the present Public Service superannuation scheme could be extended to the whole of the service, with a view to a general consolidation of schemes and of contributions.

Mr. Carmichael said yesterday that the committee was pushing on with its work. It had drawn up a card to be forwarded to each Government employee, whether included in the present pension scheme or not, with the object of obtaining the most complete data on which to base a general scheme of pensions. The inquiries would be wide enough to include payments to widows of deceased Civil servants. It was because of this that particulars were sought concerning marriage and the number of children. The scope of inquiry was purposely made very wide.

"Of course," Mr. Carmichael continued, "the Government may not accept the whole of the committee's report, but the investigations will be wide and thorough, and supply a basis for a Public Service pensions scheme at a minimum cost. If it should be decided in years to come to bring in a bill for State insurance against accident, unemployment, deafness, etc., the data collected by the committee will be of very great assistance. The police, I understand, object to any interference with their scheme. They wish to keep it on a 4 per cent. basis, but I doubt if there will be any objection if it can be shown that equal benefits can be secured on the basis of a 3 per cent., or even a 2 per cent. basis, of contribution. Circulars have been issued by the heads of departments to the departmental employees. I earnestly hope that, inasmuch as the whole object of the Government is to benefit the Government employees, they will fall in readily with the request made to them, and supply the information required. The committee is carrying out the investigation at my request, and it will report to me. When that has been done I will formulate a scheme based upon the report, and a bill will be submitted to Parliament as Cabinet decides. It will, however, be some considerable time before we can get the necessary information together. The employees of local Government bodies will be brought within the scheme. A request to this effect was made to me by the Municipal Employees' Association."

VOLUNTARY SURRENDER.

MR. HOLMAN ACTS.

COMMUNICATES WITH THE STATES.

Mr. Holman yesterday addressed a circular letter to the Premiers of the other States asking to be favoured with their opinions upon the question of a voluntary surrender to the Commonwealth Parliament of legislative powers necessary to make Federal legislation effective.

MR. WATT'S VIEWS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

"Mr. Hughes's pride seems to have been affected somewhat by the recent referendum vote," remarked the Acting Premier, Mr. Watt, to-day, when asked whether he would comment on the Federal Attorney-General's recent statement that the Commonwealth could not legislate by permission of the States, or on sufferance, or subject to State censorship.

"Nobody," added Mr. Watt, "ever proposed that the Commonwealth should be subject to the censorship of the States, as Mr. Hughes puts it. The agreement of 1909 adopted by the State and Commonwealth Governments of that day provided that the States should legislate in accordance with the terms of the Commonwealth Constitution Act (section 51, paragraph 37), and surrender certain specific powers to the Commonwealth. My view is that it would not be proper for any State now to act until there had been a conference of the States. The Victorian Ministry is not making any offer to the Commonwealth, but it is prepared to stand by the old agreement if the other States are of the same mind. If the Commonwealth does not wish it, however, it is not likely that any conference will be held on the subject."

THE CEMENT TROUBLE.

HOPES OF A SETTLEMENT.

There were no developments in the cement trouble yesterday. The attitude of the men seemed to be one of waiting, and though they discussed the matter freely among themselves, they were very reticent in the presence of strangers. The general impression, however is that the trouble is nearing an end.

The less militant unionists have been working strenuously to have the matter amicably settled, and are confident that they will attain their end. A general meeting of the union is to be held at the Trades Hall this evening, when the matter will be discussed in all its bearings. The delegates from Portland will also attend. They are anxious for the dispute to be settled as expeditiously as possible, for every day the position of the workers at Portland is becoming worse. Already several hundred men have been affected, and even if the wharf-labourers do agree to handle bagged cement it will be some time before places can be found for all these men. However, it is thought the more sober-minded section is the stronger body, and will have sufficient strength to carry the adoption of the interstate agreement.

A shipment of 50 tons of cement was despatched yesterday to Hobart by the steamer Westralia. The work was carried out by permanent men employed on Huddart Parker's wharf, assisted by clerks. A number of wharf-labourers were in the vicinity, but they refused to handle the cargo. They did not, however, attempt in any way to interfere with the men who were dealing with the material, and it was all safely stowed in the vessel's hold.

THE PURE FOOD ACT.

PROSECUTIONS IN THE COUNTRY.

TAMWORTH, Tuesday.

Several cases of interest to storekeepers were dealt with in Tamworth Police Court on Monday. T. J. Treloar and J. G. Grayston, trading as Treloar and Co., were proceeded against by C. V. Francis, an inspector under the Pure Food Act, for allegedly selling vinegar substitute, which was deficient in acetic acid. Defendants pleaded guilty, but stated they had acted entirely in ignorance that the vinegar was not up to the standard. They had written to a wholesale firm on the subject, and had obtained a formula from them, and had mixed up the vinegar according to it. They had also sent a sample to be analysed, but no reply had been received.

The inspector further proceeded against the same defendants, for selling adulterated soap. The inspector gave the constituents of the soap, among them being sodium silicate, which was prohibited by the Act. It was stated on behalf of the defendants, who pleaded guilty, that sodium silicate was used instead of resin. The soap was manufactured by a Melbourne firm in June, 1909. There were only about 12 bars left. None of the soap had been sold for over 12 months, and defendants used the soap for cleaning up the store. Unfortunately, the soap was on the shelves when the inspector called. Time was given, "which expired 12 months ago last January," to enable the sellers to get rid of any articles that did not come up to the standard required by the Act, and what with floods and other matters incidental to a large business defendants had overlooked these bars of soap.

The inspector also proceeded against Roy Butler for selling an article purporting to be cordial, which was adulterated. The inspector said analysis showed that the cordial had been artificially flavoured. Defendant pleaded guilty, and said he did not know he should label the cordial "artificially flavoured."

Nominal fines were imposed in all three cases.

POPULATION OF AUCKLAND.

AUCKLAND, Tuesday.

Completed returns show the population of Greater Auckland to be 108,781.

HEROISM AT A FIRE.

THRILLING RESCUES.

BACK INTO BURNING BUILDING.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Further particulars of the fatal fire which occurred at Crown-street, Richmond, shortly before midnight yesterday, show that when Constable Simpson reached the corner of Burnley and Crown streets at a quarter to 12 o'clock his attention was attracted by several women in night-attire, who were standing in front of Reed's house, and calling for help. He hurried to the spot, and was told that there was a woman inside burning to death.

Accompanied by Henry Rees, a neighbour, he entered the cottage in time to see Reed stagger from the bedroom, his pyjama coat in flames. The bedroom was filled with flame and smoke, and as the constable and Rees entered it they saw Mrs. Reed lying on her side on the floor, wrapped in blazing bedclothes. They dragged her into the passage, tore the burning bedclothes aside, and carried her into the street. The constable said that he believed she was dead when they lifted her. Rees and the constable entered the house again, and on a couch in the sitting-room they found Reed in a crouched position. His pyjama coat was still smouldering. "You are in danger here," Constable Simpson said. "My back is bad," groaned Reed. With their assistance he was helped into the street, and removed to the Melbourne Hospital.

In the meantime the fire brigade had been summoned, and quickly extinguished the flames. Mrs. Reed was 34 years of age.

Reed stated to-night that Mrs. Reed got out of bed and struck a match, which set fire to the cover of the dressing table. The flames quickly spread. He tried to put the fire out, but failed, and sustained injuries to his back. Reed is not aware of the fact that his wife is dead.

"GOOD-BYE TO VESTMENTS."

ARCHBISHOP COMPLIMENTED.

PROTESTANT CHURCH OF ENGLAND UNION.

The Rev. R. Nelson-Howard presided last night in St. Barnabas' School Hall at the thirteenth annual meeting of the Protestant Church of England Union.

In the annual report of the lay secretary, Mr. H. A. Corish, appeared the following passages:—

"Looking abroad, we regret to find the continued state of unrest in our beloved Church, caused by the introduction of Romish ceremonial and doctrine into England's National Church. Doctrines and practices from which our Church was cleansed by the Reformation have been reintroduced, and continued to be promulgated. . . ."

"Regarding the proposed prayer-book revision, we affirm that to hope to free the present disorganised state of our Church by the legalising of the vestments and making their use optional is an utter impossibility. The alternative we would simply mean to authorise the Mass in our Church. As the two alternative services are directly opposed to each other in every respect, it is absurd to think that they can remain peaceably in the one Church. While such a state of affairs exists our Church cannot be other than divided, and weakened in its usefulness. What is rather required is not to alter the law to suit law-breakers, but to make the law-breakers amenable to the law. The much-desired peace for which we earnestly pray cannot be realised while the Church is possessed of men who are striving to undo the work of that which has been the greatest epoch in England's history, whether civil or religious—the work of the glorious Reformation."

"Turning to our own diocese, we note the discord that has been occasioned by those who desire the retention of the vestments of a sacrificing priest for the celebration of the Holy Communion. These vestments, as is well known, have been declared illegal by the highest ecclesiastical Court in the realm, namely, the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, and were unknown in our Church for 300 years after the Reformation."

The report was unanimously adopted.

Rev. Joseph Best said that there were some Protestants who denounced Roman Catholics, and yet never entered a church themselves. He believed that their strength in the advocacy of the evangelical and Protestant principles of their Church lay in knowing their own human weaknesses, and relying most implicitly upon the power of the Holy Spirit. (Applause.)

The Rev. H. R. Shaw said that they had a glorious Archbishop. (Applause.) They had an archbishop of fatherly disposition, kindly, affable, and at the same time firm and courageous in maintaining the law of the Church. (Applause.)

The chairman said he was thankful for the way the Archbishop had dealt with Mass vestments, and he believed that they were going to say good-bye to the Mass vestments altogether in Sydney. (Applause.)

Mr. Foster (president of the Church Association) moved a motion of thankfulness to God for the work of the union for the past year. The mover thought that there should be a petition to the King for a proper prayer book.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Corish and carried unanimously.

TASMANIAN ELECTION.

HOBART, Tuesday.

In the election held to-day for Hobart Mr. W. B. Propsting was re-elected by 1220 votes to 453 obtained by the Mayor of the city, Alderman Mott.

LAUNCESTON, Tuesday.

An election to fill the vacancy for Meander in the Legislative Council caused by the retirement of Mr. F. W. Grubb was held today. The polling by the three candidates was:—John Hope, 485; W. Hartnoll, 284; H. Murray, 155. Mr. Hope was elected.

FRUIT-GROWING.

CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY FAVOURED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Nearly 150 fruitgrowers, representative of almost every orchard district in the State, attended the meeting held to-day to discuss the question of establishing a co-operative association, so as to get the best results from their labour and capital.

The following motion was adopted:—"That in the best interests of fruitgrowing in Victoria steps be taken to establish a co-operative society to deal with the products of the industry."

A committee was appointed to inquire into the proposed undertaking.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

STATE MANAGEMENT FAVOURED.

PERTH, Tuesday.

The count of the local option poll is now practically completed, but a few votes have yet to arrive from the distant centres.

The present totals are:—In favour of increasing the number of licensees, 4152; against, 17,743. In favour of State control for all new publicans' licenses, 25,608; against, 16,183; in favour of State management of all hotels, 25,264; against, 18,862.

"MOTHERS' DAY."

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A movement is on foot to establish the annual celebration known as "Mothers' Day" in Victoria.

IMPORTATION OF LOCOMOTIVES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Ministerial authority has been given for the importation of 40 railway engines from abroad, and for the manufacture of parts of a number of other engines by Victorian firms to supplement the manufacture of locomotives at Newport workshops.

DEATH SENTENCES COMMUTED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The State Cabinet to-day considered the cases of Frank Wood, who was sentenced to death for an offence against a young girl at Footscray, and that of Richard Frederick Addison, upon whom sentence of death was formally recorded for an offence against a boy at Northcote. It was decided that the Governor in Council should be recommended to commute both sentences to terms of imprisonment—Woods for 15 years, with one flogging of [illegible] lashes; and Addison for [illegible] years.

LIFE IN THE POLAR SEA.

THE TERRA NOVA AMONG PACK ICE.

(COPYRIGHT.)

[Specially written for the "Sydney Morning Herald" by Mr. Griffith Taylor, the Australian scientific member of the Scott Expedition, who is an officer of the Federal Meteorological Department.]

VI.

SMALL BEASTIES OF THE OCEAN.

Off Glacier Tongue,
Ross Isle, January 24.

Microscopic life simply swarms in these Polar seas, to an infinitely greater extent than in the warm waters of the tropics, though one would be inclined to the opposite belief. The research of German and Norwegian biologists has shown that there is almost as much protoplasm, the basis of all life tissues, per acre of ocean as there is in a well-cultivated crop on land. Most of this floats near the surface in the form of minute plants (diatoms), and minute infusoria, forams, and copepods (which are animals). As a result, the struggle for existence is probably much more strenuous among these floating organisms (plankton) than it is on land. What may be termed the cycle of life—recalling the Indian idea of transmigration—is very evident in the pack ice. At the basis here—as on land—are plants; for they alone can convert inorganic material into protoplasm. Almost every floe in its lower layers is stained yellow from the presence of millions of little organisms (such as Corethron) belonging to the diatom family. Our biologist is examining some specimens through his microscope, and if we look down we see some transparent rods with indications of granular matter at intervals. These are magnified some thousand diameters, so that it can be realised how many are necessary to colour the ice to a deep yellow. Hovering all about the floes, waiting for the diatoms to thaw out, are the smallest of marine animals, of which the infusoria give rise to the phosphorescence seen in many seas, and the forams to that beautiful calcareous deposit known to everyone by the euphonious title of "globigerina ooze." Feeding on these are animals of a much higher order (crustacea, in fact, allied to shrimps), and known as Copepods and Schizopods. Commonest of all is the large schizopod Euphausia.

These fellows are so big that we can see them swimming around the floes. They may grow to a length of two inches, and but for their split feet—each branching into two, as the name Schizopod suggests—look very like pale shrimps. They are the mainstay of the better-known animals—the penguins, seals, and whales. Ever ready to attack the three latter is the killer whale, a ferocious dolphin, which drives the seals and penguins to take refuge on the floes. Here they fall easy victims to man, for they have not yet learnt to expect any enemy except in the water. Since the killers are credited with attempts to shake some of Shackleton's men off a floe into the water, it appears as if homo sapiens would be relished by the same shark-like mammal, so that there is little doubt that if man reigns on land Orca gladiator is lord of the Antarctic seas.

IN THE ENGINEROOM.

Towards the southern limits of the pack the "iceberg watch" was not kept very busy. I fear me I played truant at frequent intervals. One expedition down to the cosy engineroom resulted in a glorious hot bath—which is quite sufficiently a rarity to be chronicled. The second engineer (Lashley) warmed a bucket of water by the Fijian method of dropping a red-hot lump of firebar therein. This quiet officer was he who probably experienced the most thrilling moment in Antarctica. With Evans he accompanied Scott on his western expedition, and on the Ferrar Glacier saw his two companions disappear together in a bottomless crevasse. Captain Scott has told how he managed to climb up the trace, but one can imagine Lashley's despair as he grimly held back the sledge and thought of the dreadful solitary march that most probably confronted him. Evans also has returned to his old leader's flag, and is in charge of the transport material. Of the other men, Cheetham and Paton have made five voyages already across the seas, though I do not anticipate that they will join the shore party. With the eastern expedition (to King Edward the Seventh Land) goes Abbot, a naval man and a champion wrestler. Several other members of the crew will join us in Antarctica, so that the Terra Nova will seem very empty on her return voyage. She will be under the command of Lieutenant Pennell, who will be accompanied by Lieutenants Rennick and Bruce, and by Mr. Drake. They will have the wardroom—now occupied by 24 officers—to themselves, and are trying to impress nous autres with the comforts combined with elegance which will characterise the after-deck next March.

THE SOUTHERN FRINGE OF THE PACK.

On tht 27th we were drifting aimlessly in thick pack, but later in the day the floes seemed to open a little. It was decided to raise steam and trust our luck—for sail power had merely kept her nose to a big floe most of the time—though the prospect did not look very hopeful. Towards evening we met examples of over-ridden floes, in which two thin cakes were re-cemented, and this seemed to indicate the effects of a recent swell.

The next day we were favoured with most beautiful weather. We slowly pushed and broke our way through the floes which occasionally shook the good ship to her centre, and hitting the propeller caused a succession of shudders that would have "shivered the timbers" of any less stout vessel. The sun shone with almost a tropic heat—there was no wind, and a temperature of 37 degrees brought all the afterguard out on the poop to soak in the sunbeams. Every available square inch was occupied by basking humanity, and this unusual phase of our "strenuous life" formed the subject of several photographs.

Until one has been blockaded for three weeks by some such unexpected obstacle as this mighty width of pack, it is difficult to realise how closely we scanned its texture for any hint of its boundary. Towards the evening of the 29th we began to hope that the pack was showing similar features to those we met with on entering. Very beautiful were some of the piled-up pressure blocks. I remember one of the nature of a "glacier-table," a flat-domed slab some 3ft across, was perched on a slender support above the floe. Pendant from the table were numerous long icicles, consequent on the warm weather. The under surface of the table, owing to repeated reflection, was a beautiful ultramarine, which was seen through the curtain of icicles, and the whole structure reminded me of one of those resplendent medusae which float placidly on the sea, with their tentacles hanging from the fringe of the "umbrella." Hereabouts the floe became thinner and more uniform. It was broken into wide subangular surfaces, with vertical sides, as when a sheet of "shortbread" is broken for consumption. At 9 o'clock we entered a wide lane, where the placid water we had encountered hitherto was replaced by an area of short choppy waves. Then an area of "pancake," with rounded outline and upturned edges, and, finally, just at midnight, we crossed several east-west belts of "brash-ice," and at long length entered the open Ross Sea.

A RECORD PACK.

The Morning and the Discovery had each entered the pack in latitude 66½, and emerged in 69½. Thus they crossed three degrees of latitude, or a little over two hundred statute miles. We entered it in 64½ and left it behind in 71½, which is seven degrees, or almost 500 miles. Moreover, the width of the pack corresponds somewhat to the height of a range of mountains, in that the difficulties increase in a much greater degree than direct proportion as these factors grow large. For a great width of pack implies older and thicker floes in the centre, with an absence of cracks, since the swell cannot penetrate this region. Four miles of a narrow pack may be traversed in an hour, but the same distance in the middle of the wide belt often took us more than 24 hours.

Midnight on the 27th marked our breaking through the pack, and thence we sailed southward and slightly westward, without further trouble from the ice. In fact, it was a help, for we encountered half a gale from the south on the 31st, and hove to under the shelter of a drifting belt of pack. The delay was necessary for the sake of the weakened ponies, which would not have stood a tossing. Advantage was taken of the halt to put down soundings. Bottom was reached at 187 fathoms, whereas the day before it had been 111 fathoms. We hauled up some small pebbles of eruptible rock coated with polyzoa—a low form of life, which was absent from the deep water.

ANTARCTICA IN SIGHT.

Late in the evening of the last day of the year the officer of the watch reported "Land in sight." On the starboard bow was a clouded horizon, and there, apparently far above the sea line, in a belt of thinner clouds, extended a range of mountains in a vast panorama. There were two widely separated peaks rising in solitary splendour, and akin in form to the Matterhorn; but even graded, owing to the clothing of snow from top to bottom. These were Mounts Sabine and Monteagle, each about 10,000ft high, with their slopes washed by waters of Ross Sea. They lie well to the south of Cape Adare, where Borchgrevink spent the first winter in the Antarctic.

An hour or two later we kept up the good old ceremony of ushering in the New Year. At the proper time Captain Evans performed on the steam siren, and others of us, with handbells and varied weapons of offence, awakened the sleeping afterguard. As a grand finale, a march was played on the pianola, after which we turned in, with a pleasing consciousness of duties nobly done.

New Year opened with most beautiful weather. Some portion of the 1st was occupied in swinging ship to correct the compasses, for they have been affected by the removal of so many iron cases of food, etc. In a chart plotted to show the magnetic variation this region is of great interest. For the last few days every degree of southing has approximately led to a change of 1deg. in the magnetic variation of the needle from the south. Thus, on entering the pack the variation was 40deg. east; on leaving it it was 60deg., while at Ross Island it has increased to 150deg. The magnetic pole, to which the compass needle points, lies inland some 200 miles from Mount Sabine. On the line joining the magnetic to the South Pole the compass readings are absolutely reversed. Captain Scott, on his western journey, crossed this line, and when he sent back a party of men he told them to find their course due west by following exactly the path indicated by east on the compass.

THE VICTORIA LAND POST.

During the few days in open water everyone is much occupied with letters home. Special stamps—surcharged Victoria Land—have been issued to us, but as their number is limited, I fancy few of them will be exposed to the tender mercies of the post-offices of the world. On the last expedition many letters bearing Antarctic stamps went astray; so that on this occasion two envelopes are being used by those who desire to send home officially obliterated stamps. The talents of the afterguard as regards letter-writing vary considerably. One member is sending off nearly 100 postcards and letters. Another collected a few important dates from other people's diaries—to lend an air of exactitude to his epistle, he explained—and then proceeded to send off one letter of no great length as his message from Antarctica.

If it were possible, Captain Scott proposed to make Cape Crozier (the eastern end of Ross Island) his headquarters. In some respects this was superior to other positions. For example, it was new ground (except for a hasty survey) as regards geology; it was near the Emperor Penguin settlement. More important, it was permanently connected with the Great Barrier, whereas Cape Royds is isolated from the south by impassable cliffs and glaciers in summer.

THE WESTERN END OF THE GREAT ICE BARRIER.

A sine qua non, however, was a firm ice-foot, or a sea-ice platform, on which to disembark the heavy motor-sledges and the ponies. January 3 was a day replete with interest. At noon we had approached near enough to Mount Terror to see the details of its surface. Erebus lay 20 miles to the west, and was shrouded in clouds and somewhat behind Terror. As we steamed in towards Cape Crozier we could see the great ice barrier extending indefinitely to the east. Owing to the numerous fragments of the barrier we had met to northward—and partly, no doubt, to the pictures we had studied—this great wall seemed like a familiar old friend. As one of the men remarked, we seemed to have been seeing it all our lives. At this point it was about 60ft high, and gave rise to a curious meteorological effect.

In the far east, where the lessening ribbon of ice front reached the horizon, there was a distinct difference in the sky to north and south respectively. To the north it was a dark grey, with heavy cumulus, but in a definite arc over the barrier this was suddenly changed to pearly grey, and the clouds were almost white. This was, of course, a gigantic form of ice-blink, but I saw nothing approaching it in size or intensity on our passage through the pack.

Near at hand were bands of crash ice, forming a miniature sort of pack just under the great barrier. On these bobbing and rotating surfaces sported flocks of penguins, performing marvellous feats of equilibrium, and nowise disturbed by the huge bulk of the ship towering above them. The barrier front is deeply undercut by the waves at the water-level, and small bergiets were constantly dropping off above the line of weakness. Probably they gave rise to the broken masses cemented to floes which we met in the pack, while the large bergs are pieces broken off from the whole face of the barrier. From top to bottom the barrier would here be about 250ft deep, I expect.

THE SLOPES OF MOUNT TERROR.

By this time we had approached as near to Cape Crozier as the swell would allow. In the angle between the barrier and the rocky cliffs buttressing Mount Terror were piled up masses of pressure ice for some distance back from the sea. The cliffs of dark lava were 250ft above the water, and were actually overhanging in places. Further west, again, towards Erebus, the shore lava consisted of some low bluffs separating beaches of considerable extent. Behind these beaches the rock, instead of being black, was a light brown or buff colour for a distance of a mile along the water's edge, and perhaps a quarter of a mile inland. It was difficult to realise that this brown area was a guano deposit, resulting from the presence of an enormous colony of penguins. Through the glasses we could see vast regiments of them extending far up the hill slopes and making their way across patches of snow from one rocky surface to another. Quite separate from the main rookery were two little exclusive colonies, though why they should move away from their fellows so far from the sea is difficult to explain. In the background towered Mount Terror, 10,000ft high, his black summit occasionally appearing through a break in the clouds.

UNDER THE CLIFFS AT CAPE CROZIER.

Captain Scott decided to prospect for a landing-place in a whaleboat, so a party set off to cover the intervening half-mile. Bits of floe—that seemed insignificant in the Terra Nova—gave the whaleboat nasty jars, and the swell quite prohibited our making a landing at any point. We made for the lowest place in the pressure ice. Here a floe had been forced up to form a deep-sea cave, and along one side was a pathway used by the Emperor penguins. Hanging head downwards from the roof of the cave were two dead penguins, which had been caught in the pressure. Awaiting us were two Emperors, one full-grown and the other a lusty chick the size of a duck, and covered with grey down. It marched off in a stately fashion without the ludicrous wobbles of the Adelies; and so escaped the clutches of Dr. Wilson, who was eager for its scalp as soon as he saw its plumage. We then rowed west for half a mile under the lava cliff. Some lenticular patches of white material among the dark basalt reminded me of the alternating layers of snow and lava seen in a volcanic island in the South Pacific. However, this white material was not snow, but a basic ash from which all the iron (the colouring material in Vulcan's workshop) had been leached out. We were surprised to feel rain falling, and looked up to see that we were right under the water from the melting snows of Terror, which dropped 250ft from crumbling lavas. Lest the latter also fell on us, we moved seaward. A magnificent series of basalt columns appeared before us. They were long narrow, hexagonal rods, rather than columns, curved and interlocked, and about 100ft long. For 100 yards or more, the appearance of this cliff face reminded me of a fracture of a coarsely crystalline piece of cast-iron. I have not heard of a parallel case of columnar basalt.

THE GIANT ROOKERY.

There was no hope of landing under these cliffs, so we made for the ship, and soon steamed along to the rookeries, where some sea ice might be expected to remain. After passing some stranded bergs, we came abreast of the penguin colonies, and the sea was simply full of the birds, cruising about in search of their shrimp-like food. I have never seen seas so teeming with life. The explanation is that these polar waters are free from the bacteria, which break up protoplasm, and so render it almost useless for food. The cold waters act as a kind of cold storage, and supply unlimited food material for higher organisms in the form of algae and protozoa, which quickly vanish after death in warmer regions. At the other end of the scale of life in the Antarctic are the warm-blooded killer-whales (orca), of which we saw a party of three busy gobbling up penguins.

THE COAL VEND.

MR. WHEELER UNDER FIRE.

WALLSEND MINE PROFITS.

OPERATIONS IN TASMANIA.

The prosecution in connection with the Coal Vend was continued before Mr. Justice Isaacs in the High Court yesterday.

John Wheeler, manager of the Newcastle-Wallsend mine, was cross-examined by Mr. Campbell, K.C. (for defence).

Up to the beginning of 1906 the output of your mine had never reached even 300,000 tons, had it?—In 1901 it was 320,000 tons; in 1902, 313,000 tons; in 1903, 267,000 tons; in 1904, 193,000 tons; and in 1905, 230,000 tons.

Never in the whole history of the mine had you before 1906 put out anything like 400,000 tons?—That is so.

Your land is absolutely freehold?—Absolutely.

Can you tell me the difference between the value of your virgin land and the land worked out?—I refer to the land through which the coal seam is deemed to run. Is there not a difference of £10 per acre?—There is in some parts of the estate.

When you said that you were selling coal at the declared selling price of 9s in 1906, and that it afforded a profit, did the computation of that profit make any allowance for a sinking fund for the exhaustion of capital?—Our wealth is in our inner reserves.

Are not the reserves held against other contingencies, such as explosions, or a prolonged strike?—They are to meet any contingency.

Did you transfer anything to the reserves in 1907 as a result of the operations in 1906? Was there any specific provision for the exhaustion of capital, apart altogether from what appears in your balance-sheet?—There was nothing in the half-year for 1905, but in the next half-year there was some amount not disclosed in the balance-sheet.

Do you mean a transfer or a specific appropriation of profits to a sinking fund?—It was a transfer to equalise the dividend.

There was no proportion to any sinking fund to provide against the exhaustion of capital?—No.

In 1905, so far from there being any transfer from profits to meet exhaustion of capital, you had actually transferred a certain sum to the credit of profit and loss account from this indemnity account, adding to your profits to that extent?—Yes.

In the years before 1906, with whom was your interstate trade principally done?—I think Huddart, Parker, and Co.

When did you begin to do trade with Scott Fell, considerable interstate trade?—I think at the end of 1905, or the beginning of 1906.

What quantity of coal was actually delivered under that contract?—I think about 150,000 tons.

Was the whole of that delivered under the contract?—It was taken by Scott Fell.

Were you in 1906 doing any trade with James Bell and Co., interstate?—I did very little with them, but I cannot fix the year.

Shortly before October 6, 1906, you were interviewed with a view to coming into line with the other proprietors, and then said you would not unless allowed something like 400,000 tons?—Yes.

Did you at the same time say that a firm with whom you were doing a large business would take all that you could produce?—Not the word all. I said a large quantity.

Did that mean substantially all that you could put out?—No.

What was the firm referred to?—Some oversea firm in Liverpool.

Was it not Scott Fell?—No.

Was the oversea firm going into the interstate trade?—Not that I am aware of.

Will you admit the necessity, so far as interstate trade is concerned, of having a regular and systematic transport?—Yes.

The five or six companies which were then carrying coal from Newcastle as a regular thing were in a position to supply that regular and systematic service?—Undoubtedly.

Will you admit in addition that they were in a position as colliery owners, or persons practically controlling collieries, to be very serious competitors, almost destructive competitors, with collieries which didn't employ the same facilities—Undoubtedly. They were just then about coming in to influence with power of control.

You would not have anything to do with any steamship company with regard to any arrangement of the trade in respect of transport?—Undoubtedly.

So that your attitude was one of hostility from the very outset of the movement for the formation of a vend to any suggestion of bringing in the steamship companies—It was not a question of hostility.

Did you say you were opposed to having anything to do with the steamship companies?—To a restriction of selling my coal to them and to nobody else.

At the time when you mentioned your decision there had been no discussion about any restriction as to the sale of coal to any particular companies?—No. That was my difficulty. I objected from the very first to the restriction of my trade to any particular people. It was restricted to four people, because they had excluded the Adelaide company.

You remember that you and Mr. Chilcott left a meeting, and said you would be prepared to accept any arrangement made by the committee with Mr. Appleton, at that time the question of restriction not having been discussed?—I dispute that I agreed to any delegation.

Apart from that particular feature, were you favourable to any arrangement with the shipping companies with regard to transport?—I didn't know what the terms were.

As a general principle?—I was favourable to the consideration of any free and distinct arrangement, but would not be tied to sell simply to four people. I was willing to listen to their proposals. That was all. I raised the question that they did not propose to take either a minimum or maximum quantity. I was always opposed to the proposition to consider the steamship companies' interests.

What does that mean?—I was opposed to limiting my supply to a certain number of individuals.

Were you a party to the negotiations to bringing in the steamship owners who had controlling interests in the collieries?—Only on one condition: That they would name their maximum and minimum quantities, and distribute them equally over all the collieries of Newcastle.

I am not talking about the steamship companies generally. I am talking about the steamship companies associated with mines in the district?—There was only one that I remember: Howard Smith and Company, managing agents of the Caledonian Company.

Were you not anxious to get the Caledonian Company into the vend?—I was naturally anxious to get the Caledonian Company in.

Were you not a party to a resolution not to sell, pending negotiations to bring them into the vend, any coal to the colliery-controlling shipowners early in 1906?—Not as collieries owning shipping.

Mr. Mitchell, K.C. (for the shipping companies), here took over the cross-examination.

You told Mr. Wise that you did very little interstate trade after 1906, except to supply Scott Fell, and 20,000 tons to the South Australian Government; that the shipping companies would not place your coal in their schedule. What schedule did you refer to?—Their own schedule in coal.

When do you say they took it off?—Immediately after the formation of the vend.

Is it not a fact that in 1902 certain shipping companies had a large contract with you to supply coal to the Victorian railways?—I cannot be sure of the year.

In 1902 were there not complaints about the quality of your Wallsend coal supplied to the Victorian railways?—Not to my recollection as to quality.

Is it not a fact that in 1904 and 1905 the shipping companies took no large coal from you at all?—I have not the figures before me.

Do you still say that the amount of coal taken by these shipping companies fell during 1905-6?—Yes.

Could there have been any falling off in 1906 if they took none in 1904 and 1905?—I cannot say without the figures.

I am told that in 1906 they took 2785 tons of large and 13,423 tons of small coal. That would be a rise instead of a falling off, would it not?—Maybe so, if your figures are correct.

Were you putting out your full quantity in 1906?—No.

Were you asked could you supply coal by a certain interstate steamship company in 1906, and did you say you could not?—I have an indistinct recollection of being asked for coal for oversea.

Did you say you could not?—No. I said I had already quoted for oversea.

If Scott Fell had wanted further coal for freight purposes in 1906, you could have supplied it?—Yes.

You had a steamer of yours in which you carried your own coal sometimes and sometimes let it for freight purposes?—A small collier.

In addition, have you chartered boats for freight purposes?—Yes.

For the interstate trade?—No.

Mr. Mitchell produced a telegram from M'Ilwraith, M'Eacharn, and Co to witness asking him to quote for a supply of coal for Manila, and witness's reply thereto. The reply was: "Can't spare any coal for Manila contract; therefore cannot quote."

Why could you not supply that coal in 1906?—Because I had previously submitted quotations to others, and if more than one had accepted I could not possibly have supplied, and had to protect myself in this way.

Was not one of the reasons for coal being ordered as a whole through a committee of the colliery proprietors to prevent secret rebates being given?—I know there was some proposal of the kind, but I would not agree to it.

Would not that stop any question of rebates?—No.

Why?—Because there is sufficient of it going on to-day.

Can you give me any instance since 1906 of any rebate whatever being made?—No.

Under that arrangement the coal would have to be ordered through a committee, and the colliery proprietors would have full cognisance of all the coal ordered, and the price?—I was not a member of the committee, and am not aware of the fact.

Re-examined by Mr. Wise, witness said that from 1900 to 1910 the mine had returned to the shareholders more than twice its nominal capital.

In 1907 the miners asked for an increase of 8d per ton, and you gave them 4d?—Yes.

In 1908 you produced 390,200 tons. If you had had to pay the additional 4d asked for about £6500 would have gone to the hewers, and that much less to the shareholders?—Yes.

In 1908 you paid the shareholders 20 per cent.?—Yes, if the balance-sheet says so.

So that if the extra 4d had been paid the dividend would have been 13½ per cent. instead of 20 per cent.?—Yes, approximately.

Were all the profits you made from year to year brought into a net profit account?—They were all brought to the profit and loss account.

Did you make a profit on both contracts to Scott Fell?—Yes.

Replying to his Honor, witness said that if he had secured the Victorian railway contract, the authorities would have sent carriers for it as part of the contract. He was not aware of any compensation having been paid to Huddart, Parker, and Co. in respect of the previous contract.

TASMANIAN TRADE.

John Shaw Tolman, a wood and coal dealer, of Hobart, Tasmania, said that he had handled about 1500 tons of Newcastle coal.

Mr. Mitchell wished to know what the Crown hoped to prove by the witness.

Mr. Starke (for the Crown) said that the Crown sought to show that the Union Company and Huddart, Parker, and Co., had exclusive control of the Tasmanian trade, by arrangement.

Witness said that, prior to 1905, coal was brought by the Union Company and Huddart, Parker, and Co. to Tasmania. Huddart, Parker, and Co. retailed it in quantities of one ton, and the Union Company in somewhat larger quantities. Prior to June, 1905, Newcastle coal sold at 20s per ton ex steamer. No other companies supplied Newcastle coal. After June, 1905, they stopped selling retail, and would not supply less than five tons, when witness obtained large coal for 16s and small for 14s. In August, 1905, the prices were raised to 17s and 16s respectively. At the beginning of January, 1907, there was another rise of 1s per ton. The prices remained at 16s from July 1, 1905, till August, 1906. Till January, 1907, the price for large was 1[illegible]s and for small 15s. From January, 1907, to January, 1908, the prices, respectively, were 1[illegible]s and 15s 6d. The price for large in 1908 was 19s, and it continued at that up to the present time. The price for small, up to March 1910, was 15s 6d, and after that date till the present it had remained at 16s 3d.

To Mr. Mitchell: The rises from time to time did not affect his trade.

Mr. Starke asked the witness how he accounted for the companie's reducing the price from 20s to 16s.

Witness said that Huddart, Parker, and Company's manager in Hobart intimated that they were carrying short cargoes, and wanted to increase the volume of trade. The company offered to supply at 16s per ton, provided the retail price was made 20s, and this was agreed to by the retailers.

Arthur E. Risley, a timber merchant and coal dealer, of Hobart, gave evidence of a similar nature.

The Court adjourned till to-day.

CASUALTIES.

WELINGTON, Tuesday.

While Mr. A. Fetherstone was engaged erecting the poppet heads at the Dick's shaft at the Bodangora mine, a heavy piece of timber became dislodged, and struck him. He was rendered unconscious, and sustained severe injuries to the head, neck, and shoulders. He had a narrow escape from being killed.

ALBION PARK, Tuesday.

Mr. James Thomas, a native of the district, and a very old resident, met with a painful and serious accident whilst driving. A wheel of the vehicle came off. Mr. Thomas was thrown out, and in consequence of having the reins twisted round his arm was dragged along for a considerable distance, and much cut about.

DEATH IN HOSPITAL.

A single woman, named Catherine Sheilds (50), died in Sydney Hospital yesterday.

On the 25th ultimo deceased fell down an embankment at the rear of St. Mary's Cathedral, and dislocated her hip. She was taken to the hospital. On Monday last she got out of bed without consulting the nurse, and almost immediately died.

SUFFOCATED BY GAS.

Philip Alfred Theatham was suffocated in a gas well close to the Epping raiway station yesterday morning. At 10 o'clock Theatham went down the well to repair a pipe—four hours later he was found dead.

THE GREAT CONTINENT.

At a meeting of the New South Wales Naturalists' Club last night, Dr. Jensen delivered a lecture on the geological history of Australia. He touched upon the life and flora of the dead ages, and the part that Australia has taken in the geological history of the earth. Western Australia, he said, was by far the oldest part of the present continent. In the beginning of things the land surface of the globe consisted of a huge continent embracing the west of Australia, the west of Africa, the south of Asia, and probably all Antarctica, and extending over that part of our world now covered by the Indian Ocean.

STEAMER IRISHMAN.

BOILER LEAKING AND DEFECTIVE.

A cable has been received by the Sydney Marine Underwriters and Salvage Association, stating that the steamer Irishman, which left Liverpool on March 27, had put into Capetown with her boiler leaking and defective.

This vessel is trading under the auspices of the White Star line, and is coming forward to the agency of Dalgety and Co., Limited. She put into Teneriffe on April 4 for repairs, and resumed her voyage on April 9.

WHAT TO DO WITH OUR GIRLS.

The Girls' Realm Guild Exhibition at the Town Hall was largely attended yesterday. The programme included everyday work in a State kindergarten; a talk on Australian butterflies by Mr. G. A. Waterhouse, B.Sc., F.E.S.; cooking demonstrations, University settlement demonstration, and musical items.

BRISBANE WOOL SALES.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

The seventh of the 1910-11 series of Brisbane wool sales was commenced to-day. The catalogues totalled 15,988 bales. The attendance of buyers was larger than at any previous winter sale. The wool was a good selection for this time of the year. For greasy wool prices were from 5 to 7½ per cent. higher. The highest was 14d, for 19 bales marked Umbercollie, grown by Treweeke and Sons, and for scoured 22¾d for 14 bales marked Eulolo, grown by Collins, White, and Co.

IF EXPOSED

TO THE AIR

Tea absorbs moisture, its aroma escapes, and it deteriorates in value.

"Robur" is packed in hermetically sealed tins, and in airtight, damp-proof, vegetable parchment lined packets. The packing, to a great extent, prevents the goodness getting out, and at the same time stops anything getting near the tea to contaminate it.

We would suggest that you examine the date on every package of "Robur" when you buy it, and don't allow old tea to be pushed on to you—the fresher tea is the better it always is.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE THEATRES.

This afternoon and on Saturday there will be matinee performances of "Jack and the Beanstalk" at Her Majesty's Theatre, where the varied amusement afforded by the new pantomime is ensuring immense audiences. Mr. Jack Cannot's exuberant cheerfulness as chorus master is undiminished by the fact that he faces a new body of voices nightly for his "La-la-la," and the song is still a popular feature.

At the Criterion Theatre, the last matinee but one of "A Woman in the Case" will be given to-day, as Friday, May 12, will be the occasion of the farewell of Mr. George Willoughby's clever dramatic combination in this exciting play. Miss Mabel Trevor, Miss Elinor Foster, and Mr. Hugh Buckler are all admirably placed, and crowded houses are the result.

Clarke and Meynell's new English Comic Opera Company will open their season at the Criterion Theatre on Saturday week in "The Gay Gordons," which will be put on with new scenery and new artists, including Florence Imeson, Nell Finnis, Frank Lincoln, Tom Graves, and Fred. Winn. Advance applications by letter are now available, and the plan opens at Elvy's on Monday next.

"Our Miss Gibbs" now enters upon the last week of the record run at the Theatre Royal with a matinee to-day, an extra matinee on Saturday, and a final matinee next Wednesday. Next Wednesday night (the farewell), Messrs. J. C. Williamson, Ltd., will present half the gross receipts to the Sydney Hospital Centenary Fund. Seats may be reserved at Paling's this day at 10s each. To-morrow early door tickets for the gallery will be on sale at Paling's at 3s. A ready response will help on one of the most deserving charities in the city.

The New Comic Opera Company will be reintroduced at the Theatre Royal by the J. C. Williamson management on Saturday, May 13, in "The Dollar Princess." Many favourite artists will appear, including Misses Florence Young, Olive Godwin, Lottie Sargent, Messrs. Reg. Roberts, Langmore Kirby, W. S. Percy, and Bert Gilbert. The plan will open at Paling's on Monday next.

"The Grey Kimona" will be produced at the Criterion Theatre on Saturday afternoon next, in aid of the Hospital Saturday Fund. This pretty Japanese musical play, written and composed by Messrs. D. H. Soutar and F. Wynne Jones, will bring forward a full chorus and orchestra, with Miss Amy Murphy and other artists in the leading characters. The plan is at Elvy's, where tickets for the cheaper parts of the house may also be obtained. Great interest is being taken in this revival, for which a strong list of patrons has been secured.

At the Tivoli Theatre, both afternoon and evening to-day, Mr. Harry Rickards' company will be headed by Mr. R. A. Roberts in "Cruel Coppinger," in which romantic piratical sketch he makes his farewell to-morrow. The last two performances of Leipzig are notified, and Delino in his new wire act, Peggy Pryde, Black and White, and Tom Dawson are included in the programme.

At the Adelphi Theatre "The Bad Girl of the Family" has opened the big new playhouse to great audiences, and Mr. George Marlow's Dramatic Company seems likely to appear in Melville's domestic melodrama for some time to come. The interior of the church at the wedding ceremony, with its lighted altar and lofty pillars, is especially admired.

At the National Amphitheatre to-day there will be the usual matinee. Those two popular favourites, Armstrong and Verne, are now in their closing nights. Harland and Rollison amuse with their musical comedy turn, M. de Villiers is more mystifying than ever in his new illusions, and Hanco (who finishes this week) is still defiantly unsecured. A dozen other artists successfully assist.

At the Standard Theatre the management has successfully introduced the well-proved American system of two performances nightly, and bright vaudeville entertainments are given at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m., to both of any part of which one payment gives admission.

THE COVENTRY MATINEE.

Mr. Gerard Coventry, who has directed five of Mr. J. C. Williamson's pantomimes in Australia during the past five years, in addition to producing a long series of musical pieces, winding up with the record-breaker "Our Miss Gibbs," was accorded a testimonial matinee at Her Majesty's Theatre yesterday. This formed a send-off prior to his return to New York for a time and, a strong programme having been organised, drew a great audience. Selections from "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Our Miss Gibbs" naturally formed the backbone of the entertainment, which was further strengthened by the appearance of the George Willoughby Company (Criterion) in the third act of "A Woman in the Case," and of the George Marlow Company (Adelphi) in a scene from "The Bad Girl of the Family." The Tivoli Theatre was represented by Leipzig in his clever card tricks, and the National Amphitheatre by Harland and Rollison, "The Musical Two." A great deal of fun arose from "Mr. Bert Gilbert in his famous Imitations." The originals represented the "imitations," and the popular comedian took to himself no end of kudos before letting the delighted audience into the secret. Miss Mabelle Morgan, who, since her appearance in these pantomimes three years ago as principal boy has been touring the halls in England and America, was warmly greeted after her tuneful singing of "Beautiful Garden of Roses." The rich-voiced mezzo-soprano presented a daring and imposing appearance as a prince in the blue silk, with an Oriental headdress of diamonds. Mr. [illegible] Le Brun, who last played here in "Humpty Dumpty," as an animal impersonator with Mr. Queen pleasantly renewed his acquaintance with Sydney playgoers in a comic number. During the afternoon Mr. Coventry made a cordial speech of thanks to all who had assisted, and of "good-bye" to the audience, and the curtain fell at last to the strains of "Auld Lang Syne."

SOUSA AND HIS BAND.

Provincial residents who are musical enthusiasts will be specially interested in the announcement contained in our commercial columns this morning, elucidating a plan whereby it is a simple matter for them to secure reserved seats for Sousa's Sydney season for one or more nights by simply complying with the conditions of the "coupon," and mailing it, as directed, to "E. Branscombe, Ltd., Carnegie's, King-street, city," where plans for the opening night will be available on Monday next.

Sousa, with his three-score musicians, will arrive by special train from Melbourne on Monday, 15th instant, and will be met at the Central Station by several hundred brother bandsmen, who have arranged to escort the "March King" to the Town Hall to the martial strains of some of his own stirring compositions. Sousa's Band performs for the first time at the Sydney Town Hall on the 15th instant, and thereafter every afternoon and evening till May 22.

CONCERT ENGAGEMENTS.

Messrs. W. H. Paling and Co. have organised a strong programme for a concert at the Town Hall next Monday evening, in aid of the Hospital Saturday Fund. In addition to the State Military Band, under Captain Bentley, A.R.C.M., and the St. Cecilia Choir, under Mr. Hector Fleming, the list of artists will incude Mme. Slapoffski, Misses Iris de Cairos Rego, Emilie Lambert, Minnie Gallagher, Messrs. Ernest Truman, Bryce Carter, and Harold Whittle. The plan is at Paling's.

To-morrow evening, at St. James's Hall, the Misses Violet Prott, Rosamond Parker, Lena Beaumont, and Ida Cordery will join in a vocal and instrumental concert. The artists assisting in an attractive programme will be Messrs. Charles Larsen, George S. Holburn, the St. Cecilia Ladies' Choir, and the Sydney Amateur Mandoline Society. Plans and invitations are at Nicholson's.

The Randwick District Musical Society's opening concert on Saturday will include selections from "Matha" and "Faust," and other items, with Miss Edie Hunt and Mr. Reg. Riemenschneider amongst the principals.

Miss Lily Mackenzie Seton, who is shortly leaving for Europe, will give a farewell concert at the Y.M.C.A. Hall next Tuesday evening, under Mr. Quesnel's direction. The favourite soprano will introduce songs by Massenet and Alfred Hill, with choral and orchestral effects, and will be supported by Messrs. Cyril Monk, Alfred Hill, Carl Gotsch, and Miss Gertrude Palmer. The plan is at Nicholson's.

Miss Robie Henry's concert has been fixed for next Wednesday evening, at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, when that well-known contralto will be associated in an attractive programme with Misses Queenie Fenton, Alice Kelly, Messrs. Harry Neil, W. G. Grieves, George S. Holburn, and a double quartet from the Garcia School of Music. The plan is at Nicholson's.

Under the auspices of the Hospital Amusement Association, an entertainment organised by Miss Ada Baker was given at the Walker Hospital on Saturday evening last. Part songs were contributed by Miss Baker's Ladies' Choir, songs by Misses Lily Mulholland, K. Alexander, G. and F. Baker, Trixie Hall, N. Ashe, and Messrs. R. Martin, H. Thomas (musical monologue), and H. R. Waring, with Miss V. Rewie as accompanist. The entertainment closed with a comedietta, cleverly performed by Miss Ada Baker and Mr. H. Thomas.

Mr. Nicholas J. Gehde's next concert at the Town Hall on Saturday evening week, May 13, will include (in addition to new items) the best features of his Good Friday concert. Mr. Gehde's original "Storm Fantasia" will be repeated. Misses Vera Parker, Elsie B. Peerless, Irene McPherson, Lilian Frost (organist), Ivy Allen, Messrs. Maurice Chenoweth, R. Irvine (flautist), Ernest Archer (N.Z. tenor), 16 Cathedral Chorister Boys, and the Meistersingers' Double Male Quartette, will assist. The plan is at Paling's, as notified.

Mr. Lawrence Campbell's season of six humorous and dramatic Monday night recitals will commence in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Monday evening next, when the popular entertainer will be assisted by Miss Josie Miles, Miss Lilian Frost, and Mrs. Shaw Mayer. The subscribers' plan opened last Wednesday, and many seats are already reserved. The plans for the general public open to-day at Nicholson's.

Messrs. Nicholson and Co. announce another attractive programme for Mrs. Haffenden-Smith's Saturday Popular Concert in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on May 13. Miss Bessie Beattie, Signor Zanelli, and Mr. Walter Bentley, the eminent tragedian, have been specially engaged for this concert, and other assisting artists will be Misses Gertrude Palmer, Aileen Neill, Katie Rappeneker, Millie Monahan, E. Murden, and Messrs. J. Coleman, Sid R. Brown, and Master Jack Moran. The plan and tickets are at Nicholson's.

A well-attended meeting was held at Messrs. Nicholson and Co.'s showroom on Monday, to make arrangements for Miss Josie Miles' concert at the Y.M.C.A. Hall on May 16, prior to the departure of that contralto from Sydney. The assisting artists will be Miss Bessie Beattie, Messrs. Cyril Monk, Charles Larsen, and George S. Holburn. The plan opens at Nicholson's on Saturday.

The Austral Quartet will open its 1911 season at the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Thursday, May 18, when the assisting artists will be Madame Cecilia Waldron and Mr. Laurence Godfrey Smith. The season will be conspicuous for the introduction to Sydney music-lovers of several new works of importance. The plans, which are being well-booked by subscribers, will open to the general public on Saturday, May 6. Prospectuses may be obtained at Nicholson's.

Mr. Walter Bentley will direct a costume recital by the pupils of his George-street College of Elocution and Dramatic Art at St. James's Hall on Thursday, May 18. The programme will include the farce, "The Spectre Bridegroom," a scene from "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and the second act of "The Lady of Lyons," by the students. Mr. Bentley will appear in a scene from "The Taming of the Shrew," and in the humorous historical episode, "The King and the Miller."

Mr. Walter Thomas Mills, M.A., the well-known American author and lecturer, is announced to give a series of lectures at the Protestant Hall, commencing Saturday week, on momentous social and political questions of the hour.

OTHER ENTERTAINMENTS.

At the Lyceum Mr. Charles Spencer's Theatrescope Company will present this afternoon and evening the Grand National Steeplechase of 1911, one of the most thrilling races ever screened. The new list of films will include the comedy "Neighbouring Kingdom," the strong drama, "The Doctor," a natural history study entitled "The Swans," and finally the big star subject, "The Fatal Wedding," which is regularly filling the house.

West's Pictures, this afternoon and evening, at the Palace Theatre, and also at the Glaciarium, will present as the central attraction "The Grand National of 1911," a desperate race, in which only one horse out of a record field failed to fall. "Motor-boat Racing," "Seth's Temptation," "What Shall we do with our old," "The Germination of Plants," and "Caliso's Childhood" are included.

On Saturday next West's Pictures, Limited, will open the Princess Theatre, now enlarged and improved, but recently known as the Bijou. The biograph reproduction of Sir Herbert Tree in "Henry VIII" has reached the Glaciarium, and will be the next big attraction.

At the Lyric Theatre, also at the Colonial Theatre No. 1, and the Colonial Theatre No. 2, on the opposite side of George-street, the J. D. Williams direction offers continuous photo-play entertainments, with an entirely different programme at each of these fine houses. The hours are from 11 a.m. until 11 p.m., and only the newest and best films from Europe and America are presented.

Next Tuesday afternoon half the gross takings from these theatres will be handed over by Mr. Williams to the Citizens' Fund for the Coronation Cadets.

At the Alhambra Theatre continuous photo-play entertainments are the rule from 10 a.m. until 11 p.m., at which the latest star films are shown, with music and realistic effects.

At the King's Theatre, George and Harris streets, the list of pictures shown at the continuous entertainments will include the star films "What Shall we do with our old," "Fisher Folk," and "Crossing the Alps in a Motor."

At the Empire Theatre, Oxford-street, the new programme will comprise the calamitous "Grand National Steeplechase of 1911," "Dogs Not Admitted," "Plucky Western Kid," and specialities by the Musical Sheppards, Hugo and Olfra, and Ida Bowers.

At the American Picture Palace there will be a complete change of programme, with the latest films and new illustrated songs. Continuous entertainments are the rule at this Pitt-street house.

At the North Sydney Coliseum, the roller-skating season is in full swing, with three sessions daily on the vast, smooth floor space, and music all the time. Continuous shows of photo-plays from 7.30 till 10 p.m. are the rule.

Wirth Brothers' Circus now enters upon its last four nights in the great tents at Prince Alfred Park, where the final matinees are notified for this afternoon and Saturday afternoon.

MR. HARRISON ALLEN'S RECITAL.

Mr. Harrison Allen directed the annual recital of the pupils from his studio last night at St. James's Hall, which was densely crowded. The artist himself closed the evening with a performance of the Bond and Trial scenes from the "Merchant of Venice," to which he contributed a well-conceived and carefully-elaborated study of Shylock. Miss Lottie Glenfield was the Portia, Mr. Stanley Ravenscroft the Antonio, and Mr. Brenan Marsden the Duke of Venice, and a creditable performance was given. In the earlier part of the evening Mr. Cyril Monk played his own extremely difficult violin setting of Schumann's beautiful "Widmung," followed by an exceedingly spirited and brilliant rendering of Papini's "Capriccio alla Tarantella" (encored). Mr. Nelson Illingworth was the accompanist. Violin ensembles by pupils from the Cyril Monk studio were also a feature. The chief successes amongst those who recited were made by Miss Millie Cleland in "Gabriel Grub," her facial expressions of fear and dismay, truculence, timidity, and glee being all excellent, and her changes of voice clever; and by Mr. M. Shaw, who showed feeling and an adroit management of the rhythmic verse in "The Storming Party" (Conan Doyle). Miss Ida Lee, Miss Gladys Shaw, Miss Leila Coppola, Mr. Brenan Marsden, and Mr. C. Rawson all did well, the standard being satisfactorily high.

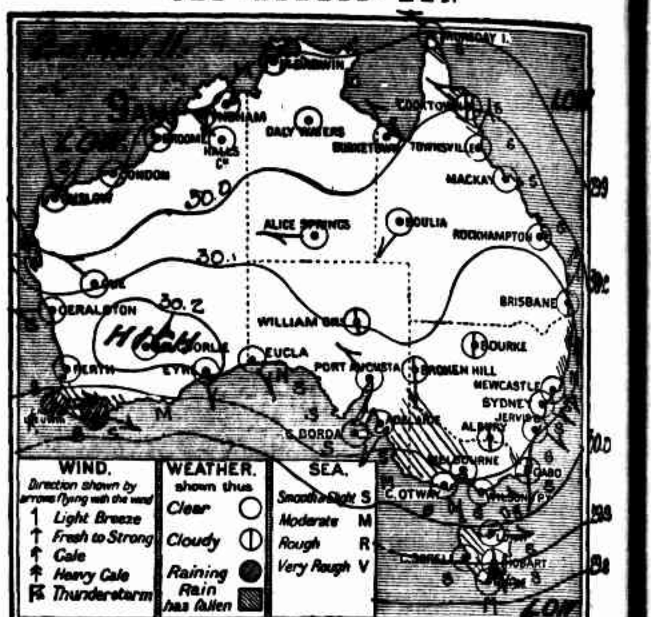
LEVUKA, FROM FIJI.

The A.U.S.N. Company's steamer Levuka, which left Sydney on March 15 for Fiji and Noumea, returned to Port Jackson yesterday. Fiji was left at 10 p.m. on Thursday. Lovely weather was encountered on the outward trip, making it possible for all sorts of deck games to be indulged in. A feature of the trip was that passengers could keep up communication with their friends and the world by wireless. On the return trip a moderate south-west gale was encountered; but owing to the vessel's seaworthiness few suffered any effects from the sea. A record shipment of bananas, viz., 46,125 bunches, came by this steamer. The cargo: 39,101 bunches and 3407 cases of bananas; 301 cases mandarins, 5304 sacks copra, 641 sacks shell, 65 sacks hides, 21 sacks cocoanuts, 34 packages sundries.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



A considerable change has taken place since Monday in the pressure distribution over Australia and the Tasman Sea. The whole of the Continent is now under high pressure control; the system, however, has not much character, but its centre, which has a somewhat dumb-bell shape, lies over the southern portion of the mainland, with its major axis running east to west, from the New South Wales coast to beyond the west coast of Western Australia.

There is still evidence of slight monsoonal activity in northern parts of the Continent, and the tropical depression which was responsible for the recent rain and rough seas on our north coast has extended in a south-easterly direction to the North Island of New Zealand, where it has intensified.

The Antarctic disturbance, which yesterday appeared favourable for rain in western and southern parts of the State, has been displaced southward by the high pressure (above mentioned), and now lies in a rather incipient condition over the Southern Ocean.

Ocean Forecasts.—Slight to moderate winds and seas over Southern Ocean, with rather squally weather west of the Bight.

SORTING AND STACKING CHARGE.

Importers and consignees are notified that by arrangement with the steamship companies concerned all cargo landed at Sydney ex steamers despatched on and after April 1, 1911, from United Kingdom, the Continent of Europe, and from east coast North American ports, will be sorted and stacked, and be subject to a sorting and stacking charge, payable at the office of the steamer's agents before the issue of delivery orders, on the following scale, until further notice:—

General cargo, n.e.i.	6d per ton	Weight or measurement as per steamer's manifest.
Scrap iron	6d per ton
Pig iron	6d per ton
Cement	6d per ton
Phosphate and sulphur in bags	6d per ton
Salt in large bags	6d per ton
Salt in small bags	6d per ton
Rock salt	6d per ton

STOCK EXCHANGE PRACTICE.

The Stock Exchange of Melbourne, says the "Argus," will not list companies whose articles of association contain the provision that "no director shall be disqualified, or be considered to have been disqualified, from acting by reason of the forfeiture of his shares for non-payment of calls if he shall pay the calls due thereon before the same shall be sold." The argument in favour of permitting a director to retain his seat under the circumstances is that he may inadvertently have omitted to pay the call. As a rule the qualification for a seat on a mining board is only a small holding of shares. Directors, therefore, should be able always to arrange with the legal manager to protect them to the extent of their qualification. If they are not prepared to safeguard their seats that far, then no sympathy can be felt for them if they lose their positions on the board. One of the greater complaints made against the management of certain mining companies has been that directors have failed to pay calls on their shares, allowing outside holders to keep the companies alive. All the while the members of the board have had the advantage that accrues from an inside knowledge of the work done on the mine. Therefore, if matters improved they could pay up arrears of calls, and so retain their seat and their scrip. On the other hand, if drift was shown, they would let their shares be finally forfeited. The Stock Exchange, in trying to stop practices of the kind, is performing a public service.

PROPOSED AMALGAMATION OF THE SAVINGS BANKS.

A "Depositor" writes:—

Sir,—I hope the Government is in earnest in its proposal to amalgamate the two savings banks. They are both Government concerns, both run for the same purpose—the encouragement of thrift—and are beginning to seriously compete with one another. The benefits that go with the State Bank, and which one cannot get from the Barrack-street branch are very apparent, the one having exchange and transfer advantages through its post-office branches in almost every town in the State, and by arrangement with other States throughout Australia, whilst the Barrack-street Bank's depositor can deal only with its dozen or so branches in the larger towns of the State. The saving in office expenses, etc., would be very great, and for the benefit of the depositors.

EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

The report of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States states that the society's assets on December 31 amounted to £100,207,848, an increase of £954,566, while the surplus over liabilities was £16,047,165. The society paid out in cash bonuses to its policy-holders during the year the sum of £2,171,711, which is the largest sum ever paid in one year, and shows an increase over the previus year of £115,896. The total amount paid out to policy holders during the year amounted to £10,920,112, an increase of £299,911. The amount paid in death claims shows a very substantial decrease, the total (£3,934,191) expended being £232,000 less than in the previous year. The amount of new assurance was £22,188,21 on 39,400 policies, and the oustanding assurance increased to £276,841,111. The income from interest, dividends, and rents amounted to £4,185,865. The premium income now stands at £10,744,917, while commission and expenses show a decrease of £44,680, as compared with 1909.

AERATED BREAD CO. INCREASE DIVIDEND.

The second half-yearly report of the above company states that the turnover was well maintained, notwithstanding the loss of trade, amounting to £10,000 per annum, consequent upon closing premises at 156 Pitt-street. Receipts for the half-year established a record at headquarters, and satisfactory business was done at the branches. A net profit of £3140 was made, which with £18 brought forward made £3159 available. The directors propose to transfer £650 to general depreciation account, £1000 to the reserve fund, to pay a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, absorbing £1400, and to carry £109 forward. The following comparison may be made:—

	Half-year ended Sept. 30, 1910.	Mar. 31.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

W. H. M'Carthy, Ltd., has been registered with a capital of £4310 in shares of £1 each, of which 4300 have been issued fully paid-up, the object being to acquire the business of W. H. M'Carthy, chemist and druggist.

Page and Co., Ltd., has a capital of £5000 in shares of £1 each, and will acquire the business of Page and Co., patent medicine manufacturers, etc.

Gavin Gibson and Co., Ltd., has gone into liquidation, Mr. J. L. Cabena having been appointed liquidator.

Fred Alderson and Co., Ltd., has gone into liquidation, and Messrs. F. Alderson and W. Williamson have been appointed liquidators.

The annual report of the Yang-tsze Insurance Association, Limited, shows that a dividend of 12 dollars per share, equal to 20 per cent., has been declared.

It is notified that the partnership hitherto existing between Ivan Nelson and George John Robertson, trading as Nelson and Robertson, shipping agents and merchants, has been dissolved by mutual consent. The business will in future be carried on under the trade name of Nelson and Robertson by Mr. Ivan Nelson.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

CEMENT EASIER. CORNSACKS STRONGER.

Business of satisfactory volume was done in most lines of general merchandise yesterday. The jute market was again extremely firm, with an advancing tendency, except in woolpacks, which were steady at 2/4½ on spot. There was no business, however, doing at this price. Cornsacks maintained the quotation of 5/6, and small lots of 10 bales each were obtained at this price. On the quotation cabled from Calcutta yesterday, the landed cost of cornsacks for August-September-October shipment would be 5/8½. There was some movement in branbags. Two hundred and fifty bales were sold by one holder. Sales could be made at 3/11, but some of the larger holders at the close of the day were asking 4/. For May shipment only the Calcutta price is equal to a landed cost here of 4/1, and for June to September shipment the landed cost on the cabled price would be 4/2½. For 16oz orebags 2/9 was asked, and for 20oz 3/3.

In metal lines a fair amount of business was transacted in heavy goods, such as wire-nettings, barbed wire, and fencing wire, still nothing like the volume of days in February, and the first half of March. Lighter lines, axes, shovels, picks, scythes, were in heavy demand at quoted rates. Cement was somewhat easier, owing to the possibility of a settlement of the dispute between the wharf labourers and the local manufacturers. Until it is seen how the negotiations will proceed buyers will not be too anxious to do anything but most necessary purchases. In the oil market a determined effort was being made to "bear" Pinetree property, but without much avail, although there were one or two holders who were inclined to weaken, stories of sales in Melbourne on Sydney account at a less price than current quotations having unsettled their idea of true values. The quotation was given at 5/9 for Pinetree, distributing, and for Pratts 6/ for wholesale and distributing lots. Champion's white lead continued scarce, up to £30/10/ a ton being asked for cwts and £31 a ton for quarters.

In Eastern produce, the anticipated advance in tapioca was realised, prices being increased £1 a ton all round. Flaked sold at 24/ per cwt. Higher cost at the centre of production, mentioned a few days ago, due to drought and dearer labour, has caused the advance. The auction was the principal centre of attraction in tea, to good competition; 620 packages of Ceylons and Javas sold up to /10. The local market is in an uninteresting condition, and is dragging, while Colombo is rising. A fair amount of Indian and Ceylon teas are selling for export to Queensland, South Australia, and New Zealand, buyers from those centres finding that they obtain better value here than by importing direct.

MARKING OF CARDS.

The Customs Department, not being satisfied with its regulations regarding the marking on such cards as Sunday-school reward, Christmas greeting, and other similar card, has cancelled G.O. 1562 (4), and has substituted the following:—(1) Cards.—Sunday-school reward, Christmas, etc., and greeting, bearing English words, but printed in a foreign country, the qualification as to origin must be marked in a prominent manner as under:—(A) Sunday-school reward cards imported in sheets, and so retailed. The qualification must be clearly printed on the margin of each sheet (marking on the boxes or packets will not be accepted). (B) Christmas, greeting, etc., singly or in packets of boxes. (a) The required qualification appearing prominently and legibly on the face of the card will comply with requirements. (b) Where, however, there is an inset to the card the qualification may, in lieu of being marked on the face appear prominently and legibly on such inset. If any English wording appears on the inset the qualification must appear in conjunction therewith. (c) Where there is no inset the qualification may, in lieu of being marked on the face, appear prominently and legibly on the back of the card. (2) The printing of the country of origin in an inconspicuous manner cannot be accepted. (3) Importers concerned are to be notified and full publicity given to these instructions. (4) Order 1292 and C.I. 11/65 are hereby cancelled.

CALICO, UNBLEACHED.

The Customs authorities notify:—"The provisions of the regulations do not apply to unbleached calico in the piece, and the marking of such is not to be insisted upon."

SUBSTITUTE FOR DUTIABLE GOODS.

Acting under section 139 of the Customs Act the Minister for Trade and Customs has directed that, as he is of opinion zincolic flux can be used as a substitute for Brunswick black, which is a dutiable article, and for the purposes for which Brunswick black can be used, zincolic flux shall, upon importation, be charged with the duty chargeable on Brunswick black.

ACTIVITY IN JUTE.

Just now the jute market is animated, especially as regards cornsacks. Prices of all jute fabrics here are below the laid down costs of new season's goods in Calcutta, and when on Friday last, as noted in our market report, cable advices were received of a stiff advance in cornsacks in confirmation of the reported shortage, the news reacted in the market here. There was immediately a very definite upward movement, and with heavy buyings the price has in two days advanced from 5/4 to 5/6 a bale. Woolpacks have remained firm. They have not shared in the upward movement, because Calcutta is inclined to be a trifle weak over this fabric. The mills have manufactured a large number in advance of requirements, and now they cannot understand why no orders are coming forward from Australia. Merchants here believed that the stories of shortage of jute were not to be credited, so they have hung back in ordering. Now Calcutta is wondering what is affecting this market, and to obtain orders the manufacturers have made some speculative prices, but they have not cut sufficiently low to attract the purchasing of large quantities. Should a large order be sent, say, for 5000 bales, there would be an immediate firming of the market. Orders must be sent for woolpacks in the next eight weeks; the packs must leave India not later than the end of June, so that it now simply resolves itself into a struggle between the millowners in Calcutta and the merchants in Australia as to who will hold out longest. April shipments of jute are already on the way by the steamer Sangola. Their numbers and destinations are:—

	For Sydney. Bales.	For Melbourne. Bales.
Woolpacks	600	550
Branbags	—	—
Cornsacks	150	—

There are no shipments for Adelaide, and it will be seen the only shipment for Melbourne is one of woolpacks. When we add these figures to the shipments by the Itonus (January), Janus (February), Hymettus (March), the totals are:—

Four Months' Shipments.	For Sydney. Bales.	For Melbourne. Bales.	For Adelaide. Bales.
Woolpacks	4800	1100	1850
Branbags	741	1296	325
Cornsacks	1650	425	850

The amount of wool manifested at Darling Harbour yesterday totalled 430 bales.

BREADSTUFFS.

There was little movement in the wheat market yesterday. Small amounts were obtained at the price offered by shippers in the country, viz., 3/. The dry weather it is considered is responsible for the small quantity being put on the market, farmers preferring to wait and see what effect the dry weather will have on the sprouting grain. Shippers' price was equal to 3/4 to 3/4½, ex truck Sydney, and millers would buy at 3/6. The market in London was cabled firm, near-at-hand cargoes realising 34/6 a quarter of 480lb, and others offering at 34/3.

Flour was in fair demand at the association price of £8/5/. The country was buying rather freely. Continued dry weather has accentuated the demand for bran and pollard, and the Millers' Association has accordingly increased the price by another 5/ a ton, the quotation being £5 10/. The price has increased by 10/ a ton since Friday last, and by 25/ in the month.

At Darling Harbour yesterday, 955 tons wheat and 154 tons flour were manifested to arrive.

LONDON WOOL SALES.

The Australian Estates and Mortgage Company, Ltd., is in receipt of the following cablegram from its London office:—"The list of arrivals for the third series of London wool sales has closed. The total fresh arrivals amount to 266,500 bales, of which 243,500 bales have been forwarded direct to Yorkshire and the Continent. Including 38,000 bales carried forward from the last series of sales, the total quantity available for disposal in the ensuing series is 201,000 bales, as compared with 177,000 bales available for the corresponding series of last year." Cablegrams of similar effect have been received by Dalgety and Co., Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., and the Australian Mercantile, Land, Finance Company, Ltd.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

Wheat brought 3/4½ trucks, Port Adelaide, farmers' lots. Farmers are selling moderately. Some inquiry was received for parcels at 3/5½ to 3/6 per bushel f.o.b., but no sales were made. Oats were firmer for export, most sellers asking 2/5 f.o.b. Bran and pollard were firm at 1/2 and 1/3 respectively, delivered Adelaide. Barley's buying price was Cape 1/9 to 2/ per bushel trucks, Port Adelaide; English malting up to 3/9. Butter had an active demand. Best factory brought /11 to /12½, dairy /10½ to /11½. Store and collectors' butter was firmer at /8½ to /9½. Eggs eased to 1/4½. Best honey had a ready sale at /2½. Almonds had a good demand; Brandis /8½.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Wheat was firm, but quiet, at 3/5½ to 3/6. Farmer's lots made 3/4 to 3/5. Flour brought £8. Bran and pollard advanced 5/, and are now quoted at £5/10/. Barley, malting, brought 4/ to 5/, Cape malting 2/3 to 2/4, feed 1/8 to 2/. Oats were firmer. Milling made 2/0½ to 2/1½, heavy dry feed 1/11 to 2/0½, fair 1/10 to 1/11. Maize had steady business at 2/3 ex store. Peas brought 4/3. Chaff was firm. Choice oaten made 65/ to 67/6, good 60/ to 62/6, medium 50/ to 55/, choice wheaten 67/6 to 70/, prime 60/ to 62/6, medium 50/ to 55/. Hay, manger, 80/ to 90/, manger sheaves 60/ to 70/, chaffing sheaves 35/ to 50/, straw 15/ to 32/6, Tasmanian 52/6 to 55/. Potatoes, Carmens, choice brought £5 15/ to £6; Brownells, Excelsior, and Snowflakes £4 to £5/10/, Pinkeyes £4 to £5. Onions made 35/ to 40/. Tea had a better demand, and brisk business up to 1/. Cornsacks were firmer, and had good business at 5/4½, and sellers are now asking 5/6.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

TRADE IN SUSSEX-STREET.

ONIONS FIRM.

The only change in the prices quoted on Tuesday was in onions, which stood at the improved figure of £3 10/. The potato market was unaltered; the shipments to hand gave promise of opening up well, and should sell quickly. Chaff was going at £4/10/ for best wheaten and £4 for best oaten. The shipments to hand were generally in good condition, and as nearly all store stuff is cleared out, there should be a good demand for this week's arrivals. Maize showed a decidedly firm tone, 2/6 being the price. There was no difficulty in disposing of grain at that figure, and from appearances one might almost expect a rise before long, though it is possible that the supplies may increase sufficiently to meet the demand. Straw was unaltered, and of all other lines the same may be said. Generally speaking, trade was very brisk, the sleepy tone that characterised the end of last month having vanished completely, and a decidedly alert and active tone having set in all along "the street." Bran and pollard have advanced each 5/.

Current quotations were:—

FORAGE.

Chaff.—Local: Extra choice, £5; local or Victorian, wheaten, best green, £4/5/ to £4 10/, others £4; oaten, prime £3/15/ to £4, other qualities £3/7/6 to £3 12/6; shandy, £3/15/.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

EGGS SCARCE AND DEARER.

GOOD HONEY MOVING FREELY.

The new-laid egg market has now reached a critical condition; the eggs are scarcely procurable, and the demand is good. One may gain an idea of the pass to which things are now come from the following figures. One leading merchant stated on Tuesday that a consignor who usually brings in something like 50 dozen per week brought in only eight dozen duck eggs and seven dozen hen eggs this week. Another producer who has something like 400 head of fowls was reaping the insignificant harvest of under a dozen eggs per day, and, in consequence, was forwarding his fowls to market, as they no longer paid for their keep. All along the street the same tale was told, and while the reporter was chatting with one large merchant, a consignor arrived with his lot—three dozen. As a result of this remarkable diminution in the supply of new-laid eggs and consequent high price, the public demand is being forced off the high-grade article, which is now costing something like 2d a piece, and attention is being turned to the railway eggs and coastals. Railways on Tuesday were quoted at the excellent price of 1/10 by some merchants, though with most 1/9 was about top price asked. The quality of these high-priced railway eggs is coming closer and closer to that of new-laids, and, in fact, are good enough for all ordinary purposes, and as the cold weather continues must so closely approximate to the higher-priced article that those who go for an egg at 2d will be purely wasting money. The coastal egg, a very variable article, in many cases only fit for the destructor, in just as many quite up to table standard, is now selling at 1/5 when candled, and there seems a likelihood that 1/6 or 1/7 may be reached if present conditions continue. There was a very good demand for honey when of good quality, choice western being hard to obtain.

The following prices were ruling:—

Butter.—Selected grocers' brands 98/, other prime brands, 88/ to 90/, secondary 78/ to 88/ per cwt, pastry 70/ to 76/ per cwt.

Lard.—Bulk, /5½; packets, /6¼; special packets, /6¾; bulk, /6½ per lb.

Cheese.—Prime loaf, /5¾ to /6, large /4¾ to /5, medium size /4¾ to /4½, good /4 to /4½, inferior from /3, special /6½ to /7 per lb.

Bacon.—Prime factory, sides /6¾ to /7, flitches /6½ to /7, middles /8½ to /9; special sides /7¼, middles /9¼ to /10, flitches /7¼, shoulder /5½ per lb.

Hams.—Bacon /8 to /9, prepared /9½ to /11; special double covers, 1/; single cloth, /11 to 1/ per lb.

Eggs.—Northern River, 1/3 to 1/4, candled 1/5; South Coast and railway, 1/5 to 1/6, choice graded lots 1/8 to 1/9; suburban, new-laid 2/ to 2/2, choice graded 2/4 to 2/5; duck eggs, 1/2 to 1/5, choice 1/7 to 1/8 per dozen.

POULTRY.

The following prices were ruling:—Hens, extra choice to 3/6, good 2/9 to 3/; roosters, extra choice 4/, good 3/ to 3/6; chickens, small 1/ to 1/6; Muscovy ducks, 3/ to 3/3; drakes, 3/6 to 4/; English ducks, 2/3 to 2/9; turkeys, choice hens 5/ to 6/; cocks, heavy 10/ to 13/, light 7/ to 8/; geese, 4/ to 5/; guineafowls, 4/6; pigeons, 1/6 per pair.

Messrs. Mossman and Ellis report having obtained the following prices at their auction sale on Tuesday:—Eggs, case to 1/7, new laid 2/ to 2/2, choice suburban to 2/4, duck eggs to 1/10 per dozen; fowls, young roosters 2/9 to 4/, choice suburban to 5/6, a few extra to 6/6 per pair, small from 2/, fat hens 3/3 to 4/, choice suburban to 5/; ducks, English 2/ to 3/, choice suburban to 3/6, muscovy 3/ to 3/6, choice suburban to 4/; drakes, muscovy 4/ to 5/, choice suburban to 6/3; turkeys, hens, good to 8/, choice to 10/, cocks, good to 15/, prime to 22/6; pigeons to 2/ per pair. A short supply of eggs was to hand, prices being very firm. Poultry sold freely at above quotations.

APIARY PRODUCTS.

The following were the ruling prices:—

Honey.—Choice western, /3; extra choice, /3½; good northern, /2½; dark and candied, /1; rough, /1½ per lb.

Beeswax.—Prime clear 1/1 to 1/3, dark 1/ to 1/1 per lb.

AUCTION SALES.

THE RAILWAY MARKET.

POTATOES LOWER; OTHER LINES FIRMER.

All commodities offered at the Redfern yard on Tuesday were keenly contested, with the exception of potatoes, of which there were 5000 bags. Buyers, too, of this branch of goods were not much in evidence, which accounted for the decrease of 10/ in price. Prime lots sold at from 5/ to 5/3, good 4/ to 4/8, medium 3/9 to 3/9, and inferior 1/6. Prime chick wheat moved off at 2/11½ to 3/0½, and good at 2/9½ to 2/10. Prime dry yellow maize found purchasers at 2/3 per bushel, pumpkins 30/ and 40/, and Rice 25/ per ton. Lucerne chaff was affected for the better to the extent of 5/, prime lots bringing 4/7, and medium 3/6. Chaff showed up 3/4 better, the whole of the consignments yarded, with the exception of 2 truck-loads, being of prime and choice quality. Choice oaten chaff went briskly at 4/9, prime at 4/ to 4/2. Choice grade wheaten found plenty of offers at 4/9 to 5/2, prime at 4/9; a truck of good sold at 3/7, and one of box straw chaff at 3/1.

CITY YARDS.

There were 1320 pigs yarded at the city yards on Tuesday, and porkers showed a firmer tone generally, but other lines were unaltered.

Ruling prices were:—

Best backfatters to 65/, good 50/ to 55/, others from 40/.

Best baconers 45/ to 47/, good 40/ to 44/, medium 35/ to 38/, others from 32/.

Best porkers, 28/ to 32/, good 24/ to 27/, prime light 21/ to 23/6, light and inferior from 16/.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the live stock market to-day 23,000 fat sheep were yarded. The demand was inactive throughout. In good and prime crossbreds and merinos prices ruled from /6 to 1/ per head lower, while for medium and useful grades of which the bulk of the supply consisted, biddings were slack, and prices decidedly in favour of buyers. Quotations: Prime crossbred wethers from 15/6 to 17/, extra from 18/ to 19/9, good from 13/9 to 15/9, seconds (including hoggets) from 12/ upwards; prime crossbred ewes from 13/ to 14/3, extra from 15/ to 16/9, a few higher, good from 10/ to 12/, medium from 8/; prime merino wethers from 14/ to 15/6, extra from 16/6 to 16/9, good from 11/ to 13/6, second and inferior from 7/6 to 10/, with merino ewes from 4/9 to 12/. Fat lambs: 10,000 were penned. The market was a gradually weakening one, especially for prime heavy descriptions, which gradually receded to decidedly lower rates. For medium and useful grades prices were about maintained. Prime sold at from 11/ to 12/, extra 12/ to 13/, a few 13/6 to 14/3, good sold at from 10/3 to 10/9, second and inferior from 7/6.

HOLIDAY ON LONDON EXCHANGE.

LOCAL OPERATORS "MARKING TIME."

In view of the fact that Monday was observed as a holiday on the London Stock Exchange, the local market had no guide yesterday morning as to the condition of either the London metal market or the London Stock Exchange quotations for Australian stocks.

With the price of metals disclosing, in some instances, almost daily fluctuations, the silence of London, even for one day only, has a disturbing effect locally. The morning was no exception to the rule. A similar state of things appeared to prevail in Adelaide and Melbourne, telegrams stating that the Stock Exchanges of those cities were very slack.

Operators on the Sydney Stock Exchange appeared to have come to the conclusion that the best thing to do, for the present at all events, was to "mark time." A glance at the list of sales recorded will show that they did so, for only five stocks were dealt in—one each in the copper and silver divisions and two gold stocks.

Naturally enough, with such a listless feeling abroad, the buying offers showed very little strength in the majority of instances. The most striking exception was Mount Elliotts. Chillagoe, contg., Queen Bee in the copper sections; British Broken Hill and Zinc Corporation, ordinary, in the silver division, with Bullfinch Proprietary and Greenfinch wanted at better rates. As regards tin propositions, they were very much in the background. Even Tongkah Harbour Tin was very quiet, operators holding off in view of the near approach of the time for reporting the April yield.

A slight improvement took place during the afternoon in the amount of business transacted, but still the market was far from approaching activity. In the copper division, Great Fitzroy sold again on the down grade, Tolwong Mineral was a fraction steadier; whilst Mount Morgans sold very firmly at 67/6.

Silver shares were, again, very much in the background, though British Broken Hill (old) were, again, in firmer request; the same being the case with Amalgamated Zinc. Sulphide Corporation, ordinary, recovered a shade from the previous day's weakness. In the gold division, Cosmopolitan, contributing, sold at a better rate, whilst Bullfinch Proprietary improved from 21/3 to 22/6; with firm offers for Greenfinch. Despite a better yield of tin for the month of April by the Tongkah Harbour Tin Dredging Company, the shares dropped from 37/3 to 35/9—such are the vagaries of the market.

The Broken Hill Proprietary Company has received a cable message, dated London, May 1, giving the following quotations:—Silver, 2/0 9-16 (official quotation); lead, £12/15/ (buyers' price); and spelter, £24/2/6 (buyers' price).

NEW HILLGROVE PROPRIETARY MINES.

Regarding the circular letter published in Saturday's issue of the "Herald," giving the terms on which Mr. E. W. Janson, the English purchaser of the mine, is prepared to form a new company to work the property, a misapprehension exists in certain quarters respecting the nature of the terms. It is erroneously believed that Mr. Janson proposes to form a company in 50,000 shares of £1 each, 20,000 of these shares to be allotted to him, with the option of a call on 5000 £1 shares within three years, 20,000 contributing shares to be issued to the old shareholders at 2/ each paid, with a liability of 18/ each to be called up, the remaining shares to be held in reserve.

It is stated officially that such are not the terms of the proposal. They are as follows:—That the company be constituted in 500,000 shares of 2/ each, which means a capital of £50,000; that Mr. Janson takes 200,000 shares, equal to £20,000, with an option on 5000 2/ shares at par. This would leave 200,000 contributing shares to be issued to old shareholders at 2/ per share, with no further liability on them, and leaving 50,000 shares held in reserve.

TONGKAH HARBOUR TIN.

MUCH IMPROVED OUTPUT.

A telegram received at the Stock Exchange, from the Hobart secretary of the Tongkah Harbour Tin Dredging Company gave the following details of the company's dredging operations during April:—

		Tons.	Cwt.
No. 1 dredge	507 hours	12	17
No. 2 dredge	516 hours	15	7
No. 3 dredge	507 hours	21	0
No. 4 dredge	629 hours	38	2
No. 5 dredge	85 hours	4	4
Total	2254	91	10

The above yield compares with previous ones as follows:—

	Tons.	Cwt.	Average, per hour.
Dec. yield, 3 dredges, 1401 hours	34	19	55.86lb
Jan. yield, 3 dredges, 1550 hours	51	17	75.90lb
Feb. yield, 3 dredges, 1172 hours	36	7	69.41lb
March yield, 4 dredges, 2007 hours	75	8	84.15lb
April yield, 5 dredges, 2254 hours	91	10	90.93lb

An official note stated that No. 5 dredge worked 1¼ mile from the shore for 85 hours on tin. Presumably the dredge worked some time on overburden.

MINING IN THE STATE.

GLOUCESTER, Tuesday.

The manager of the Mount Copeland mine has received a telegram from Ballarat to stop all labour connected with the development of the mine.

BROKEN HILL MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

Local shareholders are very annoyed over the new call of the B.H. Junction Company. The investigation committee should inquire into the reason of this call. Nothing can be gleaned concerning the alleged new offer to take over the property. Absolute silence reigns locally concerning the mine and the proposals for its future.

The B.H. Block 14 mine last week raised and despatched 440 tons of carbonate ore of the usual grade to the B.H. Proprietary Company at Port Pirie.

At the B.H. South mine the crosscut at the 1070ft level was carried to 28ft in poorly mineralised ground. The north drive at this level is also in mineralised ground. At a distance of 223ft diamond drilling shows no good results. The despatches for the week totalled 558 tons of concentrates. Big headway is being made with construction works on surface.

THE CHILLAGOE COMPANY.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC RESUMED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Chillagoe Company reports that on the Zillmanton the Reid shaft was cut down 20ft, total 50ft. The water is unchanged. Nos. 1 and 2 shafts are bailing continually. The water is down 60ft below the 250ft level in No. 1 shaft. The Otho was sunk at the rate of 5ft for the week. The face is in limestone.

The new buildings on the Etheridge field are progressing satisfactorily, and goods are now coming through freely from Cairns. The railway lifted 1000 tons on Saturday and Sunday, including 200 tons of coke, and despatched 132 tons of blister copper for shipment. The trains are now running through to Etheridge.

THE GOLDEN WEST.

FURTHER RICH DISCOVERIES ALLEGED.

SOUTHERN CROSS, Tuesday.

Reports from the Greenfinch Company's property at Bodallen are still of a satisfactory nature. Some very rich stone has been brought into Southern Cross. The reef has been proved for 400 or 500 yards, and good values have been struck on the lease held by Duff and party adjoining the Greenfinch property. The find has been visited by many mining men, whose reports are unanimous in their optimism. The locality is roughly 40 miles west of Southern Cross, and six miles from Carrabin siding.

Good gold has been struck within the last day or two at Marvel Loch, on a property known as M'Auley's Find, and now owned by M'Farlane and Finlayson. The stope is said to be exceptionally rich. This property has been worked for years with varying success, but the owners are now satisfied they have struck permanent ore, which will pay handsomely.

Rumours were current in Southern Cross yesterday to the effect that a good discovery has been made in the new main shaft of the Bullfinch property at a depth of 157ft, but so far there is no official confirmation. To-morrow Mr. Doolette will pay his first visit to the mine since his return from England.

Later.

The latest report from the Greenfinch Company's Boodallin property is that the reef has widened to 5ft, carrying high values over that width.

Yesterday's news that a good development had occurred at Marvel Loch on M'Auley's find, now known as the Scorpo, was endorsed to-day by the owners bringing in 66oz of gold crushed from half a ton of stone. They state that the present face of the reef is 4ft wide, and worth 5oz over the full width. They are, however, practically debarred from working their property, owing to the present labour trouble at the Marvel Loch, and had to pick out the richest of their stone to provide them with funds.

The manager of the Jacoletti battery at Marvel Loch also states that his mill is hung up through the labour trouble, and he already has 1400 tons of public crushing booked, some of it very rich stone. Up to date this battery has crushed 14,000 tons for the public for an average of 10s.

A discovery of good values is also reported from the Mountain Prince, which adjoins the Mountain Queen. The Prince is a privately-owned property and was or is, under option to Bewick, Moreing and Co.

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

Boppy Boulder Gold Mining Company (April 22).—Since the report of April 10 the north drive off the west crosscut at the 200ft level extended further 9ft in lode. Samples submitted for assay from 7ft to 15ft along drive resulted as follows:—Glassy quartz with ochreous clay, containing gold 3dwt 4 gr, silver 4dwt 8gr, and grey quartz with a little galena, containing gold 3dwt 6gr and silver 1oz 12dwt 16gr. General samples are in assayer's hands to be tested from 18ft to the 27ft. The grey quartz containing the galena has been gone through. It came in in bands ranging from 1ft to 2ft wide for about 7ft of the drive.

Mount David Company (week ended April 29).—No. 2 main shaft sunk 11ft, total 229ft. Sinking is still through soft slate country. Baling one shift at No. 1 main shaft.

GOOD AS A GOLD MINE.

AND VERY MUCH SAFER.

THE GREAT GUANO INDUSTRY.

The proposal to form a company in Sydney to exploit the immense deposits of guano on the Island of Walpole, south-east of New Caledonia, is creating exceptional interest among investors, and applications for shares are being freely made to the secretary, Mr. B. J. M'Dougall, 1-4 Imperial-chambers, 16 O'Connell-street. The facts that appeal most strongly to capitalists are that the deposits on Walpole Island have been proved beyond doubt to disclose over 700,000 tons of alluvial and phosphate rock; that there is an enormous and increasing demand for guano as a fertiliser; that the company can offer, and without question sell, a 60 per cent. fertiliser for about £4 per ton; that the shipping facilities could not be bettered; that the working expenses are extremely small; and that the most skilled and approved accountancy shows an estimated profit of 40 per cent. on the issued capital. Full particulars of this highly attractive investment can be obtained at the secretary's office. The brokers of the company are Messrs. Wallace H. Smith and Co., of 109 Pitt-street, who are now receiving applications for shares, for which there is a big demand.—Advt.

COUNTRY NEWS.

SOUTH COAST.

ALBION PARK, Tuesday.

The Coroner, Mr. C. W. Craig, held an inquiry in connection with the destruction of the Commercial Stores by fire on Friday morning last. After evidence, an open verdict was returned.

On account of certain irregularities in connection with the election of the committee for the Albion Park A.H. and I. Society, the committee have decided in accordance with legal advice obtained to hold a fresh election.

Mr. W. J. Whitty, the Australian cricketer, who underwent an operation for appendicitis about three weeks ago, is not as well to-day as his friends would wish.

WOLLONGONG, Tuesday.

A special Licensing Court sat yesterday and to-day hearing two separate petitions for hotel licenses at Port Kembla. One of the applications was by Charles M'Caffrey, of Kiama, and the other by Robert Charles Smith, of Balmain. Mr. D'Arcy Irvine of the Crown Law Department, appeared for the inspector of police to object to the applications being granted. Mr. J. C. Gannon, M.L.C., and Mr. P. C. Pratt appeared for Robert Smith; and Mr. Keran Ryan and Mr. A. A. Lysaght, for Charles M'Caffrey. A number of witnesses gave evidence in support of both applications. For the police evidence was given by Mr. H. A. Blomfield on behalf of the Port Kembla Harbour Works; Mr. Wesley Pryor, for the Adelaide Steamship Company; Mr. Robert Dodd, Sergeant Noble, William George Tuckett, Constable M'Intosh, and Mr. R. A. Fiaschi. The further hearing was adjourned till May 15.

At the police court to-day Ah Lat, a Chinese gardener, was fined £3, or 21 days in prison, for having a quantity of opium in his possession.

First-class Constable S. M'Intosh, of Wollongong, has been transferred to Berrima.

MUNICIPAL.

MUDGEE, Tuesday.

A special meeting of the Mudgee Council decided to accept the offer of G. T. Elgar to instal electric light in the town. The agreement is for 15 years, but is subject to the approval of the council's solicitor.

BATHURST, Tuesday.

Miss Josephine Marks, soprano, was accorded a civic reception on Monday afternoon. Miss Marks was welcomed as a native of the city.

The Chief Railway Commissioner, Mr. Johnson, arrived at Bathurst this afternoon from Mudgee on a western tour of inspection. He will leave to-morrow morning for the west.

BOWRAL, Tuesday.

The Bowral District Teachers' Association held its annual meeting on Saturday, when Mr. W. T. Fraser presided over a good attendance of members. The president welcomed to the teachers' meeting Mr. Inspector Henry, who, in responding, spoke of the great value of the work of such associations. The committee's report showed a satisfactory year's work. The election of officers resulted as follows:—President, Mr. A. E. Crane; vice-president, Mr. D. J. Hayes, B.A.; treasurer, Miss Frost; secretary, Mr. W. E. Hunt. At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. A. E. Crane presented the retiring president (Mr. W. T. Fraser), on behalf of members of the association, with a Morris chair.

Mr. J. W. Bardsley, of Milson's Point, has been selected from 12 applicants as manager of the Bowral gasworks, in succession to Mr. J. Simpson, resigned.

Mr. James Mackie, a resident of the district for about half-a-century, died suddenly at Burrawang on Saturday from heart failure, at the age of 75 years. The deceased was one of the most successful farmers of the district.

COOLAMON, Tuesday.

The local teachers held their annual outing on Saturday at Kirkwood's Farm. Advantage was taken of the occasion to make a presentation to Dr. Florance, who had delivered a series of lectures on "first aid" to the association. The souvenir took the form of a Tantalus liquor stand, and was presented by Mr. Egan, in a felicitous speech. Dr. Florance suitably responded, and stated it would give him pleasure to continue such lectures. The day was spent so pleasantly that a resolution was arrived at to hold similar meetings quarterly.

MOLONG, Tuesday.

Mr. C. J. Ward, council clerk, has resigned owing to his appointment to a similar position at Deniliquin.

MUDGEE, Monday.

At the Mudgee police court this morning Sarah and John Wheeler were proceeded against for obstructing the Mudgee Council's labourers in clearing a watercourse which runs through defendants' property. Mr. Harvey Everingham appeared for the council, and Mr. George Davidson for the defence. The case hinged on the point whether the watercourse was an original watercourse. Several old residents were examined as to the course the water took 40 years ago. The Court visited the spot, and a surveyor's map 44 years old was produced. The defendants were fined £5 and £2 respectively.

MILLTHORPE, Tuesday.

The death occurred on Monday of Mr. Albert Blackmore from double pneumonia. He was 30 years of age.

YOUNG, Tuesday.

Mr. C. B. Primrose, goods clerk at the local railway station, is leaving the department, after 15 years' service, to take up an important appointment with Messrs. Wills and Co., of Brisbane.

Mr. W. H. Carroll, headmaster, Young District School, who has been transferred to Narremburn, was given a send-off by the school children and leading citizens on Friday, and presented with a set of cutlery. The Mayor occupied the chair, and enthusiastic encomiums were passed by speakers on the excellent work Mr. Carroll has done here during his eight years in charge of the school. Mr. J. M'Dowall, M.A., headmaster of Taree District School, succeeds Mr. Carroll.

Mrs. Margaret Ellen Hobson, a very old resident of the district, died here on Monday.

YERONG CREEK, Tuesday.

At a well-attended meeting on Saturday last of the Yerong Creek branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Association, it was unanimously decided to approach the Deputy Postmaster-General with a view to establishing a telephone exchange here.

LATE SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The two-days' fixture of the Ascot Racing Club commences this afternoon, when an interesting programme of pony and galloway racing will be played out. The track is excellent going, and large fields may be expected. The transit service includes special trams to the racecourse gates, while the ordinary traffic to Botany will also be available, and the first race is timed to start at 2.15 p.m. The results may be anticipated as under:—Novice Handicap: Acushla, Loreen, Our George. Fourteen-two Handicap: Merry Widow, Last Chance, Merton Queen. Fourteen Hands Maiden Handicap: Red Gipsy, Lord Elwyn, Asphodel. Flying Handicap: Am Singh, Rose Ivy, Bessie Brown. Fourteen-one Handicap: Tyche, Easy Molly, Sygnet. Ascot Handicap: Haut To, Lord Lunn, Argyle. Encourage Stakes: Lavender Bay, Newcastle, Addie Merv.

The racing mare Hilda Merv, who is engaged in the Park Stakes and Shorts Handicap at Canterbury Park on Saturday, has had her name changed to Grafton Girl.

The ex-New Zealand hurdle racer Pakau has been purchased by Mr. R. W. Clancy, and has joined J. W. Noud's team at Randwick, which also comprises the jumpers Contorp, Grateful, The Reckoning, and Poppyfield.

The transfer of the Boolaroo Racing Club's August fixture from the 26th to the 22nd has been approved of by the A.J.C.

A heavy fog at Randwick yesterday morning prevented the timing of the usual early workers. Malthusian ran six furlongs at a useful pace, and Sourabaya went a furlong further in 1m 35½s. Miocene, assisted by Combination, cast six furlongs behind in 1m 20s, and Nangar, Rhoebus, and Bubble Up were not asked to do much over a similar journey. Among those that put in useful work were:—Leuron, The Reckoning, Grist, La Pistol, Royal Merv, Pomfrey, Contorp, Jacamar, Gladswood, Safrano, Porch, Patronatus, Pot Dance, Belle Vive, and Pakau.

At noon to-day Messrs. Wm. Inglis and Son will offer for sale by public auction, at their bazaar, Pitt-street, the racehorses Nobleite, Salladay, Jaguar, Kennell, Kynock, and three unnamed mares.

Our Perth (W.A.) correspondent telegraphs that the stipendiary stewards yesterday continued the inquiry into the running of Flintcliff in the Canning Park Handicap on Saturday. The explanations tendered by the owner and trainer were accepted; but the jockey, James Flynn, was cautioned for having ridden a bad race.

RETIREMENT OF MR. JOHN MAYO.

WEST MAITLAND, Tuesday.

Mr. John Mayo, who, with the exception of Mr. James Wilson, senr., is probably the oldest racing man in Australia, has definitely announced his retirement from the turf. He has presented his colours, the well-known blue and black jacket, to his son, Ernest Mayo, who is engaged training a few horses at Rutherford, and has disposed of all his racing and breeding stock. Among the earliest horses he owned were Lord John, Express, and Rockgidgiel, but the first win to bring him into prominence was with Janitor in the Hawkesbury Grand Handicap, which he carried off in 1877, and he and the late E. Jones won large sums over the victory. The same year Janitor won the Wagga Gold Cup.

MURRUMBIDGEE TURF CLUB.

MARY GRAFTON WINS TOWN PLATE.

WAGGA, Tuesday.

The autumn meeting of the Murrumbidgee Turf Club was commenced to-day in fine but dull weather. There was a large attendance. Owing to the protracted dry weather the course was very hard, and there were great clouds of dust during the running. Contrary to custom, the Cup was placed in the programme for the second day. Large general entries were received, and the racing proved very interesting.

Results:—

First Hurdle Race, 2m.—Mr. C. Wyne's b g Dollar Bill by Playbill (imp.)—Nellie Gray, 5yrs., 10st 12lb (Moon), 1; Mr. G. P. Wheeler's b g Master Gambol, 6yrs, 9st 12lb, 2. Other starter: Mucra, 10st 2lb, inc. 1olb over. Betting: 5 to 4 on Dollar Bill, 5 to 4 v Master Gambol, 5 to 1 v Mucra. Mucra dropped out, and gave up the chase at the back of the course. Dollar Bill, jumping beautifully, landed over the last hurdle several lengths clear, and won pulling up in the record time of 3m [illegible].

Maiden Plate, 6f.—Mr. H. Norris's ch c Coronation, by Pongano—Carnation, 3yrs, 8st 7lb (Waddups), 1; Mr. P. Ledin's ch g High Flown, 8st 7lb (Hyland), 2; Mr. J. McFarland's b g Zim, 8st 11lb (A. Hamill), 3. Inverbox, 8st 10lb, also started. Betting: 6 to 4 on the winner, 4 to 1 v High Flown, 3 to 1 each v Zim and Inverbox. Coronation led into the straight, and, stalling off High Flown, won easily by a length; several lengths between second and third, with Inverbox last. Time, 1m 18½s.

[illegible] Stakes, 6f.—Mr. J. Crenell's blk h Lama, by Lochbolt—Lady Navin, 5yrs, 8st (Chalmers), 1; Mr. W. [illegible]'s ch m Stitch-in-Time, 6yrs, 8st 3lb (Higgins), 2; Mr. A. Williams' ch g Splinterwood, 4yrs, 7st 11lb (Brown), 3. Other starters: Lady Melena, 9st 6lb; Red Bow, 8st 10lb; Ulmus, 8st 5lb. Betting: 6 to 4 v Lama, 5 to 2 v Lady Melena, 5 to 1 Red Bow, 7 to 1 each v Splinterwood and Ulmus, 10 to 1 v Stitch-in-Time. Lama led all the way, and won comfortably by two lengths from Stitch-in-Time, Splinterwood just beating Lady Melena for third place. Time, 1m 15s.

Town Plate, 1m.—Mr. P. Hoysted's br m Mary Grafton, by Grafton (imp.)—Elaine, 6yrs, 9st 6lb (Hyland), 1; Mr. C. Smith's ch h Aragain, aged, 8st 7lb (Gladigau), 2; Mr. W. Alston's b g Wongajong, 4yrs, 7st 9lb (Williams), 3. Firestick, 7st 12lb, also started. Betting: 6 to 4 v Aragain, 5 to 2 v Mary Grafton, 3 to 1 v Wongajong, 7 to 1 v Firestick. After a long delay at the post, Aragain made most use of a bad start, but was quickly headed by Mary Grafton, who set out to win from start to finish, and passing the six furlongs post was three lengths in front of Aragain, while Firestick, who was left standing, pulled up and took no further part in the race. Mary Grafton maintained her lead over the hill, but was challenged by Aragain half-way down the straight, and after a great race lasted long enough to win by a long neck. Time, 1m 42s.

[illegible] Stakes, 7f.—Mr. W. Frazier's ch m Stitch-in-Time, by Merv (imp.)—Rock Altar, 6yrs, 9st 12lb (Moon), 1; Mr. J. Roach's blk c Samarion, 9st 7lb (Mooney), 2; Mr. H. W. Mason's ch h Talbingo, 8st [illegible], 3. Other starters: Microscope, 11st; Ruffo, 11st; Dewhurst, 9st 9lb; Glendook, 8st 13lb; Gauline, 8st 12lb; M.D.R., 8st 12lb; Trinal, 8st 10lb; Loco, 8st 9lb; Jack London, 8st 7lb; Strathbogie, 8st 7lb. Betting: 2 to 1 v [illegible], 4 to 1 each v Stitch-in-Time and Gauline. Won by a length. Time, 1m 30½s.

First Trial Handicap, 6f.—Mr. W. H. Mate's br m Guiseppina, by Grafton (imp.)—Radium, 4yrs, 9st (Waddups), 1; Mr. P. J. Cox's blk m Lady Abdy, 4yrs, 7st 11lb (Woods), 2; Mr. J. J. McGrath's b m Hermindale, 4yrs, 9st (Hyland), 3. Other starters: Gabion, 8st; Rondelay, 7st 9lb; Ganana, 7st 3lb; Naughty, 7st; Nani-Addy, 7st; Zim, 6st 7lb. Betting: 6 to 4 v Guiseppina, 3 to 1 v Gabion, 4 to 1 v Hermindale, 5 to 1 v Lady Abdy, 10 to 1 v others. When fairly in the straight the favourite asserted herself, and won nicely by a length and a half, with Hermindale close up third. Time, 1m 15½s.

TAMWORTH AMATEUR RACE CLUB.

FOOTBALL.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The Barrier Ranges Football Association last night agreed with the Sydney Association to play a combined New South Wales team in Broken Hill on July 29 and a day following. From these matches the team will be selected to represent New South Wales in Adelaide at the interstate carnival. The proposed match with Boulder City was adjourned.

MILLTHORPE, Tuesday.

The first match of the season played by the local club was played at Springhill on Saturday, between the Millthorpe and Springhill clubs. The result was a win for Springhill by 19 to 6. Mr. E. Lohan refereed the match.

CRICKET.

FORBES, Tuesday.

The final match in the Eugowra cup cricket competition took place at Eugowra on Saturday, when the South Forbes team defeated Eugowra easily. The latter team went in first and made 215. South Forbes made 216 for the loss of two wickets.

The Pennant Committee decided yesterday that the Rawson Cup contest, which was set down for Saturday next, should be postponed until Saturday, May 13, on account of the New South Wales v Ballarat match having been fixed for Saturday next.

CYCLING AND MOTORING.

UNION NOTES.

The Central Cumberland Club is holding a 10 miles road race next Saturday, May 6. Entries close to-night. Late entries will not be accepted.

Francis Birtles, the overlanding cyclist, says that he is now making arrangements to depart in about two weeks' time for a bicycle trip extending over about 8000 miles. He is rather reticent as to the exact route that he will cycle over, but states that he will use his B.S.A. Universal bicycle on the trip.

LEAGUE NOTES.

Nominations for the Australian Club's five miles members' road race, to be run next Saturday (not June 6, as already announced), will close to-night (Wednesday), at 9 o'clock, with the general secretary of the League of N.S.W. Wheelmen, W. A. Stanton, at McGrath's Hotel. A good prize list is offered, and if sufficient entries are not forthcoming the race will be postponed. The race is to be run over the Homebush course.

The council of the League of N.S.W. Wheelmen meet at McGrath's Hotel, Castlereagh-street, to-night, at 8 o'clock. The main business is the consideration of certain disqualifications imposed on riders by country clubs and the League of Victorian Wheelmen.

C. Connington, hon. secretary of the Australian Club, states that the Burwood league club has accepted his club's challenge to a teams' race. It is probable that the contest will take place on May 13, although the Australian Club members would prefer the contest in June, with a prize list of £3 3s per man. It is likely that the Burwood league club will accept the latter proposition, as there is great rivalry between the two clubs.

MOTOR NOTES.

The "Autocar" has an interesting and instructive article on engine construction in the first April number entitled "Car and Aero Practice Compared." Special attention is given to the rotating cylinder design such as the "Gnome" engine, which has proved so successful in aviation work, and it is suggested by the writer of the article that motor car manufacturers would do well to study the various points of the engines specially manufactured and designed for aero work, with the view of adopting some of the salient features that lead to light weight and compact construction, two important features, apart from the main question, reliability, in the modern motor car.

The work in connection with the building of the new motor garage of Messrs. John McGrath and Co., Ltd., is progressing well. When all the alterations are completed the building will be a great improvement to that part of Pitt-street. In the new garage there is plenty of floor space, and any car can easily be handled inside the building without a turntable. Another good feature is the roof lighting, which, in the main part of the garage, will do away with any necessity for artificial lighting. Mr. A. A. Herman, the manager for the company, states that he has just placed one of the latest model Cadillac cars with Mr. Leonard Dangar, of Warialda, and that a shipment of Cadillac 30-h.p., with a supply of spare parts for the old Cadillacs, is due on May 20.

MOTOR BOAT CLUB OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

ANNUAL OCEAN RACE.

The ocean race annually promoted by the Motor Boat Club of New South Wales, is to be held next Saturday over a course from Rose Bay to Broken Bay and back. This race carries the standard cup, which the winner holds for one year. The competitors are to start opposite the Rose Bay Club-house, at half-past seven on Saturday morning, and proceed to Broken Bay, rounding a boat buoyed there, and they are expected back between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Hon. Secretary E. C. Griffiths states that the race has only drawn four entries, as follow:—Billiken (Messrs. Edgecliffe and Markell), Rowenah (Mr. A. Taylor), Helene (Dr. Foster), Betty (Mr. C. King). Mr. B. P. Keatey will be judge and starter, and Mr. W. C. Crawford timekeeper. This event is open to all seagoing boats, and is a handicap.

LAWN TENNIS.

NEW SOUTH WALES CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT.

FIRST DAY.

The annual New South Wales championship tournament, which is being conducted by the New South Wales L.T. Association this year for the first time, was commenced yesterday. A heavy programme was run through, most of the matches being handicaps.

In the singles championship Rice defeated Roxburgh in straight sets. The University man, though playing brilliantly, was not sufficiently accurate to cope with the consistently hard driving of Rice. Kidston defeated E. Hicks without losing a set. The winner was in good form, and kept Hicks continually on the move. Miss Blain, of Victoria, beat Miss Williams, who was not in such good form as last year.

Clark and Mrs. Wolstenholme had an unexpectedly easy win from Rudder and Miss Le Neveu in the challenge pairs. The winners have played in partnership before, and in this respect had an advantage over their opponents.

The following were the results:—

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The match of 16,000 up between Lindrum and Williams was continued to-day. The scores now stand: Lindrum (in play), 2668; Williams, 1442. The chief breaks were Lindrum 90, 84, 83, 80, 218, 142, 341 unfinished (339 off the red); Williams, 102 and 65.

The inter-institute billiard championship for teams of eight from each institute will commence this evening. There are 11 teams entered to compete for the shield given by Heiron and Smith. Cues and cases by Alcock and Co. Home and home matches are to be played, with the exception of the Glebe, four of whose players started on Tuesday last:—The following is the draw:—West Sydney v Newtown, Leichhardt v Waterloo-Alexandria, Botany v Marrickville, Woollahra v Balmain, Glebe v Rozelle, at Rozelle. Manly a bye.

BOXING.

BLACKMORE v RUDD.

The postponed match between Jack Blackmore and Bill Rudd will be decided at the Stadium to-night, Rudd having satisfied Dr. Maitland that his condition is such as to allow him to engage in a ring contest without danger. The men will be in the ring at 8.30.

GLYNN v STOKER HARRIS.

At the Gaiety Athletic Club this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Paddy Glynn, of H.M.S. Prometheus, will meet Stoker Harris, of H.M.S. Powerful, in a 20-round contest for £100 a side and the championship of the British fleet.

SOUTH SYDNEY HARRIERS' TOURNAMENT.

The second round of the South Sydney Harriers' amateur boxing and wrestling tournament will be decided at the Gaiety Athletic Club to-night. The first contest will commence at 8 o'clock.

FORAN DEFEATS WALLIS.

Police intervention stopped the Larry Foran-Joe Wallis contest in the sixth round of what was scheduled as a 20-round bout at the Gaiety Athletic Club last night, the decision going to Foran.

"LINSEED COMPOUND," for Coughs and Colds. Lozenge [illegible] imitation.—Advt.

LABOUR TROUBLES.

PELAW-MAIN DISPUTE.

KURRI KURRI, Tuesday.

The Pelaw-Main difficulty is unchanged. The men meet and discuss the position over and over again, but no progress towards a settlement is arrived at. The officials succeeded in securing an interview with the manager (Mr. R. Scott). They told him that they were quite willing to go to work on the one-skip condition. The manager replied that he would require a guarantee from each man going down that he would fill two skips at one time. The manager's terms were conveyed to a meeting of about 600 men, who decided that they would not accept them, and they then returned to their homes.

THE TWO-SKIPS DIFFICULTY.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

At to-day's meeting of the delegate board of the Colliery Employees' Federation a report of the present trouble at Pelaw-Main colliery was considered. The board decided that the miners had adopted the correct attitude in refusing the manager's demands to fill two skips at the one time.

IDLE TERALBA COLLIERIES.

DELEGATE BOARD SUPPORTS MEN.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

The miners at the Teralba group of collieries are still on strike. Their position was the subject of consideration by the delegate board of the Colliery Employees' Federation to-day. The rate for shooting and filling coal at the Teralba collieries, which comprise the Pacific, Northumberland, Rhondda, and Northern Extended pits, is fixed according to the ascertained selling price of Teralba coal. For the first quarter of this year the ascertained selling price fell from 7s 9d to 6s 9d. It is now stated that there has been a further decrease to 6s 6d per ton. The delegate board, after considering the matter to-day, decided that, while the board was agreeable to the men continuing work at the rate prevailing last quarter until an amicable arrangement could be brought about, it was opposed to the men having to put up with the further reduction in the rate for shooting and filling. The board accordingly decided to support the men, and the matter of endeavouring to effect a settlement has been left to the executive officers of the federation.

SHORTLAND COLLIERY.

A REJECTED PROPOSAL.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

With reference to the dispute at Shortland colliery regarding the shooting and filling of machine-cut coal, a suggestion was made that the matter be dealt with by a board similar to that appointed to deal with the Pelaw-Main trouble. The suggestion was placed before the proprietors by the men, and a reply was received from Mr. A. R. Cant to the effect that the proprietors would consent to the men going back to work, providing the whole matter was referred to the board. This proposal was rejected by the delegate board of the Colliery Employees' Federation at its meeting to-day.

KENTIA PALM SEED TRADE.

The Minister in charge of the Department of Agriculture, Mr. Trefle, having considered the report by Mr. Langwell, the Commissioner appointed to inquire into the Kentia palm seed trade of Lord Howe Island, has decided to recommend the Minister for Lands to cancel all the existing permissive occupancies on the island, as proposed by the Commissioner. He will also recommend the Cabinet, with the consent of the Minister for Lands, to appoint the Western Lands Commissioners as a board to control the Kentia palm seed business, on the lines suggested by Mr Langwell.

As this has been a vexed question for some considerable time, the Minister thinks that in the interests of the islanders, and also the public, finality should be reached as early as possible; but in adopting the report of the Commissioner he will see that justice is done and full consideration given to all existing rights.

PARRAMATTA DISTRICT.

THE BALANCE OF POWER.

The balance of power in the Rookwood Council has been disturbed by one of the Mayoral party going over to the opposition, and now the opposition is carrying out some drastic reforms. At the last meeting the first move made was to separate the offices of town clerk and clerk of works and engineer. The next move was to carry a resolution dispensing with the services of the assistant town clerk; and, following this, a resolution was carried to the effect that the overseer of works be given work in another capacity, and the council take steps to obtain a practical man at £4 a week to have full control, under the Mayor, in the laying out of all works, after approval by the council; full power with respect to the employment of the labourers; to be capable of advising on road formation and preparing estimates of quantities, and drawing rough draft plans of work proposed. After this effort the council adjourned till Wednesday.

POLICE RETIRING AGE.

At a meeting of the Executive Council yesterday the appointment of a committee to inquire into all cases concerning the retention of the services of police officers after attaining the age of 60 years was approved. The committee consists of Mr. E. C. Day, Inspector-General of Police; Dr. J. Ashburton Thompson, Chief Medical Officer of the Government; and Mr. F. A. Coghlan, Under-Secretary, Chief Secretary's Department. The duties of the committee will include consideration of the case of Superintendent Johnston, of Bathurst.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

NEW RECORD ESTABLISHED.

GOULBURN, Tuesday.

In the annual match between the Goulburn Railway Ambulance and Randwick Rifle clubs—seven shots at 200, 500, and 600 yards, 10 men a side—Randwick won by 967 to 961. As the State record for an interclub match under these conditions was 952, made by the Granville Technical College team against Goulburn Civilian Rifle Club on Easter Monday, 1910, Randwick has the credit of putting up new figures. In the shooting at the 600yds the light was difficult. Scores:—

Randwick.—Sec. A. R. Stephenson, 33, 35, 33—101; H. Rutter, 34, 35, 31—100; F. Greer, 34, 35, 31—100; F. G. Harrison, 34, 35, 30—99; Treas. W. Webster, 32, 34, 32—98; J. Nicholls, 34, 32, 30—96; A. Goulburn Railway Ambulance.—W. Faux, 34, 33, 34—101; Capt. Ingleton, 35, 33, 32—100; W. Coulter, 35, 34, 29—98; W. Phillips, 32, 31, 34—97; R. Funnell, 34, 33, 30—97; J. Cooper, 34, 33, 29—96; Sec. W. Funnell, 33, 32, 29—94; C. Morris, 32, 33, 29—94; F. Bluett, 30, 34, 28—92; F. Wright, 35, 32, 25—92. Totals, 334, 328, 299; grand total, 961.

SINGLETON, Tuesday.

The chief scores in the second shoot of Singleton Rifle Club for the June quarter, seven shots each at 200 and 300 yards, were as follows:—Res. H. J. Harris, 32, 34—66; Capt. A. Simmons, 34, 31—65; Res. J. E. Britt, 33, 31—64; Private W. Taylor, 32, 31—63; Res. H. W. Worms, 33, 30—63; Res. J. A. Bartrop, 33, 26—59; Res. C. Sherwood, 28, 30—58; Res. A. R. Meyn, 29, 29—58; Res. E. J. Bourke, 30, 26—56; Res. W. H. Pike, 31, 27—58.

PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION LIST of the new
MANLY ELECTRIC SUPPLY CO., LTD., is closing.

Application has to be made at once for shares in the new Manly Electric Supply Co., Ltd., which is being formed to take over the present electrical works as a going concern. The phenomenal growth of Manly has caused the present supply to be totally inadequate, and next year would have seen the shortage still greater. Manly in four years has doubled its population, and is constantly increasing in popularity. 11,500 shares of £1 each are offered for public subscription, payable 5s on application. The auditors' report shows an estimated net profit of 10 per cent. after providing for all contingencies. Applications for shares are to be made to the brokers of the company, Messrs. Titmus and Quinan, and R. S. Hill, 109 Pitt-street; the auditors, Messrs. Johnson and Johnson, George and Wynyard streets; the secretary, Alexander Spence, 1 and 4 Imperial-buildings, 16 O'Connell-street; or the Bank of Australasia.—Advt.

BICYCLES AND MOTOR CARS.

TO RIDE A "B. & B." IS TO GET THE GREATEST ENJOYMENT FROM CYCLING

There is little doubt that cycling when done on a good machine—is productive of great enjoyment and much physical good.

But there is every necessity to see that one's mount is reliable, easy running, and light in weight.

Otherwise the enjoyment is likely to be turned to aversion—the pleasure of pedalling becomes a work of drudgery.

That is why we ask you to investigate the merits of "B. and B." machines before finally deciding on just the machine to purchase.

We don't make all the good cycles—nor claim to—but at £11 we know you cannot get a lighter, stronger, more reliable, finer appearing machine than our Model 2. We ask you to inspect one, so that you can see for yourself that what we say is so.

If you can't get in during the daytime we will be pleased to see you any Friday night at our Pitt-street Depot.

We are open till 9 that evening—for your convenience.

OVERCOAT ECONOMY.

A tailor-made Overcoat serves the same purpose as a shop coat, but looks better, fits better, and wears longer.

For the sake of your self-respect, to say nothing of your good judgment, wear this Winter an "E. T. Walsh" Overcoat, a reliable, graceful, stylish, warmth-giving, comfortable Coat, that will give you years of service.

Our name is a guarantee of perfection.

Call in to-day and have a look at the fine selection of fashionable Overcoatings at present on hand.

E.T.WALSH, EXPERT TAILOR,
330 GEORGE-STREET, SYDNEY.

IT'S TOO BAD SHE'S FAT.
IT'S TOO BAD SHE'S FAT.

How often do we hear that expression. "She would be quite good-looking were she not so fat!" And still the poor girl has probably dieted, exercised, and laced, without the slightest apparent result. There is one thing though, that she certainly has not done—that is, taken Formettes.

FORMETTES CURE FATNESS

Had she done so, she wouldn't be so fat. They are not a drug, but just pleasant little tablets, that reduce you to any desired degree without causing the slightest ill-effects or inconvenience. When you take Formettes, you for they actually increase the appetite, and at the same time prevent the good turning into useless burdensome fat. They, on the contrary, ensure the food that you eat making good, healthy blood, bone, and tissue, thereby improving the health in quite a remarkable manner.

STOMACH TROUBLES DEPART when you start to take Formettes. Breathing becomes easier, heart palpitations cease, and you soon wonder how you so long consented to bear the many ills that Fat People so needlessly suffer. Formettes are sold by all Chemists at 3/3 per carton, or may be obtained direct from S. H. HENSHALL, Chemist, 246 Clarendon-street, South Melbourne.
Stocks held by ANTHONY HORDERN and SONS, PATTERSON BROS., and WASHINGTON SOUL, Chemists; ELLIOTT BROS., Wholesale.

EVERYTHING IN OPTICS.

No matter what you require in Lenses, Frames, or Eyeglass Clips we have it, and at the right price. For instance:—

TORIC LENSES.
—Curved in the surface just as the eye is these lenses bring a wider range of vision to the eye than do ordinary flat lenses.

CHLOROPHYLLE LENSES.
—Take all the glare out of Electric Light, softening it and making it easier to the sight, but not otherwise altering the object vision.

KRYPTOK LENSES.
Bifocals whose reading lens is enclosed within the distance lens by an electrical process of delicate mechanism. No visible division line to encounter the eye; no attached segment to loosen, chip, collect dust, and drop off. The latest idea in optics and saves you having two pairs of glasses—one for reading—the other for distance.

DR. WAUGH'S UNEQUALL
BAKING POWDER

MAKES ALL THE DIFFERENCE.

The addition of a small quantity of Dr. Waugh's Unequalled Baking Powder makes a wonderful difference to Scones, Cakes, and Pastry.

Prove the truth of this statement yourself. Try, first of all, the effect of doing without it, or using the ordinary self-raising flour. Then, in another batch, put the Baking Powder. You will at once notice the difference. The last batch is wholesome, light, and digestible, and if placed on the table at the same time as the others decided preference will be shown for those made with Dr. Waugh's Baking Powder.

Once become a user of this Baking Powder, and you will consider it as important as flour. A little goes a long way, and a small tin, costing you 6d or 1/, is sufficient to impress you with the fact that it is indispensable. The 6d and 1/ tins are the new style, and have patent lever lids.

COMPETITION RESULTS.

In this paper on Friday, April 21st, was a large advertisement, announcing the final results of the competition. 19 CONSOLATION PRIZES of 10/ each were distributed in recognition of the keen interest of competitors.
